Item 5. Other Events and Regulation FD Disclosure.

We have explored several alternative methods to market our licensed ethnic shave cream at the least possible cost. We have determined that conventional marketing to distributors who sell products to large retail and drug stores is not feasible for us because of the requisite marketing and promotional expenditures. We believe that the amount of the expenditures would be in excess of $250,000. We believe that a more cost effective approach to distribute the shave cream would involve small health care and drug chains which sell products primarily to the targeted market for the shave cream. We have recently had preliminary discussions with a marketing and advertising company that handles products in the ethnic beauty industry. At our request, ADM Tronics Unlimited, Inc. has agreed to furnish a sample of the shave cream to the advertising and marketing company. That advertising and marketing company, which is aware of our limited resources, has expressed interest in the shave cream provided that it finds that the product is effective in its intended use. We have not discussed any prospective terms with that company. We cannot assure you that the marketing and advertising company will find that the shave cream is effective or, if so, that we will be able to agree upon acceptable terms with it.

We have also explored several alternative methods to market the Aurex-3. ADM Tronics Unlimited, Inc. has verbally advised our president that it would grant us the right to market the Aurex-3 in China. We then provided a sample Aurex-3 to a Chinese distributor for its evaluation. The distributor has advised us, on the basis of limited use, the sample has not been found to be effective. We are presently reevaluating our strategy to market the Aurex-3.

Our cash resources are presently approximately $1,500. Our president has agreed to purchase 2,500 shares of our common stock at $2.00 per share. We have not attempted to raise any additional capital because we believe that if were successful, the terms would be disadvantageous to us. It is our intent to attempt to raise additional capital at a subsequent date. Naturally, we can not assure you that we will ever be successful in raising additional capital on terms not disadvantageous to us or at all.
