VALIDUS INCREASED OFFER PROVIDES COMPELLING VALUE TO STOCKHOLDERS

Transatlantic stockholders will decide the outcome, not the Transatlantic board

PEMBROKE, BERMUDA, November 4, 2011 - Validus Holdings, Ltd. (NYSE: VR) (Validus) today noted the formal rejection of its increased offer for Transatlantic Holdings, Inc. (NYSE: TRH) (Transatlantic) by Transatlantic s board of directors via a Schedule 14D-9 filing. Validus believes that by rejecting its increased offer, the Transatlantic board is not acting in the best interests of its stockholders and is attempting to frustrate stockholders ability to realize the compelling value of Validus increased offer, which had a total value of $55.60 per Transatlantic share based on Validus closing share price on November 3, 2011, subject to the impact of the Transatlantic share repurchases described below.

Edward J. Noonan, Validus Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, said, The Transatlantic board s formal rejection of Validus increased offer is not in the best interest of its stockholders. Transatlantic s ill-advised and questionable pursuit of an alternative theoretical transaction, a third party-sponsored run-off, a minority investment from a third party or a go it alone approach, presents significant risks and delays as compared to a Validus transaction. Because of the Transatlantic board s regrettable actions, we are moving forward with our Consent Solicitation and Exchange Offer, which will empower Transatlantic stockholders to determine the future of their investment and obtain the superior value of our increased offer.

As the Transatlantic board continues to repurchase Transatlantic shares from selling stockholders after October 31, 2011, the Transatlantic board causes the aggregate amount available for the $2.00 cash per share pre-closing dividend to be paid to all Transatlantic stockholders in the Validus transaction to be reduced on a dollar-for-dollar basis. Validus believes that delivering Transatlantic s capital to only selling stockholders does not serve the best interests of all Transatlantic stockholders.

Edgar Filing: TRANSATLANTIC HOLDINGS INC - Form 425

Validus will soon be mailing to Transatlantic stockholders consent solicitation materials, including a BLUE consent card, which will contain important information as to why Validus believes Transatlantic stockholders need to replace the Transatlantic board with Validus highly qualified and independent nominees.

All materials related to Validus increased offer for Transatlantic can be found at www.transactioninfo.com/validus or on the Investor Relations section of Validus website, located at www.validusholdings.com.
