SUBJECT TO COMPLETION, DATED MAY 7, 2008

To the Stockholders of National and vFinance:

On November 7, 2007, National and vFinance entered into an agreement and plan of merger by and among National, vFinance and vFin Acquisition Corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of National. In the proposed merger, vFin Acquisition Corporation will be merged with and into vFinance, so that vFinance will become a wholly owned subsidiary of National and all stockholders of vFinance (except those who properly exercise dissenters' rights under Delaware law) will become stockholders of National. If the merger is completed:

National stockholders will continue to own their existing shares of National common stock, $0.02 par value per share; all of the outstanding shares of vFinance common stock, par value $0.01 per share, will be exchanged for a total of 7,788,909 shares of National common stock at an exchange ratio of 0.14 shares of National common stock for each share of vFinance common stock;

all of the 18,354,752 vFinance employee stock options and 3,111,595 vFinance common stock purchase warrants expected to be outstanding at the closing of the merger will represent the right to receive a total of approximately 3,005,289 shares of National common stock based on the exchange ratio of 0.14;

Mark Goldwasser, Christopher Dewey and Marshall Geller will remain members of the National board of directors. National shall also be entitled to appoint an additional nominee, reasonably acceptable to vFinance;

Leonard Sokolow, Charles Modica and Jorge Ortega have been nominated by vFinance and will join the National board of directors effective at the closing of the merger;

Leonard Sokolow will receive $1,150,000 in connection with the termination of his employment as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of vFinance;

National will amend its certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of common stock from 30,000,000 shares to 50,000,000 shares.

Leonard Sokolow, vFinance's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, and another stockholder of vFinance have agreed to vote an aggregate of approximately 14.2% of the total number of vFinance common stock currently eligible to vote FOR the approval of the merger agreement. If the merger agreement is approved, vFinance will survive the merger as a wholly owned subsidiary of National and will still be named vFinance after the merger and all vFinance stockholders (except those who properly exercise dissenters' rights under Delaware law) will become stockholders of National.

It is contemplated that vFinance common stockholders will hold, in the aggregate, approximately 40% of the issued and outstanding shares of National common stock following the merger, on both an as issued and on a fully-diluted basis. A vote FOR the agreement and plan of merger will be effective whether or not the actual ownership percentages differ from the estimated ownership percentages set forth above.

National's common stock is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board under the symbol NHLD. On May 2, 2008, the closing, high and low price for National common stock reported was $1.60 per share. On May 2, 2008, National had 8,622,628 shares of common stock outstanding.

vFinance's common stock is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board under the symbol VFIN. On May 2, 2008, the closing, high and low price for vFinance common stock reported was $0.17 per share, $0.18 and $0.17, respectively. On May 2, 2008 vFinance had 55,335,066 shares of common stock outstanding.

After careful consideration, the vFinance board of directors, upon the unanimous recommendation of the special committee of vFinance, has determined that the merger is in the best interests of its stockholders, and unanimously recommends voting FOR approval and adoption of the agreement and plan of merger and related transactions.

This document provides you with detailed information about the proposed merger. We encourage you to read this entire document carefully. In particular, please see the section entitled Risk Factors starting on page 20 of this document for a discussion of risks associated with the merger. The merger cannot be completed unless vFinance's stockholders approve the agreement and plan of merger and vFinance has scheduled a special meeting for its stockholders to vote on the agreement and plan of merger. In addition, we cannot complete the merger until we have obtained certain regulatory approvals. The date, time and place of the meetings are as follows:

TABLE OF CONTENTS

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE PROPOSED MERGER

Q1. Why are National and vFinance proposing the merger? (See pages 51 -52)

The boards of directors of National and vFinance identified several reasons for the merger, including the anticipated synergies from the merger resulting from a larger entity with greater critical mass, lower expenses, a stronger capital structure, the opportunity to expand the volume of business and the potential to expand into areas of activity that would provide additional revenues on a recurring basis as well as the opportunity to retain and attract qualified personnel and registered representatives.

In the opinion of the respective boards of National and vFinance, the proposed merger represents a next step forward in the business, financial, and compliance improvement of vFinance and National. By combining, National and vFinance can more effectively and efficiently manage the process of improving operations and performance.

Management of both companies believes the merger will result in significant human and capital savings and will eliminate duplicative costs associated with complying with their responsibilities as public companies.

The combined entity will not only be able to reduce costs and consolidate operations and management teams, but will be able to provide a platform for brokers to offer their client base a broader scope of products and services.

vFinance intends to use this more sophisticated product mix to attract professional brokers with a higher level of assets under management.

National and vFinance are both publicly traded companies, and their common stock is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. The rapidly changing regulatory and compliance environment for public companies was a determinant factor in the proposed merger. The Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 and the Securities and Exchange Commission (the SEC) regulations governing public companies have increased the costs of compliance for public companies. As a result of Sarbanes-Oxley and these regulations, public companies must now expend significant human, informational and capital resources to comply with applicable laws and regulations. Internal and external legal and audit costs, as well as director and other fees, have become quite burdensome on small public companies attempting to achieve growth and profitability. In addition, micro-cap companies, such as National and vFinance, continue to experience difficulties in attracting interest from the investor community, limiting access to the capital markets. These increased costs, and the limited investment community interest, affect stockholder return.

National and vFinance have also faced significant operational and regulatory issues in their businesses and have acted to improve oversight and efficiencies over the last several years. Beginning in approximately 2002, National launched an effort to improve its business operations, balance sheet, and capital structure, and to reduce the incidence of customer complaints, arbitrations, and regulatory concerns with respect to its wholly owned subsidiary, National Securities Corporation (National Securities). Similarly, vFinance has devoted considerable time and effort to improve its business and compliance operations and has employed a new management team to lead the turnaround.

Q2. What will vFinance common stockholders receive for their vFinance shares? (See page 75)

vFinance common stockholders will receive 0.14 shares of National common stock for each share of vFinance common stock owned. The agreement and plan of merger prohibits either National or vFinance from issuing additional stock or options or other securities, except upon the exercise of outstanding options or warrants, without the consent of the other party. National will not issue fractional shares in the merger. Instead, any fractional share amounts will be rounded up to the nearest whole share.

Q3. What percentage of National common stock will vFinance common stockholders own after the merger?

The vFinance stockholders will own approximately 40% of the outstanding common stock of National after closing of the merger, on both an as issued and on a fully-diluted basis. At May 2, 2008, National had outstanding 8,622,628 shares of common stock and 37,500 shares of Series A preferred stock.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Q4. What will the holders of vFinance warrants and options receive in the merger? (See page 75)

If the merger is completed, each vFinance warrant and option that remains outstanding and unexercised following the effective time of the merger will be exercisable for National common stock. The terms and conditions of the warrants and options will remain the same, except that the number of shares covered by the option or warrant, and the exercise price will be adjusted to reflect the exchange ratio. After the merger, the number of shares of common stock for which such warrant or option will be exercisable will be equal to 0.14 times the number of shares of vFinance common stock that were purchasable immediately prior to the merger. The exercise price per share after the merger will be equal to the exercise price prior to the effective time of the merger, divided by 0.14.

Q5. Will National stockholders receive any shares as a result of the merger?

A5. No. National stockholders will continue to hold the same National shares they currently own.

Q6. What will the name of each company be after the merger?

A6. The name of National and vFinance will remain unchanged after the merger, with vFinance becoming a wholly owned subsidiary of National.

Q7. What risks should I consider? (See pages 20 - 39)

A7. You should review Risk Factors starting on page 20. You should also review the factors considered by vFinance's board of directors in making their recommendations to stockholders. See Recommendation of the vFinance's Board of Directors starting on page 52.

Q8. What Stockholder approvals are needed? (See pages 39 - 44)

A8. The affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of vFinance's common stock outstanding on the record date is required to approve the merger. As of the close of business on the vFinance record date for the special meeting, vFinance's directors, officers and their respective affiliates, beneficially owned and were entitled to vote approximately 6,083,000 shares of vFinance common stock in the aggregate or approximately 11% of the voting power of vFinance's shares entitled to vote at the special meeting. As of November 7, 2007, vFinance stockholders holding 7,883,010 shares of vFinance common stock, representing approximately 14.2% of the total number of vFinance common stock currently eligible to vote, had delivered an agreement stating that they would vote in favor of the agreement and plan of merger.

The affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of National's common stock and Series A preferred stock (on an as converted basis) voting together as one class, is required to approve the amendment to National's certificate of incorporation. Each share of National Series A preferred stock is entitled to one vote for each share of common stock issuable upon conversion of such share of Series A preferred stock.

Q9. Will the vFinance stockholders be able to trade the National common stock that they receive in the merger?

A9. Yes. National's common stock is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board under the symbol NHLD. The National common stock that the vFinance stockholders receive will be freely tradable unless such holder is an affiliate of National.

Q10. Will the vFinance stockholders recognize gain or loss for tax purposes? (See page 10)

A10. The merger has been structured as a reorganization for United States federal income tax purposes. In general, vFinance stockholders will not recognize gain or loss for United States federal income tax purposes by exchanging their vFinance shares for any National shares in the merger. However, vFinance stockholders will recognize gain or loss with respect to cash received in lieu of a fractional share of National common stock.

vFinance stockholders, who are not U.S. residents or taxpayers, may be subject to certain special rules, and this summary may not apply to all vFinance stockholders. The vFinance stockholders are urged to carefully review the detailed summary of the material United States federal income tax consequences of the merger set forth in this joint proxy statement/prospectus and to consult with and rely solely upon your own tax advisor to determine your particular tax consequences resulting from the merger.

Q11. Has the National board of directors received a fairness opinion in connection with the merger? (See pages 52 - 54)

A11. Yes. The National board of directors has received an opinion from Eureka Capital Markets, LLC, dated November 5, 2007, to the effect that, as of that date, based upon and subject to the assumptions made, matters considered, and qualifications and limitations on its review as set forth in the opinion the exchange ratio is fair, from a financial point of view, to National.

Q12. Am I entitled to dissenters or appraisal rights? (See pages 76 - 78)

A12. Under Delaware law, vFinance stockholders have the right to dissent from the merger and to receive payment in cash for the fair value of their shares of vFinance common stock, as determined by the Delaware Chancery

Court. In order to perfect appraisal rights, vFinance stockholders must give written demand for appraisal of their shares before the taking of the vote on the merger at the special meeting and must not vote in favor of adoption of the merger agreement. Merely voting against adoption of the merger agreement will not protect your rights to appraisal. In order to protect your appraisal rights, you must adhere to all of the requirements set forth under Delaware law. A copy of the applicable Delaware statutory provision is included as Appendix D to this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Under Delaware law, National stockholders do not have the right to dissent from the amendment to National's certificate of incorporation.

Q13. Has the vFinance board of directors received a fairness opinion in connection with the merger? (See pages 52-67)

Yes. The vFinance board of directors has received an opinion from Valuation Research Corporation, dated November 6, 2007, to the effect that, as of that date, the consideration to be offered by National to the vFinance stockholders pursuant to the merger agreement is fair from a financial point of view.

Q14. Does the board of directors of vFinance recommend voting in favor of the vFinance merger? (See page 40)

Yes. After careful consideration and upon recommendation of the vFinance special committee, vFinance's board of directors unanimously recommends that its stockholders vote in favor of the proposed agreement and plan of merger.

Q15. When do you expect the transaction to be completed?

vFinance and National are working toward completing the merger as quickly as possible. The parties anticipate holding a closing and completing the transaction as soon as practicable following the stockholders' meetings.

Q16. When and where are the vFinance and National special meetings? (See pages 40; 44)

The vFinance special meeting will take place on June 13, 2008 at 10:00 a.m., local time, at Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP at One North Clematis Street, Suite 400, West Palm Beach, Florida 33401. The National special meeting will take place on June 12, 2008 at 11:00 a.m., local time, at National's offices at 120 Broadway, 27th Floor, New York, New York 10271.

Q17. What if I do not vote? (See pages 40-41; 44-45)

For vFinance stockholders, if you fail to respond, your shares will not count toward the quorum necessary to conduct the vote at the meeting, and will be counted as a vote against the merger. The failure to vote does not, in itself, protect your dissenters' rights under Delaware law. If you sign, date and mail your proxy card without identifying how you want to vote with respect to the merger, your proxy will be voted FOR approval of the merger. If you sign, date and mail your proxy card and indicate that you intend to withhold your vote on a proposal, it will have the same effect as a vote AGAINST the merger. You may also vote by appearing at the special meeting and voting in person.

For National stockholders, if you fail to respond, your shares will not count toward the quorum necessary to conduct the vote at the meeting. Failure to respond will have the effect of voting against the proposal to amend National's certificate of incorporation. If you respond and do not indicate how you want to vote, your proxy will be counted as a vote in favor of the amendment. National stockholders are not entitled to dissenters' rights under Delaware law.

Q18. If my shares are held in street name by my broker, will my broker automatically vote my shares for me?

Generally, no. You should instruct your bank, broker or other nominee how to vote your shares. Brokers who hold shares for the accounts of their clients may vote such shares either as directed by their clients or in their own discretion if permitted by the stock exchange or other organization of which they are members. For members of the New York Stock Exchange, certain proposals other than the election of directors are non-discretionary. This means that brokers who have received no instructions from their clients do not have discretion to vote on those items. If your broker does not receive voting instructions from you, your shares will not be voted on the adoption of the merger agreement. Please check the voting information form used by your broker to see if it offers telephone or Internet voting.

Q19. What if I fail to instruct my broker?

Generally, the broker holding your shares in street name may vote the shares only if you provide the broker with appropriate instructions. If you fail to instruct your broker to vote your shares and the broker submits an unvoted proxy, the resulting broker non-vote will be counted for the purpose of determining the existence of a quorum at your company's special meeting, but will not be voted on any of the proposals at the special meeting. A broker non-vote will not be considered a vote cast at the vFinance or National special meetings. A broker non-vote will have the same effect as a vote AGAINST the proposals at the vFinance special meeting. At the National Special Meeting, a broker non-vote will have the effect of voting against the proposal to amend the certificate of incorporation.

Q20. Can I change my vote after I have delivered my proxy? (See pages 42 43; 41)

A20. Yes. You can change your vote at any time before your proxy is voted at the special meeting. You can do this in one of three ways:

First, you can revoke your proxy.

Second, you can submit a new proxy bearing a later date.

If you choose either of these two methods, you must submit your notice of revocation or your new proxy to the secretary of National or vFinance, as applicable, before the special meeting. If your shares are held in an account at a brokerage firm or bank, you should contact your brokerage firm or bank to change your vote.

Third, if you are a holder of record, you can attend the special meeting and vote in person. Simply attending the special meeting, however, will not revoke your proxy. Please note that if your shares are held in street name by a broker, bank or other nominee, and you wish to vote in person at the special meeting, you must bring to the meeting a letter from the broker, bank or other nominee confirming your beneficial ownership of the shares to be voted.

Q21. How can I exchange my shares of vFinance? (See pages 75 76)

A21. Computershare Trust Company, Inc. (Computershare) will act as exchange agent and will forward detailed instructions to you regarding the surrender of your share certificates, together with a letter of transmittal, promptly after the merger is completed. You should not submit your certificates to Computershare until you have received these materials.

Q22. Should vFinance stockholders send in their stock certificates now?

A22. No. After we complete the merger, National or its exchange agent, Computershare, will send vFinance stockholders written instructions to exchange their vFinance common stock for National common stock.

Q23. What do I need to do now? (See pages 41 42; 41)

A23. After carefully reading and considering the information contained in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus, please respond by completing, signing and dating your proxy card or voting instructions and returning it in the enclosed postage paid envelope. In order to assure that we obtain your vote, please deliver your proxy as instructed even if you plan to attend the meeting in person.

Q24. Who can help answer my questions?

The Companies

New York, New York 10271*

National is a financial services organization operating primarily through its wholly owned subsidiary, National Securities. National conducts a national securities brokerage business through its main offices in Seattle, Washington and New York, New York, as well as 36 other branch offices located throughout the country and one office outside the country. Its business includes securities brokerage for individual and institutional clients, market-making trading activities, asset management and corporate financial services. Additionally, National has a significant retail and trading presence in New York City with corporate finance transactions originating in Chicago, Illinois. To foster individual service, flexibility and efficiency, and to reduce fixed costs, investment executives at National act as independent contractors responsible for providing their own office facilities, sales assistants, telephone and quote service, supplies and other items of overhead. Investment executives are given broad discretion to structure their own practices and to specialize in different areas of the securities market subject to supervisory procedures. In addition, investment executives have direct access to research materials, management, traders, and all levels of support personnel. Securities transactions are cleared through National Financial Services, LLC (NFS), Penson Financial Services Inc. (Penson) and Legent Clearing LLC (Legent) with various floor brokerage and specialist firms providing additional execution services.

vFinance, Inc.
Boca Raton, Florida 33431

vFinance is a financial services company that specializes in high growth opportunities. Its three principal lines of business are: (1) offering full service retail brokerage to approximately 12,000 high net worth individuals and institutional clients, (2) providing investment banking, merger, acquisition and advisory services to micro, small and mid-cap high growth companies, and (3) trading securities, including making markets in over 3,500 micro and small-cap stocks and providing liquidity in the United States Treasury marketplace. In addition to its core business, vFinance offers information services on its website. vFinance Investments, Inc. (vFinance Investments) and EquityStation, Inc. (EquityStation), both subsidiaries of vFinance, are broker-dealers registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), and members of Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) (formerly the National Association of Securities Dealers) and Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC). vFinance Investments is also a member of the National Futures Association (NFA).

The Merger (See pages 46 – 67)

National and vFinance have entered into an agreement and plan of merger that provides for the merger of vFinance and a wholly owned subsidiary of National. As a result of the merger, vFinance will become a wholly owned subsidiary of National and vFinance common stockholders will receive a total of approximately 7,800,000 shares of National common stock in exchange for the shares of vFinance common stock they own. The vFinance stockholders will own approximately 40% of the outstanding shares of National common stock after the merger, assuming the conversion of all National Series A preferred stock, on both an as issued and fully-diluted basis. At May 2, 2008, National had outstanding 8,622,628 shares of common stock and 37,500 shares of Series A preferred stock. The vFinance stockholders will thereafter have no stockholder rights in vFinance after the merger.

What you will Receive in the Merger (See page 75)

Each share of vFinance common stock will be exchanged for shares of National common stock at an exchange ratio of 0.14 shares of National common stock for each vFinance share to be exchanged.

Treatment of Stock Options and Warrants (See page 75)

National. When the merger is completed, each outstanding National option and National warrant will remain outstanding.

vFinance. When the merger is completed, each vFinance warrant and option that remains outstanding and unexercised following the effective time of the merger, will be deemed amended and be exercisable for National common stock. The terms and conditions will remain the same, except that (i) the option to acquire National common stock will equal the number (rounded to the nearest whole number) of shares of National common stock determined by multiplying (x) the number of vFinance shares subject to such vFinance stock option immediately prior to the filing date of the merger certificate (the Effective Time) by (y) 0.14 (the exchange ratio), at a price per share of National common stock (rounded up to the nearest whole cent) equal to (a) the exercise price per National share otherwise purchasable pursuant to such vFinance stock option divided by (b) the exchange ratio; and (ii) the warrant will be exercisable for that number of whole shares of National common stock as is equal to the product of the number of vFinance shares that were purchasable under the vFinance warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time, multiplied by the exchange ratio, rounded down to the nearest whole number of shares of National common stock and the per share exercise price for National common stock issuable upon exercise of such vFinance warrant will be the quotient obtained by dividing the aggregate exercise price of such vFinance warrant immediately prior to the Effective Time by the exchange ratio, rounded to the nearest whole cent.

Recommendation of the Board of Directors (See pages 52 to 54)

The vFinance board of directors and its special committee believe that the merger is fair to stockholders and in the stockholders' best interests, and unanimously voted to approve the merger agreement, and unanimously recommend that all stockholders vote FOR the adoption of the agreement and plan of merger.

vFinance's board of directors and its special committee considered a number of factors in determining to approve and adopt the merger agreement and the merger. These considerations are described in the section entitled Proposal I The Merger vFinance's Reasons for the Merger and Recommendations of vFinance's Board of Directors starting on page 52.

Opinions of Financial Advisors (See pages 54 to 61)

Opinion of National Financial Adviser: In deciding to approve the merger, the National board of directors considered the opinion of its financial adviser, Eureka Capital Markets, LLC (Eureka Capital), that, as of the date of its opinion, based upon and subject to the assumptions made, matters considered, and qualifications and limitations on its review as set forth in the opinion, the exchange ratio is fair, from a financial point of view, to National. Eureka Capital has provided no opinion as to whether the merger is fair, from a financial point of view, to vFinance or the vFinance stockholders. The full text of this opinion is attached as Appendix B to this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Opinion of vFinance Financial Adviser: In deciding to approve the merger, the vFinance board of directors and its special committee considered the opinion of its financial adviser, Valuation Research Corporation (VRC), that, as of the date of its opinion, and subject to and based on the considerations referred to in its opinion, the consideration to be offered in the merger is fair, from a financial point of view, to the stockholders of vFinance. VRC has provided no opinion as to whether the merger is fair, from a financial point of view, to the National stockholders. The full text of this opinion is attached as Appendix C to this joint proxy statement/prospectus. vFinance urges its stockholders to read the opinion of VRC in its entirety.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Interests of Directors and Executive Officers in the Merger (See page 67)

Some of the directors and executive officers of National and vFinance have interests in the merger that are different from, or are in addition to, the interests of their company's stockholders. These interests include the following:

as of May 2, 2008, directors and executive officers of National and their affiliates beneficially owned approximately 36% of the outstanding shares of National common stock, including shares of common stock issuable upon conversion of National Series A preferred stock, but excluding stock options, warrants and a convertible note, and directors and executive officers of vFinance and their affiliates beneficially owned approximately 14% of the outstanding shares of vFinance common stock;

as of May 2, 2008, directors and executive officers of National and their affiliates beneficially owned approximately 29% of the outstanding shares of National's Series A preferred stock;

upon closing of the merger, Leonard Sokolow will receive $1,150,000 in connection with the termination of his employment as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of vFinance;

upon closing of the merger, Mark Goldwasser, the President and Chief Executive Officer of National, and Leonard Sokolow, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of vFinance, will enter into new three year employment agreements with National on substantially similar terms;

upon closing of the merger, Alan Levin, the Chief Financial Officer of vFinance, will enter into a one-year employment agreement with National;

upon closing of the merger, National shall issue new options and warrants in exchange for all outstanding options and warrants held by vFinance officers, directors and employees; and the immediate vesting at the effective time of the merger of 3,552,500 (497,350 post-merger) vFinance options held by certain officers, directors and employees of vFinance.

The National board of directors and the vFinance board of directors and special committee were aware of and discussed these potentially conflicting interests when they approved the merger.

Dissenters' Rights (See pages 76-78)

Under Delaware law, vFinance stockholders have the right to dissent from the merger and to receive payment in cash for the fair value of their shares of vFinance common stock, as determined by the Delaware Chancery Court. This right of appraisal is subject to a number of restrictions and technical requirements. Generally, in order to exercise appraisal rights, a vFinance stockholder must:

send to vFinance a written demand for appraisal in compliance with Delaware law before the vote on the merger; and not vote in favor of the merger.

Merely voting against the merger will not protect a vFinance stockholder's rights to appraisal. In order to protect such rights, the stockholder must adhere to all of the requirements set forth under Delaware law. The requirements under Delaware law for exercising appraisal rights are described in further detail in the section entitled "vFinance Dissenter's Rights" starting on page 76. The relevant section of Delaware law regarding appraisal rights is reproduced and included as Appendix D to this joint proxy statement/prospectus. If you are a vFinance stockholder and you vote on the merger, you will waive your rights to seek appraisal of your shares of vFinance common stock under Delaware law.

Under Delaware law, National's common and preferred shareholders are not entitled to dissenters' or appraisal rights in connection with the amendment of the certificate of incorporation.

The Stockholders Meetings (See pages 40-43; 40-45)

Special Meeting of vFinance's Stockholders. The vFinance special meeting will be held at Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP at One North Clematis Street, Suite 400, West Palm Beach, Florida 33401, on June 13, 2008 starting at 10:00 a.m., local time.

If you are a beneficial owner of vFinance's common stock at the close of business on May 2, 2008, which vFinance's board of directors has established as the record date, you are entitled to vote at the special meeting. Common stockholders are entitled to one vote for each share held of record on each matter submitted to a vote of stockholders. The holders of a majority of the outstanding common shares entitled to vote at the special meeting must be present in person or represented by proxy in order for vFinance to transact business.

The affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of vFinance common stock is required to adopt the agreement and plan of merger.

As of November 7, 2007, vFinance stockholders holding 7,883,010 shares of vFinance common stock, representing approximately 14.2% of the total number of vFinance common stock currently eligible to vote, had delivered an agreement stating that they would vote in favor of the agreement and plan of merger.

Special Meeting of National's Stockholders. The National Special Meeting will be at National's corporate headquarters at 120 Broadway, 27th Floor, New York, New York 10271, on June 12, 2008 starting at 11:00 a.m., local time.

If you are a beneficial owner of National's common stock or Series A preferred stock at the close of business on May 2, 2008, which National's board of directors has established as the record date, you are entitled to vote at the Special Meeting. Common stockholders are entitled to one vote for each share held of record on each matter submitted to a vote of shareholders. Series A preferred stockholders are entitled to 80 votes for each share of Series A preferred stock held on the record date. The holders of a majority of the outstanding common and Series A preferred shares entitled to vote at the Special Meeting must be present in person or represented by proxy in order for National to transact business.

The affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of National common and preferred stock (voting on an as converted basis) voting as a single class is required to adopt the amendment to National's certificate of incorporation.

Board of Directors and Management Following the Merger (See pages 138 141)

Upon filing of the merger certificate, National's board of directors will consist of seven persons and shall consist of Mark Goldwasser (Chairman of the Board), Leonard J. Sokolow (Vice Chairman of the Board), Christopher C. Dewey (Vice Chairman of the Board), Marshall S. Geller, Charles Modica, Jorge Ortega, and one designee of National, reasonably acceptable to vFinance. Messrs. Geller, Modica and Ortega shall be independent directors.

Tax Considerations (See pages 78 81)

We anticipate that the merger will be a tax-free reorganization for U.S. federal income tax purposes, and that vFinance stockholders will recognize no gain or loss upon conversion of their vFinance common stock into shares of National common stock, except with respect to cash received, if any, in lieu of fractional shares. vFinance stockholders may, however, recognize income, gain or loss in connection with the exercise of dissenters' rights. vFinance stockholders should consult with their own tax advisers concerning the federal income tax consequences of the merger, as well as the applicable state, local, foreign or other tax consequences, based upon your individual circumstances.

There is no taxable event for the National stockholders.

Accounting Treatment (See page 78)

National has 8,622,628 shares outstanding as of May 2, 2008 and will be the acquirer for accounting purposes. National intends to account for the merger as an acquisition using the purchase method of accounting under generally accepted accounting principles. vFinance's operating results will be included with National's beginning at the closing of the merger.

Effective Time of the Merger; Exchange of Shares (See page 82)

The merger will become effective when we file a certificate of merger with the Secretary of State of Delaware. We expect to file the certificate as soon as practicable after the special meeting, subject to approval by vFinance's stockholders at the special meeting, and satisfaction or waiver of the terms and conditions of the merger agreement.

Computershare will act as exchange agent for the merger and will forward detailed instructions to you regarding the surrender of your share certificates, together with a letter of transmittal, promptly after the merger is completed. You should not submit your certificates to Computershare until you have received these materials. Computershare will issue new National certificates to all vFinance stockholders exchanging their shares and pay you for any fractional interests as promptly as practicable following its receipt of your certificates and other required documents. You will not receive accrued interest on the cash payable to you upon the surrender of your certificates. YOU SHOULD NOT SEND ANY SHARE CERTIFICATES AT THIS TIME.

National and vFinance determined that the combined operations of the companies require additional capital of approximately $3 million. The closing of the merger is conditioned on the consummation of a $3 million equity or equity-related financing and in furtherance of the satisfaction of this condition, National has completed a $3 million financing of convertible debt and warrants with St. Cloud Capital Partners II, L.P. (St. Cloud), an affiliate of a principal stockholder and director of National (the St. Cloud Financing).

The terms of the St. Cloud Financing are:

- National sold to St. Cloud for $3 million dollars, a 10% Senior Subordinated Convertible Promissory Note in the principal amount of $3 million dollars and a warrant to purchase 375,000 shares of common stock;
- the note:
- (1) is convertible into 1,500,000 shares of National common stock by the holder at any time at $2.00 per share, subject to adjustment in the event of stock splits, dividends, distributions and similar adjustments to National's capital;
 - (2) bears interest at 10% per annum payable quarterly in arrears;
 - (3) is convertible beginning after one year at the option of National if the common stock attains certain price and volume levels and at any time by St. Cloud without any limitations; and
 - (4) is redeemable beginning after one year at the option of National at redemption prices as follows (i) 125% of the principal amount of the note plus accrued and unpaid interest if redeemed between March 31, 2009 and March 31, 2010, (ii) 145% of the principal amount of the note plus accrued and unpaid interest if redeemed between March 31, 2010 and March 31, 2011, and (iii) 165% of the principal amount of the note plus accrued and unpaid interest if

(1) is exercisable into 375,000 shares of common stock at $2.50 per share (subject to adjustment in the event of stock splits, dividends, distributions and similar adjustments to National's capital);

(2) is immediately exercisable; and

(3) contains a cashless exercise provision and certain corporate anti-dilution protections.

holder of the Note and warrant will have certain registration rights covering the shares of common stock issuable upon conversion of the Note and the exercise of the warrants;

holder of the Note and warrant will continue to have the right to designate one member of the board of directors and appoint an observer to the Board.

Conditions to the Merger (See pages 88 90)

National's and vFinance's obligations under the agreement and plan of merger are subject to the prior satisfaction or waiver of a number of conditions, including the following:

vFinance shall have obtained stockholder approval in accordance with the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL) and vFinance's governing documents;

no provision of any applicable Law shall prohibit or enjoin the consummation of the merger;

all required approvals, applications or notices with governmental authorities shall have been obtained, except those approvals the failure of which to obtain would not, individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on National or vFinance;

this joint proxy statement/prospectus shall have been declared effective under the Securities Act and no stop order suspending its effectiveness shall be in effect and no proceedings for such purpose shall be pending before or threatened by the SEC;

National shall have entered into written employment agreements with Mark Goldwasser, Leonard J. Sokolow and Alan Levin;

National shall have entered into a written voting agreement with Mr. Sokolow; as of the closing date, to be effective as of the Effective Time, the board of directors of National shall consist of Mark Goldwasser (Chairman of the Board), Leonard J. Sokolow (Vice Chairman of the Board), Christopher C. Dewey (Vice Chairman of the Board), Marshall S. Geller, Charles Modica and Jorge Ortega, and one designee of National, reasonably acceptable to vFinance;

the approvals of National's and vFinance's clearing firms shall have been obtained to the mutual reasonable satisfaction of National and vFinance;

there shall be in full force and effect a voting agreement among Mark Goldwasser, Leonard J. Sokolow and Christopher C. Dewey, to vote in favor of the nominees set forth above and each other for the position of director of National;

vFinance shall have entered into a written employment termination agreement with Mr. Sokolow pursuant to which he will receive $1,150,000 in connection with the termination of his employment as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of vFinance; and National shall have completed a private placement of equity and/or equity-related securities of National resulting in gross proceeds (prior to commissions, if any, fees and expenses) of at least $3 million, which requirement has been deemed met by the St. Cloud Financing.

If the law permits, National or vFinance may each waive conditions for their benefit and their stockholders' benefit and complete the merger even though one or more of these conditions has not been met. vFinance's stockholder approval of the merger, the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement cannot be waived. Other than as specifically set forth below, we cannot assure you that the conditions will be satisfied or waived or that the merger will occur.

National, vFin Acquisition and vFinance have executed an amendment to the Merger Agreement (the Amendment) which states that the $3 million financing requirement in the Merger Agreement has been met by the St. Cloud Financing. As part of the Amendment, National and vFin Acquisition have agreed that in the event that vFinance requires additional financing prior to the consummation of the Merger that it may raise additional equity, convertible debt and/or equity related securities resulting in gross proceeds of up to $2 million, provided that such issuance is upon terms having substantially similar economic impact as the St. Cloud Financing.

vFinance and National may mutually agree at any time prior to the filing of the certificate of merger with the Delaware Secretary of State to terminate the merger agreement without completing the merger, even if the 11

vFinance stockholders have approved it. Also, either company may decide, without the consent of the other, to terminate the merger agreement, subject to various conditions, in a number of circumstances. These circumstances include, among others:

the merger not having been completed by August 31, 2008, which may be extended by mutual written consent of the parties;

any court or governmental entity issuing a final order or judgment preventing completion of the merger; certain breaches under the merger agreement, including breaches of representations and warranties which cannot be timely cured; and upon the receipt of a superior proposal, as defined in the agreement and plan of merger, and the payment to the other party of a $1,500,000 breakup fee.

The unaudited pro forma combined net book value per common share is computed by dividing the pro forma combined common stockholders' equity by the pro forma combined number of National common shares outstanding at period end, assuming the merger had occurred as of that date.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

The historical tangible book value per share is calculated by dividing stockholders' equity less intangible assets by the number of shares outstanding at period end. The unaudited pro forma combined net book value per common share is computed by dividing the pro forma combined common stockholders' equity less the pro forma combined intangible assets by the pro forma combined number of National common shares outstanding at period end, assuming the merger had occurred as of that date.

The pro forma equivalent per vFinance share is calculated by multiplying the unaudited pro forma combined amounts by the assumed exchange ratio of 0.14 shares of National common stock for each share of vFinance common stock, in order to equate the unaudited pro forma combined amounts to the respective values for one share of vFinance common stock.

Dividend Information

Neither National nor vFinance has ever paid any cash dividends on its shares of common stock. Under the merger agreement, each company has agreed not to pay dividends except as contemplated by its outstanding preferred stock until the consummation of the merger.

The holders of National Series A preferred stock are entitled to receive dividends on a quarterly basis at a rate of 9% per annum, per share. Such dividends are cumulative and accumulate whether or not declared by National's board of directors, but are payable only when and if declared by the National's board of directors. In the years ended September 30, 2007, 2006 and 2005, National's board of directors declared in-kind dividends in the aggregate of 2,537, 1,996 and 2,143 shares of Series A preferred stock, in payment of approximately $317,000, $300,000 and $322,000, respectively; for dividends accumulated through March 31 of each year. In March 2006, National's stockholders approved an amendment to decrease the conversion price of the Series A preferred stock to $1.25 per share from $1.50 per share. As of September 30, 2007 and 2006, the amount of accumulated dividends for National's 37,550 and 35,316 issued and outstanding shares of Series A preferred stock was approximately $169,000 and $159,000, respectively.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

The holders of National's Series B Convertible preferred stock, convertible into National's common stock at $.75 per share, were entitled to receive dividends on a quarterly basis at a rate of 10% per annum per share. Such dividends were cumulative and were payable only when declared by National's board of directors. National declared and paid cash dividends on its Series B preferred stock in fiscal years 2007 and 2006. In the fourth quarter of fiscal year 2007, National exercised the conversion option contained in its Series B preferred stock. Accordingly, all outstanding National Series B preferred stock was converted into National common stock and National is no longer obligated to pay dividends on its Series B preferred stock.

The holders of National's Series A convertible preferred stock have voting rights equal to the number of shares of common stock into which such shares of preferred stock could be converted at a particular record date.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

RISK FACTORS

The financial statements contained in this joint proxy statement/prospectus and the related discussion describe and analyze each of National's and vFinance's financial performance and condition for the periods indicated and provide pro forma financial information for the companies on a combined basis as if the merger had occurred on October 1, 2006. For the most part, this information is historical. National's and vFinance's prior results, and the pro forma financials, however, are not necessarily indicative of National's future performance or financial condition following the merger. National and vFinance, therefore, have included the following discussion of certain factors that could affect National's future performance or financial condition following the merger. These factors could cause National's future performance or financial condition after the merger to differ materially from the prior performance or financial condition of National or vFinance or from management's expectations or estimates of National's future performance or financial condition after the merger.

In addition to the other information contained in or incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus, you should carefully consider the following risk factors in deciding whether to vote for the merger.

Risks Related to the Merger

The merger will dilute the equity interest of the National stockholders and will result in immediate and substantial dilution of National's per share earnings and a substantial decrease in National's income from operations.

For the year ended September 30, 2007, the merger will result in immediate and substantial dilution of annual earnings on a pro forma basis from basic income per common share outstanding of $0.16 to a loss of ($0.33) per share, or a reduction of $0.49 per share and on fully diluted income per common share outstanding of $0.10 to a loss of ($0.33) per share, or a reduction of $0.43 per share. The merger on a pro forma basis would decrease National's net income from operations from $963,000 to a loss of ($4,533,000) or a reduction of $5,496,000 for the year ended September 30, 2007.

For the quarter ended December 31, 2007, the merger will result in immediate and substantial dilution of quarterly earnings on a pro forma basis from a basic and diluted loss per common share outstanding of ($0.15) to a basic and diluted loss per common share outstanding of ($0.19) per share, or a reduction of $0.04 per share. Additionally, the merger on a pro forma basis would increase National's net loss from operations from ($1,252,000) to a loss of ($3,084,000) for the quarter ended December 31, 2007. The anticipated dilution and the decrease in National's earnings from operations could have a negative impact on the market price of National's common stock.

National's stockholders will be substantially diluted as a result of the merger and the vFinance stockholders will own approximately 40% of National's outstanding common shares.

National will issue approximately 7,800,000 shares of its common stock in exchange for 100% of vFinance's outstanding common stock in the merger. As of May 2, 2008, there were outstanding 8,622,628 shares of National common stock and 37,550 shares of National Series A preferred stock. Upon completion of the merger, vFinance stockholders collectively will own approximately 40% of National's outstanding common stock, assuming the conversion of all National Series A preferred stock, but before the exercise of any outstanding warrants, options or a convertible note. Therefore, after the merger, the vFinance stockholders will have significant influence over matters of National.

National's stock price is volatile and the value of the National common stock issued in the merger will depend on its market price at the time of the merger; exchange ratio is fixed.

Under the agreement and plan of merger, the exchange ratio used to determine the number of shares of National's common stock that vFinance stockholders will receive is unaffected by the share price of National's common stock as reflected on the OTC Bulletin Board. Increases in the value of National's common stock will result in a higher price being paid by National for vFinance common stock and more value received by vFinance stockholders in the merger. Decreases in the value of National's common stock will result in a lower price being paid by National for vFinance common stock and less value received by vFinance stockholders in the merger. It is likely that you will not know the value of National's common stock to be issued in the merger at the time of the vFinance special meeting of stockholders.

Under the agreement and plan of merger, neither National nor vFinance will have the right to terminate or renegotiate the agreement and plan of merger or to resolicit proxies as a result of any increase or decrease in the value of National's outstanding common stock.

The market price of National's common stock has been and may continue to be volatile. The trading volume and number of shares available in the public float has traditionally not been high, which impacts the volatility of the National common stock. The market price of National stock may fluctuate significantly and decrease in response to various factors, including without limitation:

quarterly variations in operating results;
the announcement of management changes;
general market conditions in the securities industry;
announcements and actions by competitors;
limited trading volume of National's securities on the OTC Bulletin Board; regulatory and judicial actions; and general economic conditions.

In addition, as a result of the number of shares to be issued in the merger, and the potential dilution of National's earnings per share, the price of National's common stock is likely to continue to be volatile following the merger.

National's common stock has low trading volume and any sale of a significant number of shares is likely to depress the trading price.

National's common stock is quoted on the OTC Bulletin Board. Traditionally, the trading volume of the common stock has been limited. For example, for the 30 trading days ending on May 2, 2008, the average trading volume was 4,435 shares per day and on certain days there was no trading activity. During such 30-day period the closing price of the National common stock ranged from a high of $2.25 to a low of $1.60. Because of this limited trading volume, the former vFinance stockholders may not be able to sell quickly any significant number of the National shares, and any attempted sale of a large number of National shares will likely have a material adverse impact on the price of the National common stock. Because of the limited number of shares being traded, the per share price is subject to volatility and may continue to be subject to rapid price swings in the future.

National may fail to realize the anticipated benefits of the merger.

The success of the merger will depend, in part, on National's ability to realize the anticipated growth opportunities and synergies from combining National and vFinance. The integration of National and vFinance will be a time consuming and expensive process and may disrupt their operations if it is not completed in a timely and efficient manner. In addition, National may not achieve anticipated synergies or other benefits of the merger. Following the merger, National and vFinance must operate as a combined organization utilizing common information and communication systems, operating procedures, financial controls and human resources practices. We may encounter the following difficulties, costs and delays involved in integrating these operations:

failure to integrate National's and vFinance's businesses and operations; failure to successfully manage relationships with customers and other important relationships;
failure of customers to continue using the services of the combined company; difficulties in successfully integrating the management teams and employees of National and vFinance;

challenges encountered in managing larger operations;
the loss of key employees and registered representatives;
failure to manage the growth and growth strategies of National and vFinance;
diversion of the attention of management from other ongoing business concerns; potential incompatibility of technologies and systems; potential impairment charges incurred to write down the carrying amount of intangible assets generated as a result of the merger; and potential incompatibility of business cultures.

If the combined company's operations after the merger do not meet the expectations of existing customers of National and vFinance, then these customers may cease doing business with the combined company altogether, which would harm our results of operations and financial condition.

If the management team is not able to develop strategies and implement a business plan that successfully addresses these difficulties, we may not realize the anticipated benefits of the merger. In particular, National is likely to realize lower earnings per share, which may have an adverse impact on National and the market price of its common stock.

Costs associated with the merger are difficult to estimate, may be higher than expected and may harm the financial results of the combined company.

We will incur substantial direct transaction costs associated with the merger and additional costs associated with consolidation and integration of operations. If the total costs of the merger exceed estimates, or the benefits of the merger do not exceed the total costs of the merger, our financial results could be adversely affected.

The merger may result in disruption of National's and vFinance's existing businesses, distraction of their management and diversion of other resources.

The integration of National's and vFinance's businesses may divert management time and resources from the main businesses of both companies. This diversion of time and resources could cause the market price of National's common stock to decrease. The new management will need to spend some of their time integrating vFinance's and National's operations. This could cause National's business to suffer.

Failure to complete the merger could negatively impact vFinance's and National's stock price and future operations.

If the merger is not completed for any reason, vFinance and National may each be subjected to a number of material risks. The price of vFinance and National common stock may decline to the extent that the current market prices of vFinance and National common stock reflect a market assumption that the merger will be completed. Some costs related to the merger, such as legal, accounting, filing, printing and mailing, must be paid and expended even if the merger is not completed. In addition, if the merger is not completed and vFinance's or National's board of directors determines to seek another merger or business combination, there can be no assurance that either board of directors will be able to find a partner willing to agree to more attractive terms than those which have been negotiated for in the merger.

Any delay in completion of the merger may significantly reduce the benefits expected to be obtained from the merger.

In addition to vFinance stockholder approval, the merger is subject to a number of other conditions beyond the control of National and vFinance that may prevent, delay or otherwise materially adversely affect its completion. See The Agreement and Plan of Merger - Conditions Precedent to Each Party's Obligations to Effect the Merger starting on page 88. National and vFinance cannot predict whether or when these other conditions will be satisfied. Further, the requirements for obtaining the required approvals could delay the completion of the merger for a significant period of time or prevent it from occurring. Any delay in completing the merger may significantly reduce the synergies and other benefits that National and vFinance expect to achieve if they successfully complete the merger within the expected timeframe and integrate their respective businesses.

Some of National's and vFinance's directors and officers have a conflict of interest.

In considering the recommendation of National's and vFinance's board of directors to vote for the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger, you should be aware that members of National's and vFinance's board of directors and officers of each company have interests in the merger that differ from your interests. These interests may create potential conflicts of interests for these directors and officers in the future. Both National's board of directors and vFinance's board of directors were aware of each of these interests when they considered and adopted the merger agreement.

These interests include the following:

as of May 2, 2008, directors and executive officers of National and their affiliates beneficially owned approximately 36% of the outstanding shares of National common stock, assuming conversion of the National Series A preferred stock and excluding stock options, warrants and a convertible note, and directors and executive officers of vFinance and their affiliates beneficially owned approximately 14% of the outstanding shares of vFinance common stock; as of May 2, 2008, directors and executive officers of National and their affiliates beneficially owned approximately 29% of the outstanding shares of National's Series A preferred stock;

upon closing of the merger, Leonard Sokolow will receive $1,150,000 in connection with the termination of his employment as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of vFinance;

upon closing of the merger, Mark Goldwasser, the President and Chief Executive Officer of National, and Leonard Sokolow, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of vFinance, will enter into new three year employment agreements on substantially similar terms;

upon closing of the merger, Alan Levin, the Chief Financial Officer of vFinance, will enter into a one year employment agreement;

upon closing of the merger, National shall issue new options and warrants in exchange for all outstanding options and warrants held by vFinance officers, directors and employees; and the immediate vesting at the effective time of the merger of 3,552,500 (497,350 post-merger) vFinance options held by certain officers, directors and employees of vFinance.

The former principal stockholders, officers and directors of vFinance after the merger will own a substantial interest in National's voting stock.

Upon completion of the merger, vFinance's former officers, directors and stockholders who held greater than 5% of the voting power of vFinance's common stock will, in the aggregate, beneficially own approximately 13% of National's outstanding voting shares, assuming conversion of all National Series A preferred stock, but before the exercise of any options or warrants or the conversion of the convertible note sold in National's private placement. As a result, these stockholders, acting together, will have the ability to substantially influence the outcome of matters submitted to National's stockholders for approval, including:

election of the board of directors;

removal of any of the directors;

amendment of the certificate of incorporation or by-laws; and adoption of measures that could delay or prevent a change in control or impede a merger, takeover or other business combination involving National.

These stockholders will have substantial influence over the management and affairs of National. Accordingly, this concentration of ownership may have the effect of impeding a merger, consolidation, takeover or other business consolidation involving National, or discouraging a potential acquirer from making a tender offer for its shares which would prevent stockholders from realizing the benefits of the transaction, such as a purchase price premium or significant increase in stock price.

The market price of National common stock may decline as a result of the merger.

The market price of National common stock may decline as a result of the merger if the integration of the vFinance and National businesses is unsuccessful or if the costs of implementing the integration are greater than expected. The market price also may decline if National does not achieve the perceived benefits of the merger as rapidly or to the extent anticipated by financial or industry analysts or if the effect of the merger on National's financial results is not consistent with the expectations of financial or industry analysts.

The combined companies may require additional financing.

In order for the combined companies to have the opportunity for future success and profitability, they periodically may need to obtain additional financing, either through borrowings, public offerings, private offerings, or some type of business combination (e.g., merger, buyout, etc.). It is a condition of closing of the merger agreement that National have completed a private placement resulting in gross proceeds (prior to commissions, fees and expenses) of no less than $3 million in the aggregate. On March 31, 2008, National completed a transaction whereby an affiliate of a principal stockholder and director of National made a $3 million dollar investment in National by purchasing an aggregate of (i) a 10% senior subordinate convertible promissory note in the principal amount of $3 million, which is convertible into common stock at a price of $2.00 per share and (ii) a warrant to purchase 375,000 shares of common stock at an exercise price of $2.50 per share (subject to adjustment). In the past, both companies have actively pursued a variety of funding sources including private offerings and have consummated certain transactions in order to address their respective capital requirements. The combined company may need to seek to raise additional capital through other available sources, including borrowing additional funds from third parties, and there can be no assurance that it will be successful in such pursuits. Additionally, the issuance of new securities to raise capital will cause the dilution of shares held by current stockholders. Accordingly, if National is unable to generate adequate cash from operations, and if National is unable to find sources of funding, it would have an adverse impact on its liquidity and operations.

The conversion or exercise of National's outstanding shares of Series A preferred stock may result in dilution to the combined company's common stockholders.

Dilution of the per share value of the combined company's common shares could result from the conversion of most or all of the currently outstanding shares of National preferred stock and from the exercise of the currently outstanding vFinance and National convertible securities.

Preferred Stock National currently has 37,550 shares of Series A preferred stock outstanding, which are convertible, in total, into 3,004,000 shares of common stock.

Warrants and Options Immediately following the merger, we anticipate that there will be outstanding: warrants to purchase 1,763,362 shares of common stock at exercise prices ranging from $0.79 to $16.07 per share and options to purchase 4,275,825 shares of common stock at exercise prices ranging from $0.90 to $2.50 per share.

The exercise of these warrants and options, and conversion of the Series A preferred shares and the sale of the underlying common stock, or even the potential of such conversion or exercise and sale, may have a depressive effect on the market price of the combined company's securities and will cause dilution to our stockholders. Moreover, the terms upon which we will be able to obtain additional equity capital may be adversely affected, since the holders of the outstanding convertible securities can be expected to convert or exercise them at a time when we would, in all likelihood, be able to obtain any needed capital on terms more favorable to us than the exercise terms provided by the outstanding options and warrants. Dilution could create significant downward pressure on the trading price of the combined company's common stock if the conversion or exercise of these securities encouraged short sales. Even the mere perception of eventual sales of common shares issued on the conversion of these securities could lead to a decline in the trading price of the combined company's common stock.

The merger agreement contains provisions that could discourage a potential competing acquiror that might be willing to pay more to acquire vFinance or that may be willing to acquire National.

The merger agreement contains no shop provisions that restrict National's and vFinance's ability to solicit or facilitate proposals regarding a merger or similar transaction with another party. Further, there are only limited exceptions to National's or vFinance's agreement that their respective board of directors will not withdraw or adversely qualify its recommendation regarding the merger agreement. Although each of the National and vFinance board of directors are permitted to terminate the merger agreement in response to a superior proposal if they determine that a failure to do so would be inconsistent with their fiduciary duties, its doing so would entitle the other party to collect a termination fee of $1.5 million. We describe these provisions under "The Agreement and Plan of Merger - Termination of the Merger Agreement" starting on page 89 and "Effects of Termination; Payment of Expenses" on page 88.

These provisions could discourage a potential competing acquiror from considering or proposing acquisition, even if it were prepared to pay consideration with a higher value than that proposed to be paid in the merger, or might result in a potential competing acquiror proposing to pay a lower per share price than it might otherwise have proposed to pay because of the added expense of the termination fee.

Risks Related to National's Business

National's operating results have resulted in reporting losses.

Although National was profitable in fiscal years 2007, 2006 and 2004, it reported losses of approximately $1.2 million, $830 thousand, $3.4 million and $7.9 million in fiscal years 2005, 2003, 2002 and 2001, respectively, and $1.2 million for the three months ended December 31, 2007. There is no assurance that National will be profitable in the future. National's losses were primarily attributable to the market slowdowns and reduced trading activity and volatility, and the cessation of its market making activities. If National is unable to achieve or sustain profitability, National may need to curtail, suspend or terminate certain operations.

National is exposed to risks due to its investment banking activities.

Participation in an underwriting syndicate or a selling group involves both economic and regulatory risks. An underwriter may incur losses if it is unable to resell the securities it is committed to purchase, or if it is forced to liquidate its commitment at less than the purchase price. In addition, under federal securities laws, other laws and court decisions with respect to underwriters' liabilities and limitations on the indemnification of underwriters by issuers, an underwriter is subject to substantial potential liability for misstatements or omissions of material facts in prospectuses and other communications with respect to such offerings. Acting as a managing underwriter increases these risks. Underwriting commitments constitute a charge against net capital and National's ability to make underwriting commitments may be limited by the requirement that it must at all times be in compliance with the net capital rule.

National may require additional financing.

In order for National to have the opportunity for future success and profitability, it periodically may need to obtain additional financing, either through borrowings, public offerings, private offerings, or some type of business combination (e.g., merger, buyout, etc.). National has actively pursued a variety of funding sources, and has consummated certain transactions in order to address its capital requirements. National may need to seek to raise additional capital through other available sources, including borrowing additional funds from third parties and there can be no assurance that it will be successful in such pursuits. Additionally, the issuance of new securities to raise capital will cause the dilution of shares held by current stockholders. Accordingly, if National is unable to generate adequate cash from its operations, and if it is unable to find sources of funding, such an event would have an adverse impact on its liquidity and operations.

If National is unable to pay its outstanding debt obligations when due, National's operations may be materially adversely affected.

At December 31, 2007, National had total indebtedness of $1,500,000, all of which matures during fiscal year 2009. National cannot assure you that its operations will generate funds sufficient to repay its existing debt obligations as they come due. National's failure to repay its indebtedness and make interest payments as required by its debt obligations, could have a material adverse affect on National's operations.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

National securities is subject to various risks associated with the securities industry.

As a securities broker-dealer, National Securities is subject to uncertainties that are common in the securities industry. These uncertainties include:

the volatility of domestic and international financial, bond and stock markets;
extensive governmental regulation;
litigation;
intense competition;
substantial fluctuations in the volume and price level of securities; and dependence on the solvency of various third parties.

As a result, revenues and earnings may vary significantly from quarter to quarter and from year to year. In periods of low volume, profitability is impaired because certain expenses remain relatively fixed. In the event of a market downturn, National's business could be adversely affected in many ways. National's revenues are likely to decline in such circumstances and, if it were unable to reduce expenses at the same pace, its profit margins would erode.

Failure to comply with the net capital requirements could subject National to sanctions imposed by the SEC or FINRA.

National Securities is subject to the SEC's net capital rule which requires the maintenance of minimum net capital. National computes net capital under the alternate method permitted by the net capital rule. National Securities is required to maintain net capital equal to the greater of $250,000 or a specified amount per security based on the bid price of each security for which National Securities is a market maker. The net capital rule is designed to measure the general financial integrity and liquidity of a broker-dealer. Compliance with the net capital rule limits those operations of broker-dealers that require the intensive use of their capital, such as underwriting commitments and principal trading activities. The rule also limits the ability of securities firms to pay dividends or make payments on certain indebtedness, such as subordinated debt, as it matures. FINRA may enter the offices of a broker-dealer at any time, without notice, and calculate the firm's net capital. If the calculation reveals a deficiency in net capital, FINRA may immediately restrict or suspend certain or all of the activities of a broker-dealer. National Securities may not be able to maintain adequate net capital, or its net capital may fall below requirements established by the SEC, and subject National to disciplinary action in the form of fines, censure, suspension, expulsion or the termination of business altogether. In addition, if these net capital rules are changed or expanded, or if there is an unusually large charge against net capital, operations that require the intensive use of capital would be limited. A large operating loss or charge against net capital could adversely affect National's ability to expand or even maintain its present levels of business, which could have a material adverse effect on National's business. In addition, National may become subject to net capital requirements in other foreign jurisdictions in which it currently operates or which it may enter. National cannot predict its future capital needs or its ability to obtain additional financing.

National's business could be adversely affected by a breakdown in the financial markets.

As a securities broker-dealer, National Securities' business is materially affected by conditions in the financial markets and economic conditions generally, both in the United States and elsewhere around the world. Many factors or events could lead to a breakdown in the financial markets including war, terrorism, natural catastrophes and other types of disasters. These types of events could cause people to begin to lose confidence in the financial markets and their ability to function effectively. If the financial markets are unable to effectively prepare for these types of events and ease public concern over their ability to function, National's revenues are likely to decline and its operations are likely to be adversely affected.

If National is unable to pay its outstanding debt obligations when due, National's operations may be materially adversely

Market fluctuations may reduce National's revenues and profitability.

National's revenue and profitability may be adversely affected by declines in the volume of securities transactions and in market liquidity. Additionally, National's profitability may be adversely affected by losses from the trading or underwriting of securities or failure of third parties to meet commitments. National

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Securities acts as a market maker in publicly traded common stocks. In market making transactions, National Securities undertakes the risk of price changes or being unable to resell the common stock it holds or being unable to purchase the common stock it has sold. These risks are heightened by the illiquidity of many of the common stocks National Securities trades and/or makes a market. Any losses from National Securities' trading activities, including as a result of unauthorized trading by National Securities' employees, could have a material adverse effect on National's business, financial condition, results of operations or cash flows.

Lower securities price levels may also result in a reduced volume of transactions, as well as losses from declines in the market value of common stocks held for trading purposes. During periods of declining volume and revenue, National's profitability would be adversely affected. Declines in market values of common stocks and the failure of issuers and third parties to perform their obligations can result in illiquid markets.

Competition with other financial firms may have a negative effect on National's business.

National competes directly with national and regional full-service broker-dealers and a broad range of other financial service firms, including banks and insurance companies. Competition has increased as smaller securities firms have either ceased doing business or have been acquired by or merged into other firms. Mergers and acquisitions have increased competition from these firms, many of which have significantly greater financial, technical, marketing and other resources than National. Many of these firms offer their customers more products and research than currently offered by National. These competitors may be able to respond more quickly to new or changing opportunities, technologies and client requirements. National also faces competition from companies offering discount and/or electronic brokerage services, including brokerage services provided over the Internet, which National is currently not offering and does not intend to offer in the foreseeable future. These competitors may have lower costs or provide more services, and may offer their customers more favorable commissions, fees or other terms than those offered by National. To the extent that issuers and purchasers of securities transact business without the assistance of National, National's operating results could be adversely affected.

National is currently subject to extensive securities regulation and the failure to comply with these regulations could subject National to penalties or sanctions.

The securities industry and National's business are subject to extensive regulation by the SEC, state securities regulators and other governmental regulatory authorities. National is also regulated by industry self-regulatory organizations, including FINRA and the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board (MSRB). National Securities is a registered broker-dealer with the SEC and a member firm of FINRA. Broker-dealers are subject to regulations which cover all aspects of the securities business, including sales methods and supervision, trading practices among broker-dealers, use and safekeeping of customers' funds and securities, capital structure of securities firms, record keeping, and the conduct of directors, officers and employees. Changes in laws or regulations or in governmental policies could cause National to change the way it conducts its business, which could adversely affect National.

Compliance with many of the regulations applicable to National involves a number of risks, particularly in areas where applicable regulations may be subject to varying interpretation. These regulations often serve to limit National's activities, including through net capital, customer protection and market conduct requirements. If National is found to have violated an applicable regulation, administrative or judicial proceedings may be initiated against National that may result in a censure, fine, civil penalties, issuance of cease-and-desist orders, the deregistration or suspension of National's broker-dealer activities, the suspension or disqualification of National's officers or employees, or other adverse consequences. The imposition of any of these or other penalties could have a material adverse effect on National's operating results and financial condition.

National relies on clearing brokers and unilateral termination of the agreements with these clearing brokers could disrupt National's business.

National Securities is an introducing brokerage firm, using third party clearing brokers to process its securities transactions and maintain customer accounts on a fee basis. The clearing brokers also provide billing services, extend credit and provide for control and receipt, custody and delivery of securities. National Securities depends on the operational capacity and ability of the clearing brokers for the orderly processing of transactions. In addition, by engaging the processing services of a clearing firm, National is exempt from some capital reserve requirements and other regulatory requirements imposed by federal and state securities laws. If the clearing agreements are unilaterally terminated for any reason, National would be forced to find alternative clearing firms without adequate time to negotiate the terms of a new clearing agreement and without adequate time to plan for such change. There can be no assurance that if there were a unilateral termination of its clearing agreement that National would be able to find an alternative clearing firm on acceptable terms to it or at all.

In April 2005, National Securities entered into a clearing agreement with NFS that became effective in June 2005. In June 2005, National Securities entered into a clearing agreement with Penson for the purpose of providing clearing services that are not provided by NFS. Additionally, in June 2007, National Securities entered into a clearing agreement with Legent for the purpose of providing clearing services that are not provided by NFS and to maintain a pre-existing clearing relationship for brokers newly associated with National Securities.

National Securities permits its clients to purchase securities on a margin basis or sell securities short, which means that the clearing firm extends credit to the client secured by cash and securities in the client's account. During periods of volatile markets, the value of the collateral held by the clearing brokers could fall below the amount borrowed by the client. If margin requirements are not sufficient to cover losses, the clearing brokers sell or buy securities at prevailing market prices, and may incur losses to satisfy client obligations. National Securities has agreed to indemnify the clearing brokers for losses they incur while extending credit to its clients.

Credit risk exposes National to losses caused by financial or other problems experienced by third parties.

National is exposed to the risk that third parties that owe it money, securities or other assets will not perform their obligations. These parties include trading counterparts, customers, clearing agents, exchanges, clearing houses, and other financial intermediaries as well as issuers whose securities National holds. These parties may default on their obligations owed to National due to bankruptcy, lack of liquidity, operational failure or other reasons. This risk may arise, for example, from holding securities of third parties, executing securities trades that fail to settle at the required time due to non-delivery by the counterparty or systems failure by clearing agents, exchanges, clearing houses or other financial intermediaries, and extending credit to clients through bridge or margin loans or other arrangements.

Significant failures by third parties to perform their obligations owed to National could adversely affect National's revenues and perhaps National's ability to borrow in the credit markets.

Adverse results of current litigation and potential securities law liability would result in financial losses and divert management's attention to business.

Many aspects of National Securities' business involve substantial risks of liability. There has been an increase in litigation and arbitration within the securities industry in recent years, including class action suits seeking substantial damages. National Securities is subject to potential claims by dissatisfied customers, including claims alleging they were damaged by improper sales practices such as unauthorized trading, sale of unsuitable securities, use of false or misleading statements in the sale of securities, mismanagement and breach of fiduciary duty. National Securities may be liable for the unauthorized acts of its retail brokers if it fails to adequately supervise their conduct. As an underwriter, National Securities may be subject to substantial potential liability under federal and state law and court decisions, including liability for material misstatements and omissions in securities offerings. National Securities may be required to contribute to a settlement, defense costs or a final judgment in legal proceedings or arbitrations involving a past underwriting and in actions that may arise in the future. National Securities carries Errors and Omissions insurance to protect against arbitrations; however, the policy is limited in items and amounts covered and there can be no assurance that it will cover a particular complaint. The adverse resolution of any legal proceedings involving National and/or National Securities could have a material adverse effect on National's business, financial condition, results of operations or cash flows.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

National faces significant competition for registered representatives.

National is dependent upon the independent contractor model for its retail brokerage business. National is exposed to the risk that a large group of independent contractors could leave the firm or decide to affiliate with another firm and that it will be unable to recruit suitable replacements. A loss of a large group of National's independent contractors could have a material adverse impact on its ability to generate revenue in the retail brokerage business.

The price of the National common stock is volatile.

The price of National's common stock has fluctuated substantially. The market price of its common stock may be highly volatile as a result of factors specific to National and the securities markets in general. Factors affecting volatility may include: variations in National's annual or quarterly financial results or those of its competitors; economic conditions in general; and changes in applicable laws or regulations, or their judicial or administrative interpretations affecting National or its subsidiaries or the securities industry. In addition, volatility of the market price of National's common stock is further affected by its thinly traded nature.

National has restricted shares outstanding that may depress the price of National common stock.

As of May 2, 2008, of the 8,622,628 outstanding shares of National's common stock, approximately 3,350,000 shares may be deemed restricted shares and, in the future, may be sold in compliance with Rule 144 under the Securities Act. Rule 144, as amended, provides that a person who is not affiliated with National holding restricted securities for six months may sell such shares without restriction. A person who is affiliated with National and who has held restricted securities for six months may sell such shares in brokerage transactions, subject to limitations based on the number of shares outstanding and trading volume. Such sales may have a depressive effect on the price of National common stock in the open market.

National's principal stockholders including its directors and officers control a large percentage of shares of National's common stock and can significantly influence National's corporate actions.

As of May 2, 2008, the National's executive officers, directors and/or entities that these individuals are affiliated with, owned approximately 36% of the outstanding National common stock, including shares of common stock issuable upon conversion of National Series A preferred stock, and excluding stock options, warrants and a convertible note. Accordingly, these individuals and entities will be able to significantly influence most, if not all, of National's corporate actions, including the election of directors, the appointment of officers, and potential merger or acquisition transactions

Because National common stock may be subject to penny stock rules, the market for National common stock may be limited.

If National common stock becomes subject to the SEC's penny stock rules, broker-dealers may experience difficulty in completing customer transactions and trading activity in National's securities may be adversely affected. If at any time the common stock has a market price per share of less than $5.00, and National does not have net tangible assets of at least $2,000,000 or average revenue of at least $6,000,000 for the preceding three years, transactions in the common stock may be subject to the penny stock rules promulgated under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the Exchange Act). Under these rules, broker-dealers who recommend such securities to persons other than institutional accredited investors:

must make a special written suitability determination for the purchaser; receive the purchaser's written agreement to a transaction prior to sale; provide the purchaser with risk disclosure documents which identify certain risks associated with investing in penny stocks and which describe the market for these penny stocks as well as a purchaser's legal remedies; and obtain a signed and dated acknowledgment from the purchaser demonstrating that the purchaser has actually received the required risk disclosure document before a transaction in a penny stock can be completed.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

If National common stock becomes subject to these rules, broker-dealers may find it difficult to effectuate customer transactions and trading activity in National's securities may be adversely affected. As a result, the market price of National's securities may be depressed, and stockholders may find it more difficult to sell National's securities.

There are risks associated with National common stock trading on the OTC Bulletin Board rather than on a national exchange.

There may be significant consequences associated with National common stock trading on the OTC Bulletin Board rather than a national exchange. The effects of not being able to list National common stock securities on a national exchange include:

limited release of the market price of National securities;
limited news coverage;
limited interest by investors in National securities;
volatility of National common stock price due to low trading volume; increased difficulty in selling National securities in certain states due to blue sky restrictions; and limited ability to issue additional securities or to secure additional financing.

National's risk management policies and procedures may leave it exposed to unidentified risks or an unanticipated level of risk.

The policies and procedures National employs to identify, monitor and manage risks may not be fully effective. Some methods of risk management are based on the use of observed historical market behavior. As a result, these methods may not accurately predict future risk exposures, which could be significantly greater than the historical measures indicate. Other risk management methods depend on evaluation of information regarding markets, clients or other matters that are publicly available or otherwise accessible by National. This information may not be accurate, complete, up-to-date or properly evaluated. Management of operational, legal and regulatory risks requires, among other things, policies and procedures to properly record and verify a large number of transactions and events. National cannot assure that its policies and procedures will effectively and accurately record and verify this information.

National seeks to monitor and control its risk exposure through a variety of separate but complementary financial, credit, operational and legal reporting systems. National believes that it is able to evaluate and manage the market, credit and other risks to which it is exposed. Nonetheless, National's ability to manage risk exposure can never be completely or accurately predicted or fully assured. For example, unexpectedly large or rapid movements or disruptions in one or more markets or other unforeseen developments could have a material adverse effect on National's results of operations and financial condition. The consequences of these developments can include losses due to adverse changes in inventory values, decreases in the liquidity of trading positions, higher volatility in earnings, increases in National's credit risk to customers as well as to third parties and increases in general systemic risk.

National depends on senior employees and the loss of their services could harm its business.

National depends on the continued services of its management team, particularly Mark Goldwasser, National's Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer, as well as its ability to hire additional members of management, and to retain and motivate its other officers and key employees. National may not be able to find an appropriate replacement for Mr. Goldwasser or any other executive officer if the need should arise. National does not maintain any life insurance on Mr. Goldwasser. Due to the regulated nature of some of National's businesses, some of its executive officers, or other key personnel could become subject to suspensions or other limitations on the scope of their services to National from time to time. If National loses the services of any executive officers or other key personnel, it may not be able to manage and grow its operations effectively, enter new brokerage markets or develop new products.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

National's board of directors can issue shares of blank check preferred stock without further action by its stockholders.

National's board of directors has the authority, without further action by its stockholders, to issue up to 200,000 shares of preferred stock in one or more series and to fix the rights, preferences, privileges and restrictions in each series of the preferred stock, including:

dividend rights;
conversion rights;
voting rights, which may be greater or lesser than the voting rights of National common stock;
rights and terms of redemption; liquidation preferences; and sinking fund terms.

There are currently 50,000 shares of Series A preferred stock authorized, with 37,550 of such shares issued and outstanding. The issuance of additional shares of preferred stock could adversely affect the voting power of holders of National common stock and the likelihood that these holders will receive dividends and payments upon National's liquidation and could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change in control of National. Other than the issuance of additional shares of National Series A preferred stock as in-kind dividends, National has no current plans to issue any additional preferred stock in the next twelve months. Although the issuance of preferred stock may be necessary in order to raise additional capital.

National will be subject to new requirements that it evaluate its internal controls over financial reporting under Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and other corporate governance initiatives that may expose into certain risks.

Currently, for the year ending September 30, 2008, National will be subject to the requirements of Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and the SEC rules and regulations that require an annual management report on its internal controls over financial reporting, including, among other matters, management's assessment of the effectiveness of its internal control over financial reporting. For the year ending September 30, 2009, an attestation report by National's independent registered public accounting firm regarding National's internal controls will also be required.

National cannot be certain as to the timing of the completion of its evaluation, testing and remediation actions or the impact of the same on its operations. If National is not able to implement the requirements of Section 404 in a timely manner or with adequate compliance, it may be subject to sanctions or investigation by regulatory authorities, including the SEC. Moreover, if it is unable to assert that its internal control over financial reporting is effective in any future period (or if its auditors are unable to express an opinion on the effectiveness of its internal controls), National could lose investor confidence in the accuracy and completeness of its financial reports, which may have an a material adverse effect on the combined company.

National's compliance with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act may require significant expenses and management resources that would need to be diverted from its other operations and could require a restructuring of its internal controls over financial reporting. Any such expenses, time reallocations or restructuring could have a material adverse effect on its operations. The applicability of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act could make it more difficult and more expensive for National to obtain director and officer liability insurance, and also make it more difficult for it to attract and retain qualified individuals to serve on its boards of directors, or to serve as executive officers.

National does not expect to pay any dividends on our common stock in the foreseeable future.

National does not anticipate that it will pay any dividends to holders of National common stock in the foreseeable future. Other than dividends paid on its Series A preferred stock, National expects to retain all future earnings, if any, for investment in its business. In addition, National's Certificates of Designation setting forth the relative rights and preferences of its Series A preferred stock limit National's ability to pay dividends to the holders of National common stock.

Risks Related to vFinance's Business

vFinance has a limited operating history and as a result, it may be difficult to evaluate its business and prospects.

vFinance has a limited operating history despite the fact that it commenced its broker-dealer operations in 1999. As a result of acquisitions of Colonial Direct Financial Group Inc. and First Level Capital, now known as vFinance Investments, in 2001, EquityStation, select assets of Global Partners Securities, Inc. (Global) and 100% of the issued and outstanding equity securities of EquityStation, all of which were owned by Level2.com, Inc. (Level2), a subsidiary of Global (together, the Global Acquisition), in 2004, and select assets of Sterling Financial Investment Group, Inc. (SFIG) and Sterling Financial Group of Companies, Inc. (SFGC and together with SFIG, Sterling Financial) in 2006, vFinance's business has remained in flux. vFinance's business and prospects must be considered in light of the risks, expenses and difficulties frequently encountered by companies in the early stages of development.

These risks are particularly severe among companies in new and rapidly evolving markets such as online business development services and those in regulated industries such as the securities industry. It may be difficult or impossible to accurately forecast vFinance's operating results and to evaluate its business and prospects based on its historical results.

vFinance has had substantial losses since inception.

Prior to 2004, vFinance had sustained substantial losses in each year since its inception due to ongoing operating expenses and a lack of revenues sufficient to offset those operating expenses. vFinance has raised capital to fund ongoing operations by private sales of its securities, some of which sales have been highly dilutive and involved considerable expense. For the year ended December 31, 2004, when vFinance earned a substantial profit for the first time in its history, vFinance's results amounted to net income of $2.2 million, including a $1.5 million non-cash gain on debt forgiveness. For the years ended December 31, 2007, 2006 and 2005, however, vFinance's results amounted to net losses of approximately $1.7 million, $2.2 million and $1.1 million, respectively.

The net losses generated in 2007, 2006 and 2005 resulted primarily from increased costs from expanded facilities and staff, as well as amortization expense associated with the Global Acquisition and the acquisition of Sterling Financial, customer settlements and their respective legal costs, non-cash impairment charges in 2005 and stock option expense in 2007 and 2006. vFinance expects to continue to make significant capital expenditures to enhance its products and technologies, and to expand domestic and international sales and operations. As a result, vFinance will need to continue to generate significant additional revenue to achieve profitability and generate sufficient working capital to fund its planned spending. Even if vFinance achieves profitability, it may not be able to maintain or increase

vFinance may need to raise additional funds, which may not be available when it needs them.

Based on vFinance's current spending plans and its projected working capital, vFinance believes that its cash on hand and cash generated from its operations will be sufficient to fund its operations for at least the next 12 months. However, vFinance may attempt to raise additional capital to operate the business, support expansion plans, develop new or enhanced services and products, respond to competitive pressures, acquire complementary businesses or technologies or respond to unanticipated events. vFinance can provide no assurances that additional financing will be available when needed on favorable terms, if at all. If these funds are not available when vFinance need them, it may need to change its business strategy or reduce its operations or investment activities.

The securities industry and vFinance's business are subject to extensive regulation by the SEC, state securities regulators and other governmental regulatory authorities. vFinance also is also regulated by industry self-regulatory organizations, including FINRA, the NFA and the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board. The regulatory environment is also subject to change, and vFinance may be adversely affected as a result of new or revised legislation or regulations imposed by the SEC, other federal or state governmental regulatory authorities, or self-regulatory organizations. vFinance also may be adversely affected by changes in the interpretation or enforcement of existing laws and rules by these governmental authorities and self-regulatory organizations.

vFinance Investments and EquityStation are registered broker-dealers with the SEC and members of FINRA. Broker-dealers are subject to regulations which cover all aspects of the securities business, including:

sales methods and supervision;
trading practices among broker-dealers;
use and safekeeping of customers' funds and securities; capital structure of securities firms; record keeping; and the conduct of directors, officers and employees.

Compliance with many of the regulations applicable to vFinance involves a number of risks, particularly in areas where applicable regulations may be subject to varying interpretation. The requirements imposed by these regulators are designed to ensure the integrity of the financial markets and to protect customers and other third parties who deal with it. Consequently, these regulations often serve to limit vFinance's activities, including through net capital, customer protection and market conduct requirements. Much of the regulation of broker-dealers has been delegated to self-regulatory organizations, principally FINRA Regulation, Inc., the regulatory arm of FINRA. vFinance is primarily regulated by FINRA and the SEC. FINRA Regulation Inc. adopts rules, subject to approval by the SEC, that govern its members and conducts periodic examinations of member firms' operations.

If vFinance is found to have violated any applicable regulation, formal administrative or judicial proceedings may be initiated against it that may result in:

vFinance has had substantial losses since inception.

fine;
civil penalties, including treble damages in the case of insider trading violations;
the issuance of cease-and-desist orders;
the deregistration or suspension of vFinance's broker-dealer activities; the suspension or disqualification of vFinance's officers or employees; and/or other adverse consequences.

The imposition of any of these or other penalties could have a material adverse effect on vFinance's operating results and financial condition.

vFinance is subject to various risks associated with the securities industry.

As securities broker-dealers, vFinance is subject to uncertainties that are common in the securities industry. These uncertainties include:

the volatility of domestic and international financial, bond and stock markets, as demonstrated by past disruptions in the financial markets;

extensive governmental regulation;
litigation;
intense competition;
substantial fluctuations in the volume and price level of securities; and dependence on the solvency of various third parties.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

As a result of these risks, revenues and earnings may vary significantly from quarter to quarter and from year to year. vFinance is much smaller and has much less capital than many of its competitors in the securities industry. Accordingly, vFinance could be impacted by these risks to a larger degree. In the event of a market downturn, vFinance's revenues would likely decline and, if it were unable to reduce expenses at the same pace, its profit margins would quickly erode.

vFinance's business could be adversely affected by a breakdown in the financial markets.

As a securities broker-dealer, vFinance's business is materially affected by conditions in the financial markets and economic conditions in general, both in the United States and elsewhere around the world. Many factors or events could lead to a breakdown in the financial markets including war, terrorism, natural catastrophes and other types of disasters. These types of events could cause people to begin to lose confidence in the financial markets and their ability to function effectively. If the financial markets are unable to effectively prepare for these types of events and ease public concern over their ability to function, vFinance's revenues may decline and its operations could be adversely affected.

vFinance has incurred, and may in the future incur, significant losses from trading and investment activities due to market fluctuations and volatility.

vFinance generally maintains trading and investment positions in the equity markets. To the extent that vFinance owns assets, i.e., has long positions, a downturn in those markets could result in losses from a decline in the value of such long positions. Conversely, to the extent that vFinance has sold assets that it does not own, i.e., has short positions in any of those markets, an upturn could expose it to potentially unlimited losses as it attempts to cover its short positions by acquiring assets in a rising market.

vFinance may, from time to time, have a trading strategy consisting of holding a long position in one asset and a short position in another from which it expects to earn revenues based on changes in the relative value of the two assets. If, however, the relative value of the two assets changes in a direction or manner that vFinance did not anticipate or against which it is not hedged, vFinance might realize a loss in those paired positions. In addition, vFinance maintains trading positions that can be adversely affected by the level of volatility in the financial markets, i.e., the degree to which trading prices fluctuate over a particular period, in a particular market, regardless of market levels.

vFinance s revenues may decline in adverse market or economic conditions.

Unfavorable financial or economic conditions may reduce the number and size of the transactions in which vFinance provides underwriting services, merger and acquisition consulting and other services. vFinance s investment banking revenues, in the form of financial advisory and underwriting fees, are directly related to the number and size of the transactions in which it participates and would therefore be adversely affected by a sustained market downturn.

Additionally, a downturn in market conditions could lead to a decline in the volume of transactions that vFinance executes for its customers and, therefore, to a decline in the revenues it receives from commissions and spreads.

Customer relationship intangible assets comprised approximately 27% and 35% of vFinance s total assets as of December 31, 2007 and 2006, respectively. vFinance must review customer relationships for impairment whenever events or circumstances indicate that impairment may be present, which may result in a material, non-cash write down of customer relationships. A significant decrease in revenues or cash flows derived from acquired customer relationships could result in a material, non-cash write-down of customer relationships. Such impairment would have a material adverse impact on vFinance s results of operations and stockholders equity.

vFinance s risk management policies and procedures may leave it exposed to unidentified risks or an unanticipated level of risk.

The policies and procedures vFinance employs to identify, monitor and manage risks may not be fully effective. Some methods of risk management are based on the use of observed historical market behavior. As a result, these methods may not accurately predict future risk exposures, which could be significantly greater than the historical measures indicate. Other risk management methods depend on evaluation of information regarding markets, clients or other matters that are publicly available or otherwise accessible by vFinance.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

This information may not be accurate, complete, up-to-date or properly evaluated. Management of operational, legal and regulatory risks requires, among other things, policies and procedures to properly record and verify a large number of transactions and events. vFinance cannot be assured that its policies and procedures will effectively and accurately record and verify this information.

vFinance seeks to monitor and control its risk exposure through a variety of separate, but complementary financial, credit, operational and legal reporting systems. vFinance believes that it is able to evaluate and manage the market, credit and other risks to which it exposed. Nonetheless, vFinance s ability to manage risk exposure can never be completely or accurately predicted or fully assured. For example, unexpectedly large or rapid movements or disruptions in one or more markets or other unforeseen developments can have a material adverse effect on vFinance s results of operations and financial condition. The consequences of these developments can include losses due to adverse changes in inventory values, decreases in the liquidity of trading positions, higher volatility in earnings,

increases in vFinance's credit risk to customers as well as to third parties and increases in general systemic risk.

Credit risk exposes vFinance to losses caused by financial or other problems experienced by third parties.

vFinance is exposed to the risk that third parties that owe it money, securities or other assets will not perform their obligations. These parties include:

trading counterparties;
customers;
clearing agents;
exchanges;
clearing houses; and other financial intermediaries as well as issuers whose securities vFinance hold.

These parties may default on their obligations owed to vFinance due to bankruptcy, lack of liquidity, operational failure or other reasons. This risk may arise, for example, from:

holding securities of third parties; executing securities trades that fail to settle at the required time due to non-delivery by the counterparty or systems failure by clearing agents, exchanges, clearing houses or other financial intermediaries; and extending credit to clients through bridge or margin loans or other arrangements.

Significant failures by third parties to perform their obligations owed to vFinance could adversely affect its revenues and perhaps its ability to borrow in the credit markets.

vFinance may have difficulty retaining or recruiting vFinance's independent contractors.

vFinance is dependent upon the independent contractor model for its retail brokerage business. As such, approximately 86% of its retail registered representatives were independent contractors as of December 31, 2007. vFinance is exposed to the risk that a large group of independent contractors leave the firm or decide to affiliate with another firm and that vFinance is unable to recruit suitable replacements. A loss of a large group of vFinance's independent contractors could have a material adverse impact on its ability to generate revenue in the retail brokerage business.

Intense competition from existing and new entities may adversely affect vFinance's revenues and profitability.

The securities industry is rapidly evolving, intensely competitive and has few barriers to entry. vFinance expects competition to continue to intensify in the future. Many of vFinance's competitors have significantly greater financial, technical, marketing and other resources than vFinance does. They may also offer a wider range of services and financial products and have greater name recognition and a larger client base than vFinance does. These competitors may be able to respond more quickly to new or changing opportunities, technologies and client requirements. They may also be able to undertake more extensive promotional activities, offer more attractive terms to clients, and adopt more aggressive pricing policies. vFinance may not be able to compete effectively with current or future competitors and competitive pressures faced by it may harm its business.

The precautions vFinance takes to prevent and detect employee misconduct may not be effective, and vFinance could be exposed to unknown and unmanaged risks or losses.

vFinance runs the risk that employee misconduct could occur. Misconduct by employees could include:

employees binding vFinance to transactions that exceed authorized limits or present unacceptable risks to it; employees hiding unauthorized or unsuccessful activities from vFinance; or the improper use of confidential information.

These types of misconduct could result in unknown and unmanaged risks or losses to us including regulatory sanctions and serious harm to vFinance's reputation. The precautions vFinance takes to prevent and detect these activities may not be effective. If employee misconduct does occur, vFinance's business operations could be materially adversely affected.

vFinance may experience losses associated with securities laws violations and litigation.

Many aspects of vFinance's business involve substantial risks of liability. An underwriter is exposed to substantial liability under federal and state securities laws, other federal and state laws, and court decisions, including decisions with respect to underwriters' liability and limitations on indemnification of underwriters by issuers. For example, a firm that acts as an underwriter may be held liable for material misstatements or omissions of fact in a prospectus used in connection with the securities being offered or for statements made by its securities analysts or other personnel. In recent years, there has been an increasing incidence of litigation involving the securities industry, including class actions that seek substantial damages. vFinance's underwriting activities will usually involve offerings of the securities of smaller companies, which often involve a higher degree of risk and are more volatile than the securities of more established companies. In comparison with more established companies, smaller companies are also more likely to be the subject of securities class actions, not to carry directors and officer's liability insurance or policies with lower limits, and to become insolvent. Each of these factors increases the likelihood that an underwriter of smaller companies' securities will be required to contribute to an adverse judgment or settlement of a securities lawsuit.

In the normal course of business, vFinance's operating subsidiaries have been and continue to be the subject of numerous civil actions and arbitrations arising out of customer complaints relating to vFinance's activities as a broker-dealer and as a result of other business activities. In general, the cases involve various allegations that vFinance's employees mishandled customer accounts. vFinance believes that, based on vFinance's historical experience and the reserves established by it, the resolution of the claims presently pending will not have a material adverse effect on its financial condition. However, although vFinance typically reserves an amount vFinance believes will be sufficient to cover any damages assessed against it, vFinance has in the past been assessed damages that exceeded its reserves. If vFinance misjudged the amount of damages that may be assessed against it from pending or threatened claims or if vFinance are unable to adequately estimate the amount of damages that will be assessed against it from claims that arise in the future and fails to appropriately reserve, vFinance's financial condition may be materially adversely affected.

The vFinance brand may not achieve the broad recognition necessary to succeed.

vFinance believes that broader recognition and positive perception of the vFinance brand is essential to its future success. Accordingly, vFinance intends to continue to pursue an aggressive brand enhancement strategy, which will include multimedia advertising, promotional programs and public relations activities. These initiatives will require significant expenditures. If vFinance's brand enhancement strategy is unsuccessful, these expenses may never be recovered and vFinance may be unable to increase future revenues. Successful positioning of vFinance's brand will depend in a large part on: the success of vFinance's advertising and promotional efforts; an increase in the number of users and page views of vFinance's website; and the ability to continue to provide a website and services useful to vFinance's clients.

If vFinance does not continue to develop and enhance its services in a timely manner, its business may be harmed.

vFinance's future success will depend on its ability to develop and enhance its services and add new services. vFinance operates in a very competitive industry in which the ability to develop and deliver advanced services through the Internet and other channels is a key competitive factor. There are significant risks in the development of new or enhanced services, including the risks that vFinance will be unable to:

effectively use new technologies; adapt its services to emerging industry or regulatory standards; or market new or enhanced services.

If vFinance is unable to develop and introduce new or enhanced services quickly enough to respond to market or customer requirements or to comply with emerging industry standards, or if these services do not achieve market acceptance, vFinance's business could be seriously harmed.

Internet and internal computer system failures or compromises of vFinance's systems or security could damage its reputation and harm its business.

Although a significant portion of vFinance's business is conducted using traditional methods of contact and communications such as face-to-face meetings, a portion of its business is conducted through the Internet. vFinance could experience system failures and degradations in the future. vFinance cannot assure you that it will be able to prevent an extended system failure if any of the following events occur:

human error;
subsystem, component, or software failure;
a power or telecommunications failure;
an earthquake, fire, or other natural disaster or act of God;
hacker attacks or other intentional acts of vandalism; or terrorist's acts or war.

Failure to adequately protect the integrity of vFinance's computer systems and safeguard the transmission of confidential information could harm its business.

The secure transmission of confidential information over public networks is a critical element of vFinance's operations. vFinance relies on encryption and authentication technology to provide the security and authentication necessary to effect secure transmission of confidential information over the Internet. vFinance does not believe that it has experienced any security breaches in the transmission of confidential information. In 2007, however, vFinance was the target of hacking that affected some of its internal databases and its website. Since that incident, vFinance has invested in several defensive systems, including, but not limited to, updating data encryption to current standards, upgrading password requirements to strong passwords and adding state of the art firewall protection across all of its networks. Moreover, vFinance continually evaluates advanced encryption technology to try and ensure the continued integrity of its systems. However, vFinance cannot assure you that advances in computer capabilities, new discoveries in the field of cryptography or other events or developments will not result in a compromise of the technology or other algorithms used by its vendors and it to protect client transaction and other data. Any compromise of vFinance's systems or security could harm its business.

The vFinance brand may not achieve the broad recognition necessary to succeed.

37

vFinance depends on a limited number of key executives who would be difficult to replace.

vFinance's success depends significantly on the continued services of its senior management, especially Leonard J. Sokolow, vFinance's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. Losing Mr. Sokolow or any of vFinance's subsidiaries other key executives could seriously harm its business. vFinance cannot assure you that it will be able to retain its key executives or that it would be able to replace any of its key executives if it were to lose their services for any reason. Competition for these executives is intense. If vFinance has to replace any of these key executives, it would not be able to replace the significant amount of knowledge that these key executives have about its operations. vFinance does not maintain key person insurance policies on any of its executives.

vFinance's operating broker-dealer subsidiaries extend credit to their clients and are subject to risks as a result.

vFinance's broker-dealers, vFinance Investments and EquityStation, clear all transactions for customers on a fully-disclosed basis with their clearing brokers, NFS, Fortis Clearing, Legent Clearing and Penson Clearing. These clearing brokers carry and clear all customer securities accounts. A limited portion of the customer securities activities for both broker-dealers are transacted on a margin basis, pursuant to which credit is extended to customer. The credit extended to customers (a) is secured by cash and securities in customer accounts, or (b) involves (i) short sales (i.e., the sale of securities not yet purchased) or (ii) the purchase and sale of commodity futures contracts, substantially all of which are transacted on a margin basis. These risks are increased during periods of volatile markets in which the value of the collateral held could fall below the amount borrowed by clients. If margin requirements are not sufficient to cover losses, vFinance's broker-dealers may be required to sell or buy securities at prevailing market prices and incur losses to satisfy their client obligations.

vFinance may underwrite securities through vFinance Investments and is subject to losses relating to a decline in the market value of securities that it holds in inventory and to potential liability for engaging in underwriting activities.

The underwriting activities of vFinance Investments involve the purchase, sale or short sale of securities as a principal. As an underwriter, vFinance Investments purchases securities on a firm commitment basis and is subject to risk that it may be unable to resell securities or be required to dispose of securities at a loss. In connection with vFinance's investment-banking activities in which vFinance Investments acts as a manager or co-manager of public offerings of securities, vFinance expect to make increased commitments through vFinance Investments of capital to market-making activities in securities of those issuers. Any additional concentration of capital in the securities of those issuers held in inventory will increase the risk of loss from possible declines in the market price of those securities. In addition, under federal securities laws, other laws and court decisions with respect to underwriters liabilities and limitations on the indemnification of underwriters by issuers, an underwriter is subject to substantial potential liability for misstatements or omissions of material facts in prospectuses and other communications with respect to securities offerings. vFinance's potential liability through vFinance Investments as an underwriter is generally not covered by insurance. Moreover, underwriting commitments constitute a charge against net capital and the ability of vFinance Investments to make underwriting commitments may be limited by the requirement that it must at all times be in compliance with the net capital rule.

vFinance's success and ability to compete depend to a significant degree on vFinance's intellectual property.

vFinance relies on copyright and trademark law, as well as confidentiality arrangements, to protect its intellectual property. vFinance owns the following federally registered marks: vFinance, Inc.®, vFinance.com, Inc.®, AngelSearch®, Direct2Desk® and Hedge Fund Accelerator®. vFinance currently does not have any patents. The concepts and technologies vFinance uses may not be patentable. vFinance's competitors or others may adopt product or service names similar to vFinance.com, thereby impeding vFinance's ability to build brand identity and possibly leading to client confusion. vFinance's inability to adequately protect the name vFinance.com would seriously harm its business. Policing unauthorized use of vFinance's intellectual property is made especially difficult by the global nature of the Internet and the inherent difficulty in controlling the ultimate destination or security of software or other data transmitted on it.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

The laws of other countries may afford vFinance little or no effective protection for its intellectual property. vFinance cannot assure you that the steps it takes will prevent misappropriation of its intellectual property or that agreements entered into for that purpose will be enforceable. In addition, litigation may be necessary in the future to:

- enforce vFinance's intellectual property rights;
- determine the validity and scope of the proprietary rights of others; or
- defend against claims of infringement or invalidity.

Such litigation, whether successful or unsuccessful, could result in substantial costs and diversions of resources, either of which could seriously harm vFinance's business.

THE vFINANCE SPECIAL MEETING

vFinance is furnishing this document to holders of vFinance common stock in connection with the solicitation by vFinance's board of directors of proxies to be voted at the special meeting of vFinance stockholders to be held on June 13, 2008, and at any adjournment or postponement of the meeting.

This document is first being mailed to vFinance stockholders on or about May 12, 2008. This document is also furnished to vFinance stockholders as a prospectus in connection with the issuance by National of shares of National common stock and contingent stock rights as contemplated by the merger agreement.

The special meeting will be held on June 13, 2008 at 10:00 a.m., local time, at Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP, One North Clematis Street, Suite 400, West Palm Beach, Florida 33401.

Matters to Be Considered

The purpose of the vFinance special meeting is to consider and vote on the following proposal:

To adopt the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated November 7, 2007, as amended, by and among National, vFin Acquisition Corporation which is a wholly owned subsidiary of National) and vFinance, a copy of which is included as Appendix A to this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

vFinance stockholders also will be asked to transact any other business that may be properly brought before the special meeting or any adjournments or postponements of the special meeting. At this time, vFinance's board of directors is unaware of any matters, other than the proposal set forth above, that may properly come before the special meeting.

Recommendation of the vFinance Board of Directors

vFinance's board of directors, upon recommendation of the special committee, has unanimously approved the merger agreement and has determined that the merger agreement and the merger are advisable and fair to, and in the best interests of, vFinance's stockholders. vFinance's board of directors unanimously recommends that vFinance stockholders vote FOR adoption of the merger agreement.

Record Date and Voting

vFinance has fixed the close of business on May 2, 2008, as the record date for the determination of holders of vFinance common stock, par value, $0.001 per share, entitled to notice of, and to vote on all matters at, the special meeting and any adjournment or postponement of the special meeting. In deciding all matters that come before the special meeting, each holder of vFinance common stock is entitled to one vote per share of vFinance common stock held as of the close of business on the record date.

At the close of business on the record date for the special meeting, there were outstanding and entitled to vote 55,335,066 shares of vFinance common stock, held by approximately 300 holders of record. There are no other shares of vFinance capital stock entitled to notice of and to vote at the special meeting. Accordingly, the aggregate number of votes of vFinance common stock that may be cast at the special meeting for all matters is 55,335,066.

Quorum; Abstentions and Broker Non-Votes

A quorum, consisting of 27,667,534 shares, which is a majority of the outstanding shares of vFinance common stock entitled to vote must be represented at the special meeting in person or by proxy before any action may be taken with respect to the adoption of the merger agreement or any other matters at the special meeting. Abstentions and broker non-votes will be counted as shares that are present and entitled to vote for purposes of determining the presence of a quorum.

An abstention occurs when a stockholder sends in a proxy with explicit instructions to decline to vote regarding a particular matter. Broker non-votes are shares held by brokers or nominees for whom voting instructions have not been received from the beneficial owners or the persons entitled to vote those shares and the broker or nominee does not have discretionary voting power under rules applicable to broker-dealers. If you hold your shares of vFinance common stock through a broker, bank or other nominee, generally the nominee may only vote your shares in accordance with your instructions. However, if your broker, bank or other nominee has not timely received your instructions, it may vote on matters for which it has discretionary voting authority. Under rules applicable to broker-dealers, the proposal to adopt the merger agreement is not a matter on which brokerage firms may vote in their discretion on behalf of their clients if such clients have not furnished voting instructions within ten days of the special meeting. If you do not instruct your broker, bank or other nominee, they will not be able to vote your shares.

Because adoption of the merger agreement requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of vFinance common stock outstanding on the record date and entitled to vote, abstentions and broker non-votes will have the same effect as votes against adoption of the merger agreement. In addition, the failure of a vFinance stockholder to return a proxy will have the effect of a vote against the adoption of the merger agreement. Accordingly, if a broker or bank holds your shares you are urged to instruct your broker or bank on how to vote your shares. If you do not instruct your broker how to vote, it will have the effect of a vote against adoption of the merger agreement.

Vote Required

Adoption of the merger agreement by vFinance's stockholders is required by Delaware law. The affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the shares of vFinance common stock outstanding on the record date and entitled to vote at the special meeting is required to adopt the merger agreement.

At the close of business on the record date for the special meeting and the date of this joint proxy statement/prospectus, neither vFinance nor any of its directors or executive officers owned any shares of National common stock and neither National nor any of its directors or officers owned any shares of vFinance common stock.

Voting Shares Held by vFinance Executive Officers, Directors and Affiliates

At the close of business on the record date for the special meeting, the directors and executive officers of vFinance collectively beneficially owned approximately 11% shares of vFinance common stock or approximately 14.1% of the outstanding shares of vFinance common stock (inclusive of shares subject to stock options that may be exercised within 60 days following that date).

In connection with the execution of the merger agreement, two vFinance stockholders entered into a voting agreement with National and vFin Acquisition Corporation: Leonard Sokolow, vFinance's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, and Dennis De Marchena. As of the record date for the vFinance special meeting, Messrs. Sokolow and De Marchena were the record owners, respectively, of 5,883,010 and 2,198,091 shares of vFinance common stock. Such shares represent approximately 10.6% and 4.0%, respectively, and approximately 14.6% in the aggregate, of vFinance's outstanding shares of common stock as of the record date. Pursuant to this voting agreement, among other things and subject to limited exceptions, Mr. Sokolow has agreed to vote all shares of vFinance common stock and Mr. De Marchena has agreed to vote 2,000,000 shares of vFinance common stock in favor of adoption of the merger agreement.

If you hold shares in your name and sign, date and mail your proxy card without indicating how you want to vote, your shares will be voted FOR adoption of the merger agreement.

vFinance's board of directors does not presently intend to bring any other business before the special meeting and is unaware of any matters, other than the proposal to adopt the merger agreement, that may properly come before the special meeting. No proxy voted against the proposal to adopt the merger agreement will be voted in favor of any adjournment or postponement to permit further solicitation of proxies. Proxies solicited may be voted only at the special meeting and any adjournment or postponement of the special meeting and will not be used for any other vFinance meeting of stockholders.

Continental Stock Transfer & Trust Company will serve as proxy tabulator and count the votes. The results will be certified by the inspectors of election.

How to Change Your Vote

A vFinance stockholder who has given a proxy may revoke it at any time before it is exercised at the special meeting by:

delivering to the Secretary of vFinance a written notice, bearing a date later than the date of the proxy, stating that the proxy is revoked;
submitting a proxy at a later date by telephone or via the Internet, or by signing and delivering a proxy card relating to the same shares and bearing a later date than the date of the previous proxy prior to the vote at the special meeting, in which case your later-submitted proxy will be recorded and your earlier proxy revoked; or attending the special meeting and voting in person (your attendance at the special meeting, in and of itself, will not revoke the proxy).

Any written notice of revocation, or later dated proxy, should be delivered to:

3010 North Military Trail, Suite 300
Boca Raton, Florida 33431

Alternatively, you may hand deliver a written revocation notice, or a later dated proxy, to the Secretary at the special meeting before voting begins.

If your shares of vFinance common stock are held by a bank, broker or other nominee, you must follow the instructions provided by the bank, broker or other nominee if you wish to change your vote.

The vFinance proxy accompanying this joint proxy statement/prospectus is solicited on behalf of vFinance's board of directors. vFinance and National will share the costs, other than fees of accountants and attorneys, of preparing and mailing this joint proxy statement/prospectus, and vFinance will bear the other costs of the solicitation of proxies from its stockholders. Following the mailing of this joint proxy statement/prospectus, the directors, officers, employees and agents of vFinance and National and their respective subsidiaries may solicit proxies in person, by mail, or by telephone, facsimile or other electronic methods without additional compensation other than reimbursement for their actual expenses.

Brokerage houses and other custodians, nominees and fiduciaries will send beneficial owners the proxy materials. vFinance will, upon request, reimburse those brokerage houses and custodians for their reasonable expenses.
vFinance urges its stockholders to vote without delay.

Some banks, brokers and other record holders may be participating in the practice of householding joint proxy statements. THE NATIONAL SPECIAL MEETING

This joint proxy statement/prospectus is being furnished to stockholders of National Holdings Corporation, a Delaware corporation, as part of the solicitation of proxies by the National board of directors for use at the Special Meeting of stockholders of National to be held on June 12, 2008 at 120 Broadway, 27th Floor, New York, New York 10271, starting at 11:00 a.m., local time, and at any adjournment or postponement of such meeting. This joint proxy statement/prospectus and the enclosed form of proxy are first being mailed to stockholders of National on or about May 12, 2008.

Matters to Be Considered

The purpose of the National Special Meeting is:

1. To consider and vote upon a proposal to approve and adopt an amendment to the certificate of incorporation to increase National's authorized shares of common stock from 30,000,000 shares to 50,000,000 shares.

Recommendation of National's Board of Directors

The National board of directors, after careful consideration, has unanimously approved the amendment to the certificate of incorporation. The National board believes that the amendment is advisable and in your best interests and unanimously recommends that you vote FOR approval and adoption of the amended certificate of incorporation.

Record Date and Voting

Holders of record of shares of National common stock and Series A preferred stock at the close of business on May 2, 2008, are entitled to notice of and to vote at the National Special Meeting. At the National record date, there were outstanding 8,622,628 shares of National common stock and 37,550 shares of National Series A preferred stock. Each share of National Series A preferred stock is convertible into National common stock at the current conversion price of $1.25 per share, and the holder of each share of National Series A preferred stock is entitled to the number of votes equal to the number of shares into which such share of National Series A preferred stock could be converted at the record date. Each share of National common stock entitles the holder thereof to one vote upon any proposal submitted for a vote at the Special Meeting, and each share of National Series A preferred stock entitles the holder thereof to 80 votes. Accordingly, as of the National record date, there were 11,626,628 shares entitled to vote, consisting of 8,622,628 shares of National common stock outstanding, and 3,004,000 shares of National common stock issuable upon conversion of the National Series A preferred stock.

The representation, in person or by properly executed proxy, of the holders of a majority in voting power of all of the outstanding shares of common stock and Series A preferred stock entitled to vote at the National Special Meeting is necessary to constitute a quorum at the National Special Meeting.

Under Delaware law, the proposed amendment to National's certificate of incorporation requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of National's issued and outstanding shares of stock entitled to vote at the Meeting. If the stockholders approve the proposed amendment affecting the certificate of incorporation, National will file an amendment with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware to the certificate of incorporation that reflects the amendment.

Shares of National common stock and Series A preferred stock represented in person or by proxy will be counted for the purposes of determining whether a quorum is present at the National Special Meeting. Abstentions and broker non-votes will be counted as present or represented and entitled to vote at the National Special Meeting for purposes of determining whether a quorum is present. A broker non-vote occurs when a broker holding shares for a beneficial owner does not vote on a proposal because the broker does not have discretionary voting power and has not received instructions from the beneficial owner with respect to the proposal. Abstentions and broker non-votes will be included in the number of shares present or represented and voting on each matter and will have the same effect as votes against approval of the amendment to the certificate of incorporation.

If you are the record holder of National shares and you sign, date and mail your proxy card without identifying how you want to vote with respect to a proposal, your proxy will be voted FOR the approval of the amendment to the certificate of incorporation.

If you sign, date and mail your proxy card and indicate that you intend to withhold your vote on a proposal, it will have the same effect as a vote AGAINST the proposals. You may also vote by appearing at the Special Meeting and voting in person.

The National Special Meeting may be adjourned or postponed by the chairman of the board for any proper reason including to permit further solicitation of proxies. No proxy voted against the proposal to adopt the merger agreement will be voted on any proposal submitted to the shareholders to adjourn or postpone the annual meeting.

PROPOSAL I THE MERGER

This section of the joint proxy statement/prospectus describes material aspects of the proposed merger. For more information regarding the agreement and plan of merger, please see The Agreement and Plan of Merger section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus starting on page 73. While we believe that the description covers the material terms of the merger and the related transactions, this summary may not contain all of the information that is important to vFinance stockholders. You should read the agreement and plan of merger and the other documents we refer to carefully and in their entirety for a more complete understanding of the merger.

General

National and vFinance have entered into an agreement and plan of merger dated as of November 7, 2007 that provides for the merger of vFinance and a wholly owned subsidiary of National. As a result of the merger, vFinance will become a wholly owned subsidiary of National and vFinance common stockholders will receive 0.14 shares of National common stock in exchange for each share of vFinance common stock they own. The vFinance stockholders will own approximately of the shares of National common stock outstanding after the merger, assuming the conversion of all National Series A preferred stock, on both an as issued and fully-diluted basis. At May 2, 2008, National had 8,622,628 shares of common stock and 37,550 shares of Series A preferred stock outstanding. The vFinance stockholders will have no stockholder rights in vFinance after the merger.

The agreement and plan of merger is attached to this joint proxy statement/ prospectus as Appendix A. The exhibit and schedules to the merger agreement are not included but may be obtained from National upon request.

The National board of directors considered and reviewed with management several factors, in reaching its decision to enter into the merger agreement. These factors included: anticipated synergies from the merger which will result from operating a larger entity with greater critical mass, lower expenses on a per broker basis and a stronger capital structure; increasing rates of growth, modernizing infrastructure and the ability to develop new products and services; the need for at least $3 million of additional capital and access to new sources of financing; proposed management changes; cost savings achieved by the ability to eliminate duplicative expenses associated with public company compliance and the opportunity to compete for more successful brokers with higher levels of assets under management.

National and vFinance are both publicly traded companies, listed on the OTC Bulletin Board. The rapidly changing regulatory and compliance environment for public companies was a determinant factor in the proposed merger. New legislation governing public companies has increased the costs of compliance. As a result of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, public companies must now expend significant human, informational and capital resources to comply with applicable laws and regulations. Internal and external legal and audit costs, as well as director and other fees have become quite burdensome on small public companies attempting to achieve growth and profitability. In addition, small-cap companies, such as National and vFinance, continue to experience difficulties in attracting interest from the investor community, which limits access to the capital markets.

National and vFinance also have faced significant operational and regulatory issues in their businesses and have acted to improve oversight and efficiency over the last several years. Beginning in approximately 2002, National launched an effort to improve its business operations, balance sheet, and capital structure, and to reduce the incidence of customer complaints, arbitrations, and regulatory concerns. National's new management team and compliance personnel have improved National's financial position including returning National to profitability in fiscal year 2004 by eliminating unnecessary costs and duplicative expenses, while at the same time managing a more efficient broker-dealer. Similarly, vFinance's management team has improved vFinance's financial condition by eliminating duplicative expenses and increased the efficiency of its broker-dealer subsidiaries.

It is expected that the combined entity will not only be able to reduce costs and consolidate operations and management teams, but will be able to provide a platform for brokers to offer their client base a broader scope of products and services. National intends to use this more sophisticated product mix to attract professional brokers with a higher level of assets under management.

Background of the Merger

Beginning in early 2003, representatives of National and vFinance began discussing the overall business environment in the brokerage business and the possibility of combining the two companies. In early 2003, Mark Goldwasser, National's President and Chief Executive Officer, met with Leonard J. Sokolow, vFinance's Chief Executive Officer, to discuss the potential combination of the two companies. Based on the conversations, the parties agreed that a business transaction was a viable opportunity for the companies and began initial negotiations with respect to the terms and conditions of the proposed combination and began their respective due diligence investigations. In June 2003, the parties agreed to terminate further negotiations.

Beginning in January 2007, Christopher Dewey, National's Vice Chairman, initiated discussions with Leonard Sokolow with respect to a potential combination of the two companies. On February 16, 2007, Mr. Dewey and Mr. Sokolow met and discussed the synergies that could result from the merger of the companies and agreed to continue discussions with regard to a possible merger of the two companies.

In March 2007, executive management of vFinance and National met in National's counsel's office in New York to discuss and consider the possible merger. At that meeting, the parties discussed their then present business operations, and the efforts of both companies to complete significant cost cutting and restructuring of their respective businesses.

On March 13, 2007, National's board of directors created an M&A Committee for the purpose of negotiating acquisition or merger agreements.

vFinance's board of directors and senior management regularly discuss vFinance's business and strategic direction, including evaluating growth opportunities which could enhance stockholder value. In June 2007, in the context of reviewing various strategic alternatives, vFinance's board and management considered the benefits of potential strategic combinations and identified potential parties with which vFinance could consider entering into a strategic transaction. vFinance management engaged in some preliminary discussions with Ladenburg Thalmann Financial Services Inc. (Ladenburg), regarding a potential merger. In June 2007, vFinance received a proposal regarding a potential merger between vFinance and Ladenburg and a proposed agreement and plan of merger. vFinance's board of directors formed a special committee for the purpose of evaluating a merger with Ladenburg. vFinance's board of directors held one meeting and the special committee held three meetings with regard to the potential merger with Ladenburg. On June 19, 2007, the special committee resolved to engage Valuation Research Corporation (VRC) in connection with VRC's rendering of a fairness opinion to vFinance with respect to the potential merger with Ladenburg. During June 2007, there were several conference calls among executives of vFinance and Ladenburg to discuss the terms and conditions of the potential merger between the two companies. In July 2007, the parties agreed to terminate further negotiations.

From February 2007 until July 2007, there were numerous conference calls among executives of National and vFinance. The issues the parties discussed included timing of the definitive merger agreement, the exchange ratio, and the potential accounting issues. Some of these calls included legal counsel and auditors.

On August 8, 2007, VRC's engagement was amended such that VRC would render a fairness opinion to vFinance with respect to the potential merger with National.

In August 2007, executives from vFinance and National began reviewing publicly available information regarding each other's operations and financial condition to help analyze the efficacy of a potential combination.

On August 8, 2007, the M&A Committee of National met by telephone conference and Mr. Goldwasser, Mr. Dewey and Mr. Daskal, National's Chief Financial Officer, discussed with the committee the status of the current negotiations with vFinance and certain synergies that would be achieved as a result of a merger, including greater product distribution channels, lower expenses and greater revenues and profitability. Mr. Dewey stated that currently the proposed merger would be on a 60/40 basis in favor of National and it was anticipated that National's board of directors post-merger would be comprised of either seven or nine members, with National designating either four or five of the proposed members, and that National would need to create an audit committee of independent directors chaired by a financial expert so that National

would be positioned to list its stock on either AMEX or NASDAQ post-merger. Mr. Dewey also stated that it was anticipated that National would need to raise between $3 - 4 million to fund the proposed merger. Among potential uses of the gross proceeds would be approximately $1 million to be paid to Mr. Leonard Sokolow, Chief Executive Officer of vFinance, pursuant to his current employment contract, and a possible similar bonus to Mr. Goldwasser. As Messrs. Goldwasser and Sokolow would be National's two top executives post-merger it was being proposed that they be treated equally in terms of compensation to be received relating to this transaction. Mr. Goldwasser also stated that it was anticipated that National would seek a break-up fee of approximately $1.5 million in the letter of intent in order to protect National should negotiations break down between the parties. Mr. Littman proceeded by reviewing with the committee National's past merger talks with vFinance and certain legal issues and the timing associated with the proposed transaction, including materiality of information being exchanged and disclosed pursuant thereto, fiduciary duties of the members of the board of directors, the mechanics of proceeding with negotiations in order to consummate the proposed transaction from a legal perspective, the need to obtain a fairness opinion for the proposed merger, public announcement of the proposed transaction, the process of completing an agreement memorializing the transaction, the filings required of regulatory agencies and the process of filing a Form S-4 proxy registration statement as result of the proposed transaction. Following extensive discussion, the committee adopted resolutions recommending that National enter into a letter of intent memorializing the terms of the proposed transaction and engage an investment banking firm to render a fairness opinion with respect to the transaction.

On August 30, 2007, the M&A Committee of National met by telephone conference and Mr. Goldwasser, Mr. Dewey and Mr. Daskal discussed with the committee the status of the negotiations with vFinance with respect to the proposed merger and the letter of intent. Following extensive discussion, the committee adopted resolutions recommending that National enter into a letter of intent memorializing the terms of the proposed transaction, including the payment to Mr. Sokolow of $1,150,000 pursuant to his existing employment agreement contract with vFinance, a mutual break fee of $1,500,000 and the base salary and option grants submitted to the board.

On August 30, 2007, the board of directors of National met by telephone conference and Mr. Goldwasser, Mr. Dewey and Mr. Daskal discussed with the board of directors the status of the negotiations with vFinance with respect to the proposed merger and the letter of intent. Following extensive discussion, the board of directors adopted resolutions recommending that National enter into a letter of intent memorializing the terms of the proposed transaction including the payment to Mr. Sokolow of $1,150,000 pursuant to his existing employment agreement contract with vFinance, a mutual break fee of $1,500,000 and the base salary and option grants submitted to the board.

On September 5, 2007, vFinance's board of directors held a meeting by telephone conference to consider a non-binding letter of intent and a confidentiality and exclusivity agreement regarding the potential merger with National. vFinance's senior management and Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP (EAPD), vFinance's outside legal counsel, also attended this meeting. vFinance's management explained that executives of vFinance had recently had discussions with executives of National regarding a potential merger between vFinance and National and described the history of merger discussions between the two companies. EAPD summarized and vFinance's board of directors discussed the potential terms of the proposed merger, including that the stockholders of vFinance would own approximately 40% of the issued and outstanding common stock of National at the completion of the transaction, assuming the conversion of all National Series A preferred stock, and the payment to Leonard Sokolow of $1,150,000 pursuant to his existing employment agreement contract with vFinance. vFinance's management indicated that the completion of the transaction would be dependent upon, among other things, satisfactory due diligence, the negotiation of employment agreements with members of the combined management team, National's completion of a $3 million equity or equity-related financing, regulatory approval and certain other matters. vFinance's board of directors authorized the execution of the non-binding letter of intent and the confidentiality and exclusivity agreement. vFinance's board of directors established a special committee of directors, composed of Messrs. Charles Modica and Jorge Ortega, vFinance's independent directors, who would have authority and responsibility for evaluating and negotiating the definitive terms of the potential merger agreement between National and vFinance and the related documents.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

On September 5, 2007, National and vFinance signed the non-binding letter of intent to merge and began to exchange due diligence materials. During the following weeks, National and vFinance each authorized its respective management team and external advisors to continue to exchange and review due diligence materials.

On September 24, 2007, the M&A Committee of the board of directors of National met. Mr. Goldwasser reviewed with the committee the draft of the merger agreement to be used in the proposed merger with vFinance as well as the proposed engagement agreement with Eureka Capital in connection with its rendering of a fairness opinion to National with respect such transaction. After a brief discussion concerning certain issues, including a request by the committee to Mr. Goldwasser to engage in further negotiations with Eureka Capital on the cost of the fairness opinion, the committee authorized that the current draft of the merger agreement be circulated to vFinance and its counsel and approved the engagement agreement with Eureka Capital with such changes as management agreed to after further negotiations on the cost thereof.

On September 28, 2007, the special committee of vFinance's board of directors held a meeting by telephone conference to discuss extending the expiration date of the letter of intent. EAPD also attended this meeting. The special committee of vFinance's board of directors authorized the extension of the letter of intent.

On September 28, 2007, National and vFinance amended the letter of intent to extend the termination date of the letter of intent to November 15, 2007.

On October 1, 2007, the special committee of vFinance's board of directors held a meeting by telephone conference. vFinance's senior management and EAPD also attended this meeting. vFinance's management indicated that National and vFinance were exchanging documents and information, on-site visits to company facilities were planned within the next 10 days and vFinance's management was conducting a regulatory compliance review of National and its subsidiaries. vFinance's management updated the special committee on the progress of the work required by VRC to issue a fairness opinion in connection with the proposed merger with National. The special committee reviewed the draft of the merger agreement, along with the draft employment agreements and the employment termination agreement to be entered into between Leonard Sokolow and vFinance. At the conclusion of such review, EAPD was instructed to review the representations and warranties of vFinance contained in the draft merger agreement with vFinance's management and upon management's approval of such representations and warranties, EAPD was authorized to provide outside legal counsel for National with a revised draft of the merger agreement and the related documents.

On October 29, 2007, Eureka Capital sent a draft of the fairness opinion to Mark Goldwasser and the M&A Committee of National's board of directors and National's board of directors met to review the draft fairness opinion and review Eureka Capital's presentation of its analysis of the proposed transaction. Stephen Greene, Drasko Puseljic, Lana Simkina and Mark Hyman of Eureka Capital presented their conclusions and reasoning on the fairness of the exchange ratio from a financial point of view. Eureka Capital presented the details of their analysis including assumptions on which the evaluation was predicated, strategic rationale, the current performance of each of the constituent corporations, peer group analysis, transactional issues and risks and other factors that they deemed relevant. Eureka Capital concluded that as of October 26 2007, based upon and subject to the assumptions made, matters considered, and qualifications and limitations on its review as set forth in the opinion, the exchange ratio was fair to National from a financial perspective.

On October 30, 2007, the Compensation Committee of National met by telephone conference and Mr. Daskal and Mr. Littman reviewed with the committee the proposed employment agreements with Messrs. Goldwasser, Sokolow and Levin and the proposed option grants to Messrs. Goldwasser and Sokolow (collectively, the Compensation Agreements), each of which had been previously circulated to the committee. Following extensive discussion, which included a review of the Compensation Agreements and the compensation terms, the committee instructed Mr. Littman to convey its comments on the Compensation Agreements to vFinance.

On November 5, 2007, the Compensation Committee of National met by telephone conference and Mr. Daskal and Mr. Littman reviewed with the committee an analysis of the proposed Compensation Agreements, each of which had been previously circulated to the committee along with an analysis thereof, with respect to the proposed merger. Following extensive discussion which included a review of the Compensation Agreements and the compensation terms, the committee adopted resolutions recommending the terms and conditions of the Compensation Agreements and that National proceed with the proposed merger.

On November 5, 2007, the M&A Committee of National met by telephone conference and Mr. Daskal and Mr. Littman reviewed with the committee an analysis of the merger agreement and related documents, each of which had been previously circulated to the committee, with respect to the proposed merger. Mr. Littman then reviewed with the committee the terms of the merger agreement and related documents. Mr. Littman reviewed with the committee the required steps necessary to effectuate the proposed transaction, including the requisite filings with the SEC. Following extensive discussion, the committee adopted resolutions recommending that National enter into the merger agreement and proceed with the proposed transaction.

On November 5, 2007, the board of directors of National met. Mr. Goldwasser reviewed with the board the revised terms of the proposed merger. Mr. Littman then reviewed with the board the terms of the merger agreement, the Compensation Agreements and the respective voting agreement to be signed by certain stockholders of vFinance. Mr. Rosan informed the board that the M&A Committee had met and unanimously approved the merger agreement. Following extensive discussion, the board adopted resolutions approving the terms of the merger agreement and voting agreement, and authorizing other necessary or desirable actions in connection with the proposed merger.

The executed fairness opinion of Eureka Capital was dated November 5, 2007.

On November 6, 2007, the special committee of vFinance's board of directors held a meeting by telephone conference to consider the proposed merger. vFinance's senior management, VRC and EAPD also attended this meeting. VRC, after reviewing with the special committee its financial analysis of the merger consideration, delivered to the special committee an oral opinion, which was confirmed by delivery of a written opinion dated November 6, 2007, to the effect that, as of that date and based on and subject to various assumptions, matters considered and limitations described in its opinion, the merger consideration to be received by holders of vFinance common stock was fair, from a financial point of view. The special committee then continued to discuss the progress of negotiations with respect to the proposed merger agreement and the merger. EAPD then reviewed with the committee the terms of the merger agreement and the related documents and reviewed with the special committee the required steps necessary to effectuate the proposed transaction, including the requisite filings with the SEC. In discussing the merger and reaching its determination, the special committee considered a number of factors, both positive and negative in regard to the merits of the merger. Following further review and discussion, the members of the special committee voted unanimously to approve the merger and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement and the related documents and to approve and adopt the merger agreement and the related documents and resolved to recommend that vFinance's board of directors approve and declare advisable the merger agreement and the related documents, submit the merger agreement to vFinance's stockholders and recommend that vFinance's stockholders approve the merger and the merger agreement.

On November 6, 2007, vFinance's board of directors held a meeting by telephone conference to consider the proposed merger. vFinance's senior management, VRC and EAPD also attended this meeting. VRC, after reviewing with vFinance's board of directors its financial analysis of the merger consideration, delivered to vFinance's board of directors an oral opinion, which was confirmed by delivery of a written opinion dated November 6, 2007, to the effect that, as of that date and based on and subject to various assumptions, matters considered and limitations described in its opinion, the merger consideration to be received by holders of vFinance common stock was fair, from a financial point of view. EAPD then advised that the special committee had determined that the proposed merger and the merger agreement were fair to and in the best interest of vFinance and its stockholders. The special committee had resolved to recommend to vFinance's board of directors that it approve the execution and delivery of the merger agreement and the related documents and recommend approval of the merger and the transactions contemplated thereby by vFinance's stockholders. vFinance's board of directors reviewed and adopted the positive and negative factors recognized by the special committee. EAPD then reviewed with vFinance's board of directors the terms of the merger agreement and the related documents. Following further review and discussion, vFinance's board of directors voted unanimously to approve the merger and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement and to approve and adopt the merger agreement and the related documents and resolved to submit the merger agreement to vFinance's stockholders and to recommend that vFinance's stockholders approve the merger and the merger agreement.

On November 7, 2007, National and vFinance signed the merger agreement and issued a joint press release announcing that they had signed a definitive merger agreement. The parties then filed their respective Form 8-Ks announcing the merger agreement with the SEC on November 8, 2007.

National's Reasons for the Merger and Recommendation of National's Board of Directors

The National board of directors, after careful consideration, has unanimously approved the merger and agreement and plan of merger and the proposed issuance of National common stock in connection with the merger. The National board of directors believes that the merger is advisable and in the best interests of its stockholders.

The National board of directors also considered and reviewed with management the factors listed below in reaching its decision to approve the merger:

anticipated synergies from the merger, including operating a larger entity with greater critical mass, lower expenses on a per broker basis and a stronger capital structure; increasing rates of growth, modernizing infrastructure and developing new products and services will require additional capital. In connection with the merger, National will raise $3.0 million in additional capital and management believes that the merger will provide additional access to new sources of financing; cost savings achieved from the ability to eliminate duplicative expenses associated with public company compliance;
the opportunity to compete for more successful brokers with higher levels of assets under management;
the merger may enhance National's ability to achieve its strategic objective of becoming one of the top providers of independent brokerage services;
National intends to build positive name recognition and increase profit margins by selling additional products and services that can only be offered effectively by a broker-dealer with a significantly higher level of assets under management; the merger will enable National to expand and diversify its product offering to its customers; and alternatives to the merger, including the acquisition of other compatible businesses or the sale of National to another entity.

In reaching its conclusions, the board of directors of National also considered the following:

the results of management's analysis of the securities industry and independent broker-dealers generally;
the written opinion of Eureka Capital, dated November 5, 2007, that, as of that date, and based upon and subject to the assumptions made, matters considered, and qualifications and limitations on its review as set forth in the opinion, the exchange ratio was fair, from a financial point of view, to National;

the fact that National would remain a public entity after the merger was complete; and National's ability to terminate the merger agreement if the National board of directors were presented with a superior offer, upon the payment of a termination fee of $1,500,000 to vFinance, as well as other grounds for termination, with or without termination fees; and National's board of directors also considered a variety of potential risks and detriments in its consideration of the merger agreement, including the following:

vFinance's history of operating losses;

TABLE OF CONTENTS

vFinance's regulatory history;

vFinance's recent losses from operations;

the difficulties associated with merging the operations of each company including the distance between operational locations; and other applicable risks described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus under Risk Factors, starting on page 20.

The board of directors was aware that some directors and members of management have interests in the merger that are separate from the interests of the stockholders of National generally. See Interests of Directors and Officers in the Merger. The board viewed such interests as neutral to their determination because of their belief that such interests are customary and reasonable under all of the circumstances.

The foregoing discussion of the information and factors considered by the board of directors is not meant to be exhaustive, but includes the principal factors considered by the board of National.

vFinance's Reasons for the Merger and Recommendation of the vFinance's Board of Directors

In reaching its decision to approve the merger, the special committee of the vFinance's board of directors consulted with vFinance's management and vFinance's legal and financial advisors, and considered the potentially positive factors set forth below. vFinance's board of directors reviewed and adopted the potentially positive factors considered by the special committee.

the special committee's belief that the combination of the businesses of vFinance and National would result in an organization with greater commercial and marketing resources, a more significant presence in the investment banking and securities brokerage businesses and a better compliance infrastructure, including increased sales volume, customer accounts, direct and indirect customer assets of the combined company resulting from the larger number of brokers working in more geographical areas than were serviced by vFinance as a stand alone company;

the special committee's belief that the combination of the businesses of vFinance and National would result in an organization with greater financial, technical, administrative and overall managerial resources for a significant acceleration in the commercial success of the combined businesses;

the opportunity of affiliating with a company such as National with strength in the investment banking, institutional sales and retail brokerage business, which would compliment vFinance's strength in the retail investment banking and trading side of the brokerage business, thereby diversifying the business risks of the combined company across business lines;

vFinance's difficulty of competing against larger companies with greater resources which impacted its investment banking underwriting and trading capabilities as well as its ability to recruit and retain brokers;

the opportunity the transaction affords vFinance's stockholders to reduce their exposure to the risks inherent in vFinance's current primary reliance on its retail brokerage business;

the opportunity to increase the trading volume in the stock of the combined company and thereby increase the liquidity of the stock;

the fact that the transaction would allow vFinance's stockholders to receive an equity interest in National and thereby continue to participate in the success of the combined company;

the expected tax-free treatment for vFinance's stockholders of the exchange of National stock for vFinance common stock;

the current and historical market prices of vFinance common stock and National's common stock in relation to the merger consideration to be received from National in connection with the transaction, and the fact that the exchange ratio in the transaction yields premiums, as calculated by Valuation

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Research Corporation, of 10.8% over the closing stock price of vFinance common stock on October 26, 2007 and 55.6% over the average closing price of vFinance common stock over a 30 day period ending on October 26, 2007; an estimate, prepared by Valuation Research Corporation, of the market value of the stock of the combined company, post-transaction, as of October 26, 2007, using a market approach of comparable publicly traded companies and a market approach of comparable transactions;

Valuation Research Corporation's financial presentation, including its opinion dated November 6, 2007, to the special committee and vFinance's board of directors as to the fairness, from a financial point of view and as of the date of the opinion, of the merger consideration;

the terms of the merger agreement, including the parties' respective representations, warranties and covenants and the conditions to closing; the reasonableness and reciprocal nature of the termination fee, taking into account the other terms of the merger agreement and the range of commercially reasonable fees for a transaction of this size; and the likelihood that the transaction will be consummated.

In its deliberations concerning the merger, the special committee of the vFinance board of directors also identified and considered a variety of potentially negative factors, which are set forth below. vFinance's board of directors reviewed and adopted the potentially negative factors considered by the special committee.

the risk that the potential benefits sought in the transaction might not be realized; the merger is subject to conditions to closing as set forth in the merger agreement, including regulatory approvals, National raising $3 million of equity or equity-related financing and the transaction being approved by the requisite vFinance stockholder approval;

the fact that the exchange ratio is fixed, which (a) limits the upside associated with an increase in the market price of vFinance common stock prior to the consummation of the transaction and (b) does not afford protection in the event of a decline in the market price of National common stock;

the difficulty of integrating the businesses of vFinance and National, and the possible adverse impact of senior management devoting significant time and effort on completing the transaction and integrating the two businesses;

the risk of increased competition from competitors with greater financial resources than the combines company;

the possibility that the transaction might not be completed and the potential adverse effect of the public announcement of the transaction on: (a) vFinance's overall competitive position, (b) vFinance's ability to attract and retain key management, sales, marketing and technical personnel, (c) vFinance's collaborations and other key relationships, (d) the risk that vFinance would be required to pay National a significant break-up fee in the event vFinance terminates the merger agreement under specified circumstances, and (e) vFinance's ability to consummate a strategic transaction in the future in the event the merger agreement is terminated;

employee uncertainty/retention after the merger; and the need for significant financing post merger to support growth.

The special committee of the vFinance board of directors also determined that the merger is both fair to vFinance's stockholders and procedurally fair because, in addition to the factors above:

the special committee, consisting solely of directors who are not officers or employees of vFinance, was given exclusive authority to consider, negotiate and evaluate the terms of the merger or any similar or competing proposed transaction;

VRC had been retained to advise the special committee as to the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the merger and rendered an opinion that, based on and subject to the limitations, assumptions and qualifications set forth in its opinion, the merger consideration to be received by vFinance's stockholders is fair from a financial point of view; and the merger consideration to be received by vFinance's stockholders and the other terms and conditions of the merger agreement resulted from arm's-length bargaining.

During its deliberations concerning the merger, the special committee of the vFinance's board of directors also was aware that two of vFinance's executive officers, one of whom is also a director, have interests in the merger and have arrangements that are different from, or in addition to, those of vFinance's stockholders generally.

While the special committee considered potentially negative and potentially positive factors, it concluded that, overall, the potentially positive factors outweighed the potentially negative factors.

The foregoing discussion summarizes the material information and factors considered by the special committee of the vFinance's board of directors in its consideration of the merger. The special committee collectively reached the unanimous decision to approve the merger agreement in light of the factors described above and other factors that each member of the special committee felt were appropriate. In view of the wide variety of factors and the quality and amount of information considered, the special committee did not find it useful or practicable to and did not make specific assessments of, quantify, rank or otherwise assign relative weights to the specific factors considered in reaching its determination. Individual members of the special committee may have given different weight to different factors.

This explanation of the special committee's reasoning and much of the other information presented in this section is forward-looking in nature and, therefore, should be read in light of the factors discussed under the heading Forward-Looking Statements at the beginning of this joint proxy/prospectus and under the heading Risk Factors starting on page 20 of this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

The vFinance board of directors, upon the unanimous recommendation of the special committee, recommends that vFinance stockholders vote FOR adoption of the merger agreement.

Opinion of National's Financial Advisor

On November 5, 2007 (Opinion Date), Eureka Capital issued a fairness opinion to the National board of directors that, as of such date, based upon and subject to the assumptions made, matters considered, and qualifications and limitations on its review as set forth in the opinion, the exchange ratio was fair to National from a financial point of view.

The full text of the written opinion dated as of the Opinion Date, is attached as Appendix B and is incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus. You are urged to read the Eureka Capital opinion carefully and in its entirety for a description of the assumptions made, matters considered, procedures followed, qualifications and limitations on the review undertaken by Eureka Capital in rendering its opinion. The summary of the Eureka Capital opinion set forth in this joint proxy statement/prospectus is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the opinion. The Eureka Capital opinion is not intended to be and does not constitute a recommendation to you as to how you should vote with respect to the transaction. Eureka Capital was not requested to opine as to, and its opinion does not address, National's underlying business decision to proceed with or effect the transaction. Further, Eureka Capital was not asked to consider, and its opinion does not address, the relative merits of the transaction as compared to any alternative business strategy that National might pursue. Eureka Capital was not requested to, and did not, (a) initiate any discussions with, or solicit any indications of interest from, third parties with respect to the transaction or any alternatives to the transaction, (b) negotiate the terms of the transaction or (c) advise National or any other party with respect to alternatives to the transaction.

Eureka Capital is an investment banking firm that, as part of its investment banking business, regularly is engaged in the evaluation of businesses and their securities in connection with mergers, acquisitions, financial restructurings, and for other purposes. National's board of directors determined to use the services of Eureka Capital because it is a recognized investment banking firm that has substantial experience in similar matters.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Eureka Capital has received a fee in connection with the preparation and issuance of its opinion and was reimbursed for its expenses. In addition, National has agreed to indemnify Eureka Capital for certain liabilities that may arise out of the rendering of the opinion. Eureka Capital does not beneficially own any interest in National. The opinion was approved by Eureka Capital's Opinion Review Committee.

In arriving at its opinion, Eureka Capital took into account an assessment of general economic, market and financial conditions as well as its experience in connection with similar transactions and securities valuations generally. In so doing, among other things, Eureka Capital:

reviewed drafts of the agreement and plan of merger, by and among National, vFin Acquisition Corporation and vFinance, the form of employment agreement with Mark Goldwasser and Leonard Sokolow and the employment termination agreement between vFinance and Mr. Sokolow;

reviewed National's publicly available financial information and other data, including the Annual Reports on Form 10-K for the fiscal years ended September 30, 2004 through 2006, the Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q for the quarters ended December 31, 2006, March 31, 2007 and June 30, 2007, the last of which was identified by management of National as containing the most current consolidated financial statements available;

reviewed vFinance's publicly available financial information and other data, including the Annual Reports on Form 10-K as restated for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2004 through 2006, the Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q for the quarters ended March 31, 2007 and June 30, 2007, and vFinance's preliminary financial statements for the quarter ended September 30, 2007 identified by management of vFinance as containing the most current consolidated financial statements available;

reviewed a budget prepared by vFinance's management with respect to vFinance for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2007;

reviewed an analysis of the synergies likely to result from the merger as prepared by the management of National;

reviewed estimates of one-time costs associated with the merger as prepared by management of National and vFinance;

reviewed select documents provided by National and vFinance in the course of their respective due diligence investigations of each other;

reviewed certain publicly available information concerning the trading of, and the market for the common stock of National, vFinance, and certain publicly traded companies which were deemed relevant; and reviewed and analyzed certain financial characteristics of publicly traded companies which were deemed relevant and publicly available transaction prices paid in change of control transactions which were deemed relevant.

Eureka Capital also performed such other analyses and examinations as were deemed appropriate and held discussions with the senior management of National and vFinance regarding the operations, financial condition and future prospects of National and vFinance, and potential one time costs to be incurred and synergies to be realized in connection with the proposed transaction.

In arriving at its opinion, Eureka Capital relied upon and assumed the accuracy and completeness of all of the financial and other information furnished and used without assuming any responsibility for any independent verification of any such information and further relied upon the assurances of National's management that it is not aware of any facts or circumstances that would make any such information inaccurate or misleading. Further, Eureka Capital relied upon and assumed, without independent verification, that there was no material change in the assets, liabilities, financial condition, results of operations, business or prospects of National or vFinance between the Opinion Date and the date of the most recent consolidated financial statements provided to them. Eureka Capital also relied upon assurances that projections or forward looking statements, including projected synergies and merger costs, prepared by National and vFinance and provided to it were prepared in good faith and based on assumptions which, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, were reasonable and achievable. Eureka Capital expressed no opinion with respect to such forecasts and projections or the assumptions on which they were based. Eureka Capital also relied upon the assessments of management of National and vFinance as to the strategic, financial and other benefits expected to result from the transaction, the timing and risks associated with the integration of National and vFinance and the ability to retain key employees following the transaction.

Eureka Capital did not make a physical inspection of the properties and facilities and did not make or obtain any evaluations or appraisals of the assets and liabilities (contingent or otherwise) of National or vFinance. Eureka Capital did not attempt to confirm whether National or vFinance have good title to their assets. Eureka Capital assumed that the transaction will be consummated in accordance with the terms set forth in the draft merger agreement provided to Eureka Capital on October 25, 2007, without any further material amendments thereto, and without waiver by the parties of any of the conditions to any obligations. Eureka Capital also assumed there would be no adjustment to the aggregate consideration paid in the transaction, whether through alteration of the proposed exchange ratio or otherwise. Eureka Capital also relied upon and assumed that the final forms of all draft agreements provided to them would not differ in any material aspect from such draft.

Eureka Capital did not opine and its opinion does not address: (i) the fairness of any portion or aspect of the transaction not expressly addressed in the opinion, (ii) the fairness of any portion or aspect of the transaction to the holders of any class of securities, creditors or other constituency of National or any other party other than those set forth in the opinion, or the amount or nature of any compensation to any officers, directors or employees of National or vFinance or any class of such persons relative to the consideration to be received by National in the transaction, (iii) the tax or legal consequences of the transaction to either National, its security holders or any other party, (iv) whether or not National, its security holders or any other party is receiving or paying reasonably equivalent value in the transaction, (v) any other aspect or implication of the transaction or any other agreement, arrangement or understanding entered into in connection with the transaction or otherwise, including employment, consulting, voting, contribution or similar agreements or (vi) the solvency, creditworthiness or fair value of National, vFinance or any other participant in the transaction under any applicable laws relating to bankruptcy, insolvency or similar matters. With the consent of National, Eureka Capital relied upon advice of the advisors to National as to all legal, regulatory, accounting and tax matters, including the tax free nature of the transaction, and assumed that any required regulatory approvals, including those to be received after the closing of the transaction, will be received in a timely manner.

In formulating its opinion, Eureka Capital used and relied upon information from public and other sources deemed appropriate without independent verification thereof. Eureka Capital's opinion is necessarily based upon market, economic and other conditions as they existed on, and could be evaluated as of, the Opinion Date. Eureka Capital reviewed the most recent financial statements available as of the Opinion Date which, as set forth above, were no more recent than June 30, 2007 for National and September 30, 2007 for vFinance. Accordingly, although subsequent developments after the date of its opinion may have affected such opinion, Eureka Capital did not assume any obligation to update, review or reaffirm its opinion.

Each of the analyses conducted by Eureka Capital was carried out in order to provide a different perspective on the transaction, and to enhance the total mix of information available. Eureka Capital did not form a conclusion as to whether any individual analysis, considered in isolation, supported or failed to support an opinion as to the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the exchange ratio to National. Eureka Capital did not place any particular reliance or weight on any individual analysis, but instead concluded that its analyses, taken as a whole, supported its determination. Accordingly, Eureka Capital believes that its analyses must be considered as a whole and that selecting portions of its analyses or the factors it considered, without considering all analyses and factors collectively, could create an incomplete and misleading view of the process underlying the analyses performed by Eureka Capital in connection with the preparation of its opinion.

The analyses performed by Eureka Capital include information presented in tabular format. In order to fully understand Eureka Capital's analyses, the tables must be read together with the text presented. The tables alone are not a complete description of the financial review and analyses and considering the tables alone could create a misleading or incomplete view of Eureka Capital's analyses.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Further, the summary of Eureka Capital's analyses described below is not a complete description of the analyses underlying Eureka Capital's opinion. The preparation of a fairness opinion is a complex process involving various determinations as to the most appropriate and relevant methods of financial analysis and the application of those methods to the particular circumstances and, therefore, a fairness opinion is not readily susceptible to partial analysis or summary description. In arriving at its opinion, Eureka Capital made qualitative judgments as to the relevance of each analysis and factors that it considered. In addition, Eureka Capital may have given various analyses more or less weight than other analyses, and may have deemed various assumptions more or less probable than other assumptions, so that the range of valuations resulting from any particular analysis described above should not be taken to be Eureka Capital's view of National's or vFinance's actual value. In performing its analyses, Eureka Capital made numerous assumptions with respect to industry performance, general business and economic conditions and other matters, many of which are beyond National's control. The estimates contained in Eureka Capital's analyses and the ranges of valuations resulting from any particular analysis are not necessarily indicative of actual values or actual future results, which may be significantly more or less favorable than suggested by such analyses. In addition, analyses relating to the value of businesses or assets do not purport to be appraisals or to necessarily reflect the prices at which businesses or assets may actually be sold. Accordingly, Eureka Capital's analyses and estimates are inherently subject to substantial uncertainty.

The analyses performed were prepared solely as part of Eureka Capital's analysis of the fairness of the exchange ratio from a financial point of view to National and were provided to National's board of directors in connection with the delivery of Eureka Capital's opinion. Eureka Capital's opinion was just one of the many factors taken into account by National's board of directors in making its determination to approve the transaction, including those described elsewhere in this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

In its analysis, Eureka Capital pointed out that both National and vFinance, as of the Opinion Date, had contingent liabilities, including from litigation or arbitration. Managements of the two parties represented to Eureka Capital that their contingent liabilities, in aggregate, were not likely to have a material adverse effect on their respective company's operations and financial condition. Eureka Capital undertook no independent analysis of such contingencies and reflected no valuation impact from them in its analysis. Further, Eureka Capital noted that any pro-forma or forward looking equity values in its analysis (as in the National Pre- and Post-Merger analysis described below) represent only its view of the potential fair value of such equity security and are not necessarily indicative of actual future trading values, which may be significantly higher or lower.

Eureka Capital presented its findings and conclusions to National's board of directors on October 29, 2007 based on financial metrics (including last 20-day average public company share prices) evaluated up to and including October 26, 2007 (Valuation Date). Prior to issuing its opinion on the Opinion Date, Eureka Capital reviewed relevant market conditions through November 2, 2007 to determine whether any changes had taken place which would alter its conclusions. No such changes were determined to have occurred. For purposes of comparability to the presentation made on October 29, specific numerical references in the analyses described below are made to metrics as of the Valuation Date rather than the Opinion Date, but the substantive conclusions also hold as of the Opinion Date.

Valuation Overview. Eureka Capital's financial evaluation of the proposed exchange ratio included two analyses: (i) a vFinance acquisition analysis and (ii) a National pre- and post-merger valuation analysis. In performing these analyses, Eureka Capital utilized the following valuation methodologies:

Comparable company analysis, a market valuation approach that estimates a company's valuation range based on the publicly-traded comparable companies current trading level. The multiples reviewed included equity value to last-twelve-months (LTM) revenues, earnings and book value, which are typically used as valuation metrics in the financial services industry.

Comparable transaction analysis, a market valuation approach that estimates a company's valuation range based on the valuation multiples paid in the actual merger and acquisition (M&A) transactions in the industry. The multiples reviewed included implied equity value to LTM revenues, earnings and book value.

Eureka Capital did not utilize a discounted cash flow analysis (DCF), a valuation approach that estimates a company's value as the sum of the present value of projected free cash flows and the present value of terminal value at the end of projection period, discounted at the weighted average cost of capital or cost of equity (as appropriate). Eureka Capital did not utilize a DCF analysis due to the lack of multi-year financial projections of both National and vFinance, lack of a positive earnings track record of vFinance, and a relatively short profitability track record of National.

vFinance Acquisition Analysis. Eureka Capital estimated a reasonable acquisition valuation range for vFinance based on (i) valuation multiples paid in comparable M&A transactions and (ii) trading multiples of comparable public companies, and compared this estimated valuation range to the implied valuation in the transaction as determined by the value of National shares to be issued to vFinance stockholders.

Eureka Capital reviewed over 500 recent M&A transactions in the securities brokerage, investment banking, asset management and related financial services sectors. Since none of the transactions reviewed involved targets identical to vFinance, Eureka Capital made judgments and assumptions concerning industry performance and financial characteristics of the companies involved and other matters that could affect the comparable M&A transactions analysis. In addition, Eureka Capital's selection process was limited by the relatively small number of comparable transactions with disclosed financial terms.

From its review, Eureka Capital selected the following ten transactions for further analysis:

Target

Investacorp Inc.	Ladenburg Thalmann Financial Services Inc.
Westwind Partners Inc.	Thomas Weisel Partners Group, Inc.
Orion Financial Inc.	Macquarie Bank Limited
DundeeWealth Inc.	CI Financial Income Fund
AG Edwards, Inc.	Wachovia Corp.
ThinkEquity Partners LLC	Panmure Gordon & Co., plc
Rockwater Capital Corp.	CI Financial Income Fund
Ryan Beck Holdings Inc.	Stifel Financial Corp.
Jessup & Lamont Securities Corp.	Empire Financial Holding, Inc.
Advest Group, Inc.	Merrill Lynch & Co.

Based on Eureka Capital's analysis of target size, business descriptions, transaction synopsis of these transactions and other factors it deemed relevant, Eureka Capital selected the following transactions as most closely comparable to the merger:

Acquisition of Investacorp, Inc. by Ladenburg Thalmann Financial Services Inc.

Acquisition of Ryan Beck Holdings, Inc. by Stifel Financial Corp.

Acquisition of ThinkEquity Partners LLC by Panmure Gordon & Co, PLC

Acquisition of Jesup & Lamont Securities Corp. by Empire Financial Holding, Inc.

Overall, the ten acquisitions were valued in the range of 0.5x to 2.5x LTM revenues, excluding the earn-out portion of the consideration. The four most comparable transactions were valued in the range of 0.5x to 0.6x LTM revenues, excluding earn-outs, and in the range of 0.7x to 1.3x, including earn-outs.

The vFinance implied acquisition valuation per the proposed exchange ratio, based on the last 20 days average price up to and including the Valuation Date, was approximately 0.36x vFinance pro-forma revenues, which, in evaluating the fairness to National, appeared reasonable to Eureka Capital relative to the valuations in the comparable transactions of 0.5x to 0.6x revenues excluding the earn-out portion of consideration. On a fully-diluted basis (i.e., taking into account the incremental value of the vFinance options and warrants based on the treasury method), the vFinance implied acquisition valuation, as of the Valuation Date, was approximately 0.41x pro-forma revenues, which also appeared reasonable relative to comparable benchmarks.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Eureka Capital also reviewed the financial and trading performance of vFinance relative to that of National and 23 U.S. publicly-traded companies (the Peer Group) involved in securities brokerage, investment banking, asset management and related financial services as presented below.

Legg Mason Inc.	JMP Group Inc.
Raymond James Financial	Investors Capital Holdings, Ltd
Jefferies Group	MCF Corporation
Oppenheimer Holdings Inc.	Ladenburg Thalmann Financial Services Inc.
Stifel Financial	Gilman & Ciocia, Inc.
Piper Jaffray Companies	Empire Financial Holding Company
Cowen Group Inc.	Summit Financial Services Group Inc.
Thomas Weisel Partners Group, Inc.	Siebert Financial Corp.
Friedman, Billings, Ramsey Group, Inc.	International Assets Holding Corp.
SWS Group Inc.	Paulson Capital
Sanders Morris Harris Group Inc.	Tejas Incorporated
First Albany Companies Inc.

Eureka Capital noted that, based on the last 20 days average share price up to and including the Valuation Date, the Peer Group's equity was valued in the range of 0.3x to 6.6x LTM revenues; 10.8x to 38.7x LTM earnings (excluding Ladenburg Thalmann Financial Services, Inc.); 12.5x to 32.2x forward earnings; and 0.5x to 8.2x book value.

Since none of the independent publicly traded companies selected for the Peer Group is identical to vFinance, Eureka Capital made judgments and assumptions concerning overall industry performance as well as operating and financial characteristics of the companies involved and other matters that could affect the comparable company analysis. Based on Eureka Capital's review of business descriptions, revenue size and revenue mix, and other financial and operational metrics of the Peer Group, Eureka Capital selected the following companies as most closely comparable to vFinance:

National (pre-merger with vFinance)
Investors Capital Holdings, Ltd.
Summit Financial Services Group, Inc.

Eureka Capital noted that many of the peer companies with revenues under $100 million appear to be valued based primarily on a multiple of revenues and exhibit wide price to earnings and price to book value multiple ranges due to negative or inconsistent earnings. Based on the last 20 days average price up to and including the Valuation Date, the three most comparable companies were valued in the range of 0.4x to 0.6x LTM revenues.

Eureka Capital compared this valuation range to the vFinance implied acquisition valuation in the merger of approximately 0.36x pro-forma revenues (or 0.41x pro-forma revenues fully diluted). Again, this appeared reasonable to Eureka Capital in evaluating the fairness to National, relative to the valuation range (based upon recent trading values) of its most comparable peers of 0.4x to 0.6x revenues.

National Pre- and Post-Merger Analysis. In this analysis, Eureka Capital evaluated National's valuation ranges pre- and post-merger based on the trading multiples of the comparable public companies. By comparing National's valuation as of the Valuation Date to the estimated pro-forma valuation post-merger, this analysis sought to determine whether the shares to be issued to vFinance stockholders pursuant to the proposed exchange ratio were likely to be dilutive to National, from a value per share point of view.

First, Eureka Capital reviewed the financial and trading performance of National relative to that of the Peer Group (including, for these purposes, vFinance). Since none of the independent publicly traded companies selected for the Peer Group is identical to National, Eureka Capital made judgments and assumptions concerning overall industry performance as well as operating and financial characteristics of the companies involved and other matters that could affect the comparable company analysis. Based on Eureka Capital's review of business descriptions, revenue size and revenue mix, and other financial and operational metrics of the Peer Group, Eureka Capital selected the following companies as most closely comparable to National pre-merger:

vFinance
Summit Financial Services Group Inc.

Eureka Capital noted that these companies were valued, based on the last 20 days average price up to and including the Valuation Date, in the range of 0.2x to 0.6x LTM revenues. At 0.4x LTM revenues, National's 20-day average stock price as of the Valuation Date of $2.27 appeared to be generally in line with market valuation parameters.

Next, Eureka Capital analyzed the potential value of National post-merger, taking into consideration both the potential near-term synergies of approximately $1.8 million and likely costs associated with the merger. As noted above, National provided estimates of both such synergies and costs to Eureka Capital, and Eureka Capital accepted such estimates as reasonable without independent verification.

The table below lays out pro-forma results for the combined business as available to Eureka Capital on the Valuation Date. Based upon representations made by National and vFinance, Eureka Capital determined that LTM financial results for National and last nine months annualized results for vFinance were reasonable going-forward estimates for the respective companies for purposes of this analysis.

(3) vFinance interest and dividends revenues are based on information provided by National.

(4) National had approximately $9.7 million in net operating loss carry-forwards as of September 31, 2006. vFinance had approximately $12.6 million in net operating loss carry-forwards as of December 31, 2006.

As shown, the combined National and vFinance business was projected to have revenues in excess of $100 million and was expected to be profitable, assuming realization of the approximately $1.8 million in near-term synergies estimated by management of National. Based on these factors, among others, Eureka Capital determined that post-merger National was likely to be valued more in line with (though still at a discount to) those Peer Group companies with revenues in excess of $100 million. Eureka Capital noted that the equity of these larger Peer Group companies was primarily valued based on a combination of a multiple of revenues (in the range of 0.7x to 2.8x with the median of 1.7x as of the last 20 days average price up to and including the Valuation Date) and a multiple of forward earnings (in the range of 12.6x to 19.2x with the median of 15.9x as of the last 20 days average price up to and including the Valuation Date).

Based on considerations specific to the combined business (including but not limited to, its smaller size relative to most of these larger Peer Companies and its limited history of profitability), Eureka Capital estimated that National post-merger would be valued in the range of 0.5x to 0.7x pro-forma revenues and 10x to 15x pro-forma earnings. After deducting estimated merger costs of $3 million, Eureka Capital derived the implied value per share range, as of the Valuation Date, of $2.42 to $3.56 post-merger, indicating, in Eureka Capital's view, that the merger was likely to be neutral to accretive to National. Nevertheless, as noted above, this implied value range does not necessarily constitute an indication of where National shares will trade post-merger, which may be significantly higher or lower.

vFinance has retained Valuation Research Corporation (VRC) as financial advisor to vFinance's board of directors and the special committee of the board of directors in connection with the proposed merger. VRC is an international financial advisory firm with more than 30 years of experience providing M&A advisory services, fairness and solvency opinions in support of transactions, and valuations of intellectual property and tangible assets for financial reporting and tax purposes. vFinance selected VRC as financial advisor in connection with the proposed merger based on its reputation, experience and familiarity with vFinance and its businesses.

On November 6, 2007, at meetings of vFinance's board of directors and special committee of the board of directors held to evaluate the merger, VRC delivered to vFinance's board of directors and the special committee an oral opinion, which was confirmed by delivery of a written opinion dated November 6, 2007, to the effect that, as of the date of the opinion and based on and subject to various assumptions and limitations described in the opinion, the merger consideration to be received by the holders of vFinance common stock was fair, from a financial point of view, to such holders.

The full text of the written opinion of VRC to vFinance's board of directors and the special committee, which sets forth, among other things the procedures followed, assumptions made, matters considered and limitations on the review undertaken, is attached as Appendix C to this joint proxy statement/prospectus, and is incorporated herein by reference. Holders of vFinance common stock are encouraged to, and should, read the opinion carefully and in its entirety. The following summary of VRC's opinion is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the opinion. VRC's opinion was provided to vFinance's board of directors and the special committee solely for the benefit and use of vFinance's board of directors and the special committee in connection with their evaluation of the merger consideration and relates only to the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the merger consideration to be received by the holders of vFinance common stock. VRC's opinion does not address any other aspect of the merger or any related transaction and does not constitute a recommendation to vFinance or National stockholders on how to vote or act in connection with the merger.

For purposes of its opinion, VRC:

reviewed the letter of intent, dated September 5, 2007, from National and addressed to the board of directors of vFinance;

VRC expressed no opinion regarding the liquidation value of any entity. VRC did not undertake an independent analysis of any potential or actual litigation, regulatory action, possible unasserted claims or other contingent liabilities, to which vFinance or National are or may be a party or are or may be subject, or of any governmental investigation of any possible unasserted claims or other contingent liabilities to which vFinance or National are or may be a party or is or may be subject.

Such subsequent events include, without limitation, adverse changes in industry or market conditions; changes to the business, financial condition and results of operations of vFinance or National; changes in the terms of the transaction; and the failure to consummate the transaction within a reasonable period of time.

VRC assumed, without independent verification, that the final forms of the transaction documents would not differ in any material respect from the draft documents reviewed. In addition, VRC assumed, without independent verification, that, in all material respects, (a) the representations and warranties of all parties to the agreements reviewed and all other related documents and instruments that are referred to therein are true and correct, (b) each party to all such agreements would fully and timely perform all of the covenants and agreements required to be performed by such party, (c) all conditions to the consummation of the transaction would be satisfied within a reasonable period of time without waiver thereof, and (d) the transaction would be consummated in a timely manner in accordance with the terms described in the agreement provided, without any amendments or modifications thereto or any adjustment to the aggregate consideration (through offset, reduction, indemnity claims, post-closing purchase price adjustments or otherwise).

VRC also assumed, without independent verification, that all governmental, regulatory, and other consents and approvals necessary for the consummation of the transaction would be obtained and that no delay, limitations, restrictions or conditions would be imposed that would result in the disposition of any material portion of the assets of vFinance or National, or otherwise have a material adverse effect on vFinance or National or any expected benefits of the transaction.

VRC's opinion was necessarily based on economic, financial, industry, market and other conditions in effect on, and the information made available to VRC as of, the date of its opinion. Accordingly, although subsequent developments may affect its opinion, VRC did not assume any obligation to update, revise, reaffirm or withdraw its opinion.

VRC was not been requested to opine as to, and its opinion does not address: (i) the underlying business decision of the vFinance board of directors, vFinance, its security holders or any other party to proceed with or effect the transactions, (ii) the fairness of any portion or aspect of the transaction not expressly addressed in its opinion, (iii) the fairness of any portion or aspect of the transaction to the holders of any class of securities, creditors or other constituencies of vFinance, or any other party other than those set forth in its opinion, (iv) the relative merits of the transaction as compared to any alternative business strategies that might exist for vFinance or any other party or the effect of any other transaction in which vFinance might engage, (v) the legal, tax or financial reporting consequences of the transaction to vFinance, or any other party, (vi) the fairness of any portion or aspect of the transaction to any one class or group of vFinance's or any other party's security holders relative to any other class or group of the vFinance's security holders, (vii) whether or not vFinance or its respective security holders or any other party is receiving or paying reasonably equivalent value in the transaction, (viii) the fairness of any employment or termination arrangements, or (ix) the solvency or fair value of vFinance or any other participant in the transaction under any applicable laws relating to bankruptcy, insolvency or similar matters.

VRC was not involved in the structuring, documentation or negotiation of the transaction and did not, other than the delivery of its opinion and its review and analysis undertaken in connection therewith as described herein, provide any financial advisory or investment banking services to vFinance related to or associated with the transaction.

The following is a summary of the material analyses contained in the presentation that was delivered to vFinance's board of directors and the special committee. The financial analyses summarized below include information presented in tabular format. In order to understand fully the financial analyses performed by VRC, the tables must be read together with the accompanying text of each summary. The tables alone do not constitute a complete description of the financial analyses, including the methodologies and assumptions underlying the analyses, and if viewed in isolation could create a misleading or incomplete view of the financial analyses performed by VRC.

Financial Analyses

Analysis of Selected Public Companies

VRC compared selected financial information for vFinance and National with corresponding financial information for the following seven publicly traded companies in the financial services industry:

Siebert Financial Corp.
Paulson Capital Corp.
First Albany Companies, Inc.
First Montauk Financial Corp.

MCF Corp
Empire Financial Holdings Corp.

VRC reviewed, among other things, enterprise values of the selected companies, vFinance and National, calculated as the fully diluted market value (based on closing stock prices on October 26, 2007) plus the book value of all interest bearing debt, preferred stock and accumulated minority interest less cash equivalents, as a multiple of earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA) and revenue (sales) over the last fiscal year and the latest 12 months. From the enterprise values debt was subtracted and cash was added to arrive at market equity multiples. This analysis indicated the following implied low, mean, median and high multiples for the selected companies, vFinance and National:

	Implied Multiples for Selected Companies
	Low	Mean	Median	High
Equity Value as Multiple of:
Revenue
Last Fiscal Year	0.26x	0.33x	0.32x	0.41x
Latest 12 Months	0.24x	0.28x	0.24x	0.39x
EBITDA
Last Fiscal Year	8.09x	10.71x	11.80x	12.24x
Latest 12 Months	6.03x	9.27x	9.27x	12.51x

No company or business used in this analysis is identical or directly comparable to vFinance or National or their businesses. Accordingly, an evaluation of the results of this analysis is not entirely mathematical. Rather, this analysis involves complex considerations and judgments concerning differences in financial and operating characteristics and other factors that could affect the public trading or other values of the companies or business segments to which vFinance and National were compared.

Analysis of Selected Precedent Transactions

Acquiror	Target
Marshall & Ilsley Corp.	North Star Financial Corp.
Ameritrade Holding Corp.	Toronto-Dominion Bank
The NASDAQ Stock Market, Inc.	Reuters Group PLC
Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc.	AXA SA
BGC Partners LP	Maxcor Financial Group, Inc.
Health Outcomes Management, Inc.	Wien Securities Corp.
PNC Financial Corp.	MetLife, Inc.
UFJ Holdings, Inc.	Merrill Lynch & Co. Inc.
Investment Technology Group, Inc.	Hoenig Group, Inc.
Ameritrade Holding Corp.	Datek Online Holdings Corp.

VRC reviewed transaction values in the selected transactions as a multiple of latest 12 months EBITDA and revenue.

Enterprise multiples for the selected transactions were based on publicly available information at the time of announcement of the relevant transaction. This analysis indicated the following implied low, mean, median and high multiples for the selected transactions:

	Implied Multiples for Selected Transactions
	Low	Mean	Median	High
Enterprise Value as Multiple of:
Revenue	0.35x	1.24x	0.89x	3.13x
EBITDA	5.71x	15.86x	15.44x	26.45x

Debt was ultimately subtracted from the resulting enterprise values to estimate equity values using this approach.

No transaction, company or business used in this analysis is identical or directly comparable to vFinance or National or the merger. Accordingly, an evaluation of the results of this analysis is not entirely mathematical. Rather, this analysis involves complex considerations and judgments concerning differences in financial and operating characteristics and other factors that could affect the public trading or other values of the companies or business segments to which vFinance, National and the merger were compared.

Application of Financial Analyses

VRC applied the revenue and EBITDA multiples from the analyses described above, 0.35x and 11.86x, respectively, to the pro forma revenue and EBITDA of the combined company for the latest 12 months. This analysis indicated the implied low, median, mean and high total equity for the combined company and, based upon the number of shares that will be outstanding after the merger, the implied low, median, mean and high post merger value per share set forth in the table below. Based upon the implied low, median, mean and high post merger value per share set forth in the table below, VRC estimated that the per share value of the combined entity would be $1.70.

VRC estimated the market capitalization of the combined company using the estimated per share value of the combined company, $1.70 per share, and the total number of shares that will be outstanding after the merger. VRC then compared the vFinance stockholders' equity ownership of the combined company, 40% of the combined company's estimated market capitalization, to vFinance's market capitalization prior to the merger, based upon the closing price of vFinance common stock on October 26, 2007, and the 30-day low, median, mean and high trading prices of vFinance common stock prior to October 26, 2007. This analysis indicated the premiums per share of vFinance common stock set forth in the table below.

	Estimated Premium per Share
	10/26/07		30-day		30-day		30-day Mean		30-day High

Other Factors

In rendering its opinion, VRC also reviewed and considered other factors, including:

the implied premium based on the exchange ratio and the closing prices of vFinance common stock and National common stock on October 26, 2007 and the 30-day high and low trading prices prior to October 26, 2007; and historical trading prices and trading volumes of vFinance common stock and National common stock for the 30 days prior to October 26, 2007.

Miscellaneous

As noted above, the discussion set forth above is a summary of the material financial analyses presented by VRC to vFinance's board of directors and the special committee in connection with its opinion and is not a comprehensive description of all analyses undertaken by VRC in connection with its opinion. The preparation of a financial opinion is a complex analytical process involving various determinations as to the most appropriate and relevant methods of financial analysis and the application of those methods to the particular circumstances and, therefore, a financial opinion is not readily susceptible to partial analysis or summary description. VRC believes that its analyses summarized above must be considered as a whole. VRC further believes that selecting portions of its analyses and the factors considered or focusing on information presented in tabular format, without considering all analyses and factors or the narrative description of the analyses, could create a misleading or incomplete view of the processes underlying VRC's analyses and opinion. VRC did not assign any specific weight to any of the analyses described above. The fact that any specific analysis has been referred to in the summary above is not meant to indicate that such analysis was given greater weight than any other analysis referred to in the summary.

In performing its analyses, VRC considered industry performance, general business and economic conditions and other matters, many of which are beyond vFinance's control. These analyses were prepared solely as part of VRC's analysis of the fairness of the merger consideration from a financial point of view, and were provided to vFinance's board of directors and the special committee in connection with the delivery of VRC's opinion. The analyses do not purport to be appraisals or to reflect the prices at which a company might actually be sold or the prices at which any securities have traded or may trade at any time in the future. Accordingly, the estimates used in, and the ranges of valuations resulting from, any particular analysis described above are inherently subject to substantial uncertainty and should not be taken to be VRC's view of the actual value of vFinance, National or the combined entity.

The type and amount of consideration payable in the merger were determined through negotiations between vFinance and National, rather than by any financial advisor, and were approved by vFinance's board of directors and the special committee. The decision to enter into the merger agreement was solely that of vFinance's board of directors and the special committee. As described above, VRC's opinion and the financial analyses described above were only one of a number of factors considered by vFinance's board of directors and the special committee in their evaluation of the merger and should not be viewed as determinative of the views of vFinance's board of directors, the special committee or vFinance's management with respect to the merger or the type and amount of consideration payable in the merger.

Pursuant to the engagement letter between VRC and vFinance, vFinance has agreed to pay VRC for its services in connection with the merger an aggregate fee of $75,000, plus expenses. vFinance also has agreed to indemnify VRC, any affiliates of VRC and each of their respective directors, officers, members, employees, agents, and controlling persons against specified liabilities and to reimburse such persons reasonable legal and other costs incurred in connection with any action, claim or proceeding arising out of VRC's provision of services in connection with the merger to vFinance.

Material Contracts Between vFinance and National

Other than contracts relating to the merger agreement and the merger, which are described in the section entitled "The Agreement and Plan of Merger" starting on page 75 of this joint proxy statement/prospectus, there are no material contracts between vFinance and National.

Interests of Directors and Executive Officers in the Merger

When vFinance's stockholders are considering the recommendation of vFinance's board of directors that they vote in favor of the approval of the agreement and plan of merger, vFinance stockholders should be aware that some of the directors and officers of vFinance have interests in the merger and participate in arrangements that are different from, or are in addition to, those of vFinance stockholders generally. The vFinance board of directors and its special committee were aware of these interests and considered them, among other matters, when they adopted and approved the merger, the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement.

These special interests on behalf of vFinance and National directors and officers include the following:

as of May 2, 2008, directors and executive officers of National and their affiliates beneficially owned approximately 36% of the outstanding shares of National common stock, assuming conversion of the National Series A preferred stock and excluding the exercise of options and warrants, and directors and executive officers of vFinance and their affiliates beneficially owned approximately 14% of the outstanding shares of vFinance common stock;

as of May 2, 2008, directors and executive officers of National and their affiliates beneficially owned approximately 29% of the outstanding shares of National's Series A preferred stock; upon closing of the merger, Leonard J. Sokolow will receive $1,150,000 in connection with the termination of his employment as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of vFinance;
upon closing of the merger, Mark Goldwasser, the President and Chief Executive Officer of National, and Leonard J. Sokolow, President and Chief Executive Officer of vFinance, will enter into new three year employment agreements on substantially similar terms; upon closing of the merger, Alan Levin, Chief Financial Officer of vFinance, will enter into a one year employment agreement; and

The National board of directors and special committee and the vFinance board of directors and special committee were aware of and discussed these potentially conflicting interests when they approved the merger.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of financial condition as of December 31, 2007 is based on the historical statements of financial condition of National and vFinance as of that date. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations are presented as if the merger had occurred on October 1, 2006. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of financial condition gives effect to the transaction as if it occurred on December 31, 2007.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information is based on estimates and assumptions, which are preliminary and subject to change, as set forth in the notes to such statements and which are provided for informational purposes only. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information is not necessarily indicative of the financial position or operating results that would have been achieved had the merger been consummated as of the dates indicated, nor is it necessarily indicative of future financial position or operating results. This information should be read in conjunction with the historical financial statements and related notes of National and vFinance included in this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

We anticipate that the Merger will provide the combined company with financial benefits that may include increased revenues due to departmental synergies, cost savings on business insurance including but not limited to General liability, Errors and Omissions and Directors and Officers Liability, salaries, clearing costs, benefits, professional fees as well as other general and administrative costs. The pro forma information, while helpful in illustrating the financial characteristics of the combined company under one set of assumptions, does not reflect the benefits of increased revenues due to departmental synergies, cost savings on business insurance including but not limited to General liability, Errors and Omissions and Directors and Officers Liability, salaries, clearing costs, benefits, professional fees as well as other general and administrative costs and, accordingly, does not attempt to predict or suggest future results. It also does not necessarily reflect what the historical results of the combined company would have been had our companies been combined during these periods.

Total preliminary purchase price	$ 17,700,000

- For the purposes of the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements, we have presumed an exchange ratio for the merger of 0.14 shares of National common stock for each share of vFinance common stock, (A) based upon the terms of the Merger Agreement. We estimated the fair value of each share of National common stock based on an average of the closing price of National's common stock during the two business days preceding and the two business days subsequent to November 7, 2007, the date the Merger Agreement was signed. The merger also provides the vFinance option and warrant holders the right to receive options to acquire National common stock in exchange for their options and warrants to acquire vFinance common stock. For the purposes of (B) the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements, we have assumed that approximately 1.7 million exercisable National options will be exchanged for exercisable options and warrants to acquire approximately 12.0 million shares of vFinance common stock.

National has not completed its assessment of the fair value of the assets acquired and liabilities assumed. The following table represents a preliminary allocation of the total estimated consideration, based on management's preliminary estimate of their respective fair values as of the date of the merger:

Net tangible assets acquired	$ 1,389,000
Identifiable intangible assets (avg. five year life)	16,311,000
Total estimated consideration	$ 17,700,000

The final purchase price allocation and estimated useful lives of identifiable intangibles could change significantly once a detailed fair market value study is completed and the fair value of purchase price consideration is determined at consummation of the deal.

Note 2 Summary of Adjustments

Adjustments included in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of financial condition and unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations are summarized as follows:

- (A) To record the estimated $15.0 million of identifiable intangible assets acquired and to eliminate vFinance's historical intangible assets. See Note 1.
To reflect the issuance of a $3.0 million face value 10% senior subordinated convertible promissory note by National and related discount of $400,000 and transaction costs of $80,000 in connection with the merger. The $400,000 discount represents the Black-Scholes value of warrants issued with the note.
- (B) To record $500,000 of National transaction costs, included as a component of total purchase price. These costs include, but are not limited to, fees for financial advisors, accountants and attorneys and other related costs.
- (C) To eliminate vFinance's historical stockholders' equity accounts and to reflect the issuance of 7.8 million shares of Nationals' $0.02 par value common stock with an estimated value of $15.6 million in exchange for all common stock of vFinance, including an adjustment to additional paid-in capital to reflect the fair value of exercisable options to acquire National common stock to be issued by National in the merger in exchange for exercisable options and warrants to acquire vFinance common shares.

- (E) To reflect the $1.15 million lump sum payment to be made to Mr. Sokolow pursuant to the Termination Agreement, which will be accrued by vFinance prior to the merger and paid subsequent to the merger.
To reflect stock estimated compensation expense to be recorded in connection with the issuance of 1.0 million options to acquire National common stock to each of Messrs. Goldwasser and Sokolow in connection with the merger and the issuance of unvested options to acquire National common stock in exchange for unvested options to acquire vFinance common stock. Additionally, vFinance will record $450,000 of stock compensation expense as a result of the accelerated vesting of options to acquire 3.6 million shares of vFinance common stock as a result of change of control provisions of certain options. No pro-forma adjustment is reflected for this amount, since the vFinance equity accounts will be eliminated. See Footnote (D).
- (F)
- (G) To record amortization expense for identifiable intangible assets using an average estimated useful life of five years and to eliminate vFinance's historical amortization expense.
- (H) To record interest expense, accretion of debt discount and amortization of deferred debt issuance costs on $3.0 million face value senior subordinated convertible promissory note issued by National in connection with the merger.

(1) The pro forma adjustments do not include any related income tax effects as National provides a full valuation allowance on its deferred tax assets. Additionally, the pro forma adjustments do not include fair value adjustments related to the net tangible assets acquired because vFinance net assets approximate fair value and due to existing losses.

THE AGREEMENT AND PLAN OF MERGER

The following is a brief summary of the material provisions of the agreement and plan of merger dated as of November 7, 2007, a copy of which (without exhibits or schedules) is attached as Appendix A to this joint proxy statement/prospectus and is incorporated by reference into this summary. The summary is not complete and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the agreement and plan of merger. We urge all stockholders of vFinance to read the agreement and plan of merger in its entirety for a more complete description of the terms and conditions of the merger.

General

In the merger, a newly created wholly owned subsidiary of National will be merged with and into vFinance, and vFinance will survive the merger and become a wholly owned subsidiary of National. The merger will be completed only after the adoption of the agreement and plan of merger by the stockholders of vFinance, and the satisfaction or waiver of the other conditions to the merger. The merger will become effective at the time of the filing of a certificate of merger with the secretary of state of the state of Delaware. The parties anticipate completing the transaction as soon as practicable after the vFinance stockholders meeting.

Conversion of vFinance Shares

With the exception of dissenting shares, all issued and outstanding shares of vFinance common stock will automatically be converted into the right to receive shares of National common stock at the effective time of the merger. The exchange ratio for the exchange of National common stock for vFinance common stock is 0.14 shares of National for each share of vFinance.

The number of shares of National common stock to be issued to holders of vFinance common stock in the merger is approximately 7,800,000, subject to adjustment for fractional shares and any National stock split, reverse split, stock dividend, reorganization or recapitalization.

Treatment of Stock Options and Warrants

National. When the merger is completed, each outstanding National option and warrant will remain outstanding.

vFinance. At the effective time of the merger, each vFinance warrant and option that remains outstanding and unexercised following the effective time of the merger, will be deemed amended and be exercisable for National common stock. The terms and conditions of the warrants and options will remain the same, except that the number of shares covered by the option or warrant, and the exercise price will be adjusted to reflect the exchange ratio. After the merger, the number of shares of common stock for which such warrant or option will be exercisable will be equal to 0.14 times the number of shares of vFinance common stock that were purchasable immediately prior to the merger.

The exercise price per share after the merger will be equal to the exercise price prior to the effective time of the merger, divided by 0.14.

Exchange of Stock Certificates

General. When the merger is completed, vFinance common stock will automatically convert into the right to receive shares of National common stock. vFinance stockholders will be requested to exchange their vFinance stock certificates for National stock certificates.

Surrender of Shares of vFinance Stock. After the effective time of the merger, National will deliver, or will cause its transfer agent, Computershare Trust Company, Inc., to deliver to vFinance's stockholders of record, a letter of transmittal and instructions to exchange certificates. A vFinance stockholder who surrenders his or her certificate to Computershare Trust Company, Inc., together with a duly executed letter of transmittal, will receive a certificate representing the shares of National common stock that the stockholder is entitled to receive, including, when applicable, his or her pro rata share of the Merger Consideration as corresponds to his or her fractional share interest. The surrendered certificates will be canceled. Holders of vFinance common stock should not send in their certificates until they receive a letter of transmittal from National or Computershare Trust Company, Inc.

Fractional Shares. National will not issue any fractional shares of National common stock in the merger. Instead, each holder of shares of vFinance common stock exchanged in the merger who would otherwise have been entitled to receive a fraction of a share of National common stock will receive one whole share for any fractional share held.

No Further Registration or Transfer of vFinance Common Stock. After the effective time, there shall be no further registration of transfers of vFinance Shares. If, after the Effective Time, Certificates are presented to Computershare Trust Company, Inc., vFinance or National, they shall be canceled and exchanged for Merger Consideration.

Lost Certificates. If any vFinance certificate has been lost, stolen or destroyed, the owner of the certificate must provide an appropriate affidavit of loss to National or Computershare Trust Company, Inc. National or Computershare Trust Company, Inc. may require the owner of such certificate to deliver a bond as indemnity against any claim that may be made against them with respect to the vFinance certificates alleged to have been lost, stolen or destroyed.

vFINANCE STOCKHOLDERS SHOULD NOT SUBMIT ANY STOCK CERTIFICATES UNTIL RECEIPT OF THE LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL FROM NATIONAL OR COMPUTERSHARE TRUST COMPANY, INC.

Expenses

Generally, National and vFinance will each pay its own transaction costs and expenses in connection with the merger.

vFinance Dissenters Rights

Under Delaware law, vFinance stockholders have the right to dissent from the merger and to receive payment in cash for the fair value of their shares of vFinance common stock, as determined by the Delaware Chancery Court. vFinance stockholders electing to exercise appraisal rights must comply with the provisions of Section 262 of the Delaware General Corporation Law in order to perfect their rights. vFinance will require strict compliance with these statutory procedures. A copy of Section 262 is included as Appendix D to this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

The following is a brief summary of the material provisions of the Delaware statutory procedures required to be followed by a stockholder in order to dissent from the merger and perfect the stockholder's appraisal rights. This summary, however, is not a complete statement of all applicable requirements and is qualified in its entirety by reference to Section 262 of the Delaware General Corporation Law. If a vFinance stockholder wishes to consider exercising its appraisal rights, the vFinance stockholder should carefully review the full text of Section 262 contained in Appendix D because failure to timely and properly comply with the requirements of Section 262 will result in the loss of appraisal rights under Delaware law.

Section 262 requires that stockholders of record on the record date be notified not less than 20 days before the special meeting to vote on the merger for which dissenters' appraisal rights will be available. A copy of Section 262 must be included with such notice. This joint proxy statement/prospectus constitutes vFinance's notice to its stockholders of the availability of appraisal rights in connection with the merger in compliance with the requirements of Section 262.

If a vFinance stockholder elects to demand appraisal of its shares, the following conditions must be satisfied:

(1) The stockholder must deliver to vFinance a written demand for appraisal of its shares before the vote is taken on the merger agreement at the special meeting. This written demand for appraisal must be in addition to and separate from any proxy or vote abstaining from or voting against the merger. Voting against or failing to vote for the merger itself does not constitute a demand for appraisal under Section 262.

(2) The stockholder must not vote in favor of the merger. A vote in favor of the merger, by proxy or in person, will constitute a waiver of the stockholder's appraisal rights in respect of the shares so voted and will nullify any previously filed written demands for appraisal.

If a vFinance stockholder fails to comply with either of these conditions, and the merger is completed, the stockholder will be entitled to receive the shares of National common stock and cash in lieu of fractional shares for its shares of vFinance common stock as provided for in the merger agreement, but will have no appraisal rights with respect to its shares of vFinance common stock.

All demands for appraisal should be addressed to vFinance, Inc., 3010 North Military Trail, Suite 300, Boca Raton, Florida 33431, Attention: Corporate Secretary, should be delivered before the vote on the merger is taken at the special meeting and should be executed by, or on behalf of, the record holder of the shares of vFinance common stock. The demand must reasonably inform vFinance of the identity of the stockholder and the intention of the stockholder to demand appraisal of his, her or its shares.

To be effective, a demand for appraisal by a holder of vFinance common stock must be made by, or in the name of, such record stockholder, fully and correctly, as the stockholder's name appears on his or her stock certificate(s) and cannot be made by the beneficial owner if he or she does not also hold the shares of record. The beneficial holder must, in such cases, have the record owner submit the required demand in respect of such shares.

If shares are owned of record in a fiduciary capacity, such as by a trustee, guardian or custodian, execution of a demand for appraisal should be made in such capacity; and if the shares are owned of record by more than one person, as in a joint tenancy or tenancy in common, the demand should be executed by or for all joint owners. An authorized agent, including an authorized agent for two or more joint owners, may execute the demand for appraisal for one or more stockholders of record; however, the agent must identify the record owner or owners and expressly disclose the fact that, in executing the demand, he or she is acting as agent for the record owner or owners. A record owner, such as a broker, who holds shares as a nominee for others, may exercise his, her or its right of appraisal with respect to the shares held for one or more beneficial owners, while not exercising this right for other beneficial owners. In such case, the written demand should state the number of shares as to which appraisal is sought. Where no number of shares is expressly mentioned, the demand will be presumed to cover all shares held in the name of such record owner.

If a vFinance stockholder holds its shares of vFinance common stock in a brokerage or bank account or in other nominee form and the stockholder wishes to exercise appraisal rights, the stockholder should consult with its broker or bank or such other nominee to determine the appropriate procedures for the making of a demand for appraisal by such

Within 10 days after the effective date of the merger, the surviving entity must give written notice of the date the merger became effective to each vFinance stockholder who has properly filed a written demand for appraisal and who did not vote in favor of the merger. Within 120 days after the effective date of the merger, either the surviving entity or any stockholder who has complied with the requirements of Section 262 may file a petition in the Delaware Chancery Court demanding a determination of the fair value of the shares held by all stockholders entitled to appraisal. The surviving entity has no obligation to file such a petition. Accordingly, the failure of a stockholder to file such a petition within the period specified could nullify such stockholder's previous written demand for appraisal.

At any time within 60 days after the effective date of the merger, any stockholder who has demanded appraisal has the right to withdraw the demand and to accept the shares of National common stock and cash in lieu of fractional shares for its shares of vFinance common stock as provided for in the merger agreement. Any attempt to withdraw an appraisal demand more than 60 days after the effective date of the merger will require the written approval of the surviving entity. Within 120 days after the effective date of the merger, any stockholder who has complied with Section 262 will be entitled, upon written request, to receive a statement setting forth the aggregate number of shares of vFinance common stock not voted in favor of the merger and with respect to which demands for appraisal have been received and the aggregate number of holders of such shares. If a petition for appraisal is duly filed by a stockholder and a copy of the petition is delivered to the surviving entity, the surviving entity will then be obligated within 20 days after receiving service of a copy of the petition to provide the Delaware Chancery Court with a duly verified list containing the names and addresses of all stockholders who have demanded appraisal of their shares and with whom agreements as to the value of their shares have not been reached. After notice to dissenting stockholders, the Chancery Court is empowered to conduct a hearing upon the petition, to determine those stockholders who have complied with

Section 262 and who have become entitled to the appraisal rights provided thereby. The Chancery Court may require the stockholders who have demanded payment for their shares to submit their stock certificates to the Register in Chancery for notation thereon of the pendency of the appraisal proceedings; and if any stockholder fails to comply with such direction, the Chancery Court may dismiss the proceedings as to such stockholder.

After determination of the stockholders entitled to appraisal of their shares of vFinance common stock, the Chancery Court will appraise the shares, determining their fair value exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger, together with a fair rate of interest, if any, to be paid. When the value is determined, the Chancery Court will direct the payment of such value, with interest thereon accrued during the pendency of the proceeding, if the Chancery Court so determines, to the stockholders entitled to receive the same, upon surrender by such holders of the certificates representing such shares.

In determining fair value, the Chancery Court is required to take into account all relevant factors. You should be aware that the fair value of your shares as determined under Section 262 could be more, the same, or less than the value that you are entitled to receive pursuant to the merger agreement. You also should be aware that investment banking opinions as to the fairness from a financial point of view of the consideration payable in the merger are not opinions as to fair value under Section 262.

Costs of the appraisal proceeding may be imposed upon the surviving entity and the stockholders participating in the appraisal proceeding by the Chancery Court as the Chancery Court deems equitable in the circumstances. Upon the application of a stockholder, the Chancery Court may order all or a portion of the expenses incurred by any stockholder in connection with the appraisal proceeding, including, without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees and the fees and expenses of experts, to be charged pro rata against the value of all shares entitled to appraisal. Any stockholder who had demanded appraisal rights will not, after the effective date of the merger, be entitled to vote shares subject to such demand for any purpose or to receive payments of dividends or any other distribution with respect to such shares (other than with respect to payment as of a record date prior to the effective date); however, if no petition for appraisal is filed within 120 days after the effective date of the merger, or if such stockholder delivers a written withdrawal of his or her demand for appraisal and an acceptance of the merger within 60 days after the effective date of the merger, then the right of such stockholder to appraisal will cease and such stockholder will be entitled to receive the shares of National common stock and cash in lieu of fractional shares for its shares of vFinance common stock as provided for in the merger agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no appraisal proceeding in the Chancery Court shall be dismissed as to any stockholder without the approval of the Chancery Court.

In view of the complexity of Section 262, vFinance stockholders who may wish to dissent from the merger and pursue appraisal rights should consult their own legal advisors.

Failure to take any required step in connection with exercising appraisal rights may result in the termination or waiver of any appraisal rights.

Accounting Treatment

National intends to account for the merger as an acquisition of vFinance by National using the purchase method of accounting under generally accepted accounting principles. National will be deemed the acquiring party. As of May 2, 2008, National had 8,622,628 shares of common stock issued and outstanding. After the completion of the merger with the National wholly owned subsidiary, the results of operations of vFinance will be included in the consolidated financial statements of National. The purchase price will be allocated to vFinance's assets and liabilities based on the fair values of the assets acquired and the liabilities assumed. These allocations will be made based upon valuations and other studies that have not yet been finalized. It is anticipated that the amount of intangible assets will be significant.

Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger

The discussion below summarizes the material United States federal income tax consequences of the merger generally applicable to holders of vFinance common stock who are United States persons, as defined for United States federal income tax purposes, and who hold their vFinance common stock as a capital asset. For United States federal income tax purposes, a United States person is:

78

a United States citizen or resident alien as determined under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the Internal Revenue Code);

a corporation, as defined by the Internal Revenue Code, that is organized under the laws of the United States, any state or the District of Columbia;

an estate, the income of which is subject to United States federal income taxation regardless of its source; or a trust, if (1) a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over its administration and at least one United States person is authorized to control all of its substantial decisions or (2) it has a valid election in effect, under applicable United States treasury regulations, to be treated as a United States person.

If a partnership, including any entity treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes, is a beneficial owner of shares of vFinance common stock, the tax treatment of a partner in that partnership will generally depend on the status of the partner and the activities of the partnership. Holders of shares of vFinance common stock that are partnerships and partners in those partnerships are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding the United States federal income tax consequences of owning and disposing of shares of vFinance common stock in the merger.

The discussion below is based on current provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, currently applicable United States Treasury regulations promulgated thereunder, and judicial and administrative decisions and rulings.

No ruling from the Internal Revenue Service has been or will be sought. Future legislative, judicial or administrative changes or interpretations could alter or modify the statements and conclusions set forth herein, and such changes or interpretations could be retroactive and could affect the tax consequences of the transaction to National, vFinance and the stockholders of vFinance.

The discussion below does not purport to deal with all aspects of federal income taxation that may affect particular stockholders in light of their individual circumstances or that may affect stockholders subject to special treatment under federal income tax law. Stockholders subject to special treatment include:

insurance companies, financial institutions, mutual funds, and broker-dealers;

tax-exempt organizations;

foreign individuals and entities;

stockholders subject to the alternative minimum tax provisions of the Internal Revenue Code;

stockholders who hold their stock as part of a hedge, wash sale, appreciated financial position, straddle, conversion transaction, synthetic security or other risk reduction transaction or integrated investment; and stockholders who have acquired their stock upon exercise of employee options or otherwise as compensation.

In addition, the discussion below does not consider the effect of any applicable state, local or foreign tax laws. Finally, the discussion below does not consider the tax consequences of the merger to holders of notes or of options, warrants or other similar rights to acquire vFinance stock.

You are urged to consult with your tax advisor as to the tax consequences of the merger to you in light of your particular circumstances, including the applicability and effect of any state, local or foreign tax laws.

Exchange of vFinance Common Stock

vFinance's counsel, Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP, will deliver an opinion to vFinance to the effect that the merger will constitute a reorganization for United States federal income tax purposes within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. This opinion will be based on letters delivered to Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP by officers of National, vFin Acquisition Corporation and vFinance containing representations regarding past, current and future matters that are customary for transactions of this nature, and on customary assumptions, including that the merger will be consummated in accordance with this joint proxy statement/prospectus and the merger agreement and that the representations made in the officers' letters are correct and accurate in all respects and will remain correct and accurate in all respects at all times up to and including the effective time of the merger. If any of the representations are inaccurate or incorrect, the conclusions stated in the opinions could be affected. Officers of National and vFinance will represent that they are not aware of any facts or circumstances that would cause any representations made by them to Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP to be inaccurate or incorrect in any material respect. The opinion will not be binding on the Internal Revenue Service or the courts, and there can be no assurance that the Internal Revenue Service or the courts will not take a contrary view of the tax treatment of the merger or the tax consequences discussed below.

Based on and subject to the above, the following are the material United States federal income tax consequences that will generally result from treatment of the merger as a reorganization described in Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code:

A holder of vFinance common stock will not recognize any gain or loss upon the receipt of National common stock in exchange for vFinance common stock in the merger, except to the extent of cash received in lieu of a fractional share. A vFinance stockholder's aggregate tax basis in the National common stock received in the merger in exchange for such stockholder's vFinance common stock will be the same as the aggregate basis of the vFinance common stock surrendered in the exchange, reduced by the portion of the adjusted basis in vFinance common stock that is allocable to a fractional share of National common stock for which cash is received.

A vFinance stockholder's holding period for the National common stock received in the merger in exchange for such stockholder's vFinance common stock will include the holding period for the vFinance common stock surrendered in the exchange.

A vFinance stockholder that receives cash in lieu of a fractional share of National common stock will generally recognize capital gain or loss equal to the difference between the cash received in lieu of such fractional share and the portion of the stockholder's adjusted tax basis in vFinance common stock surrendered that is allocable to such fractional share. The capital gain or loss will be long-term capital gain or loss if the holding period for vFinance common stock exchanged for cash in lieu of the fractional share of National common stock is more than one year at the time of the merger.

Neither National nor vFinance will recognize any gain or loss as a result of the transaction.

As noted above, no ruling from the Internal Revenue Service has been or will be sought in connection with the merger, and the opinions issued by vFinance's counsel will not be binding upon the Internal Revenue Service. The Internal Revenue Service is therefore not precluded from asserting a contrary opinion. If the Internal Revenue Service were to challenge successfully the reorganization status of the transaction, a holder of vFinance common stock would recognize gain or loss with respect to such stockholder's shares of vFinance common stock surrendered in the merger.

The gain or loss would be equal to the difference between (1) the fair market value of the National common stock received in the merger plus any cash received in place of a fractional share, and (2) the vFinance stockholder's adjusted tax basis in the vFinance common stock surrendered in the merger. Such stockholder's total tax basis in the National common stock received would equal its fair market value at the effective time of the merger and such stockholder's holding period for the stock would begin the day after the consummation of the merger.

Each vFinance stockholder who receives shares of National common stock in the merger is required to file a statement with his, her or its federal income tax return setting forth the stockholder's basis in the shares of vFinance common stock surrendered, the fair market value of the shares of National common stock received in the merger and the amount of any cash in place of a fractional share received in the merger, and is required to retain permanent records of these facts.

Net Operating Loss Carryforwards of vFinance

As of December 31, 2007, vFinance had net operating loss (NOL) carryforwards of approximately $12.8 million. These NOL carryforwards expire from 2021 through 2026. Under Section 382 of the Internal Revenue Code, if the merger results in an ownership change for vFinance, the use of vFinance's pre-merger NOL carryforwards in any taxable year after the merger generally will be limited (subject to other potential limitations and adjustments for built-in gains or losses) to an amount (the Section 382 limitation) equal to the product of (i) the long-term tax-exempt bond rate published by the Internal Revenue Service for the month in which the merger is effective and (ii) the fair market value of the stock of vFinance immediately before the merger. To the extent this Section 382 limitation exceeds taxable income for the year, the excess increases the Section 382 limitation in future taxable years. National and vFinance have not yet determined whether the merger will result in an ownership change for vFinance. If vFinance's NOL carryforwards will not be subject to limitation as a result of an ownership change under Section 382, regulations governing consolidated returns of affiliated groups provide that those carryforwards can be used only to offset the taxable income of the members of vFinance's pre-merger consolidated group and not the taxable income of other members of National's consolidated group.

Consequences to Stockholders Exercising Appraisal Rights

The discussion above does not apply to stockholders who exercise appraisal rights. A holder of vFinance common stock who exercises appraisal rights with respect to the merger and receives cash in exchange for shares of vFinance common stock generally will recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between the amount of cash received and the stockholder's tax basis in the shares surrendered. Such gain or loss generally will be capital gain or loss, and will be long-term capital gain or loss if the holding period of the vFinance common stock surrendered is more than one year. However, if the holder owns National stock actually or constructively by reason of the attribution rules under Section 318 of the Internal Revenue Code immediately after the merger, it is possible that the holder could be treated as receiving a dividend taxable as ordinary income. Dividend treatment will apply if the receipt of cash has the effect of a distribution of a dividend under Section 302 of the Internal Revenue Code. Stockholders exercising appraisal rights are urged to consult with their own tax advisers as to the application of Section 302 and the potential collateral consequences of dividend treatment in their particular circumstances. Any payment in respect of an exercise of appraisal rights may be subject to backup withholding.

Tax Opinion as Condition to Merger

It is a condition to completion of the merger that, on the closing date of the merger, vFinance's counsel, Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP, deliver an opinion to vFinance to the effect that the merger will constitute a reorganization for United States federal income tax purposes within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. This opinion will be based on letters delivered to Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge LLP by officers of National, vFin Acquisition Corporation and vFinance containing representations regarding past, current and future matters that are customary for transactions of this nature. The opinion referred to in this paragraph will not be binding on the Internal Revenue Service or the courts, and there can be no assurance that the Internal Revenue Service or the courts will not take a contrary view of the tax treatment of the merger or the tax consequences discussed above.

Backup Withholding

Unless a stockholder complies with reporting and/or certification procedures or is an exempt recipient under the backup withholding and information reporting provisions of the Internal Revenue Code and treasury regulations, the stockholder may be subject to a withholding tax on any cash received in lieu of a fractional shares. Any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules may be allowed as a refund or a credit against the holder's federal income tax liability, provided the requisite information is furnished to the Internal Revenue Service.

The above discussion is only intended to provide you with a general summary. It is not a complete analysis or description of every potential U.S. federal income tax consequence or any other consequence of the transaction. In addition, the discussion does not address tax consequences that may vary with, or are contingent on, your individual circumstances. Moreover, this discussion does not address any non-income tax or any foreign, state or local tax consequences of the transaction. Accordingly, we urge you to consult with your tax advisor to determine the particular U.S. federal, state, local or foreign tax consequences of the transaction to you.

Governmental and Regulatory Approvals

The merger is conditioned upon the receipt of required FINRA approval for the change in control of the two brokerage firm subsidiaries of vFinance and the one brokerage firm subsidiary of National. Pursuant to the rules of FINRA, vFinance's and National's broker-dealer subsidiaries must obtain approval from FINRA of the merger. FINRA may seek to challenge the change of control or otherwise seek to restrict the combined operations of National Securities Corporation, vFinance Investments or Equity Station as a condition to approving the change in control. Any challenges, limitations or restrictions imposed by FINRA could delay or prevent the merger or diminish the benefits of the merger to stockholders of National and to stockholders of vFinance who become stockholders of National.

On October 12, 2007, vFinance Investments, Inc. and EquityStation, Inc. filed a joint application for a change of control pursuant to FINRA Rule 1017. On March 19, 2008, FINRA approved the joint applications.

Other than the SEC declaring National's registration statement on Form S-4 relating to this transaction effective, and approval of FINRA, National and vFinance do not believe that any additional material governmental filings are required in connection with the merger.

The Effective Time

At the closing of the merger, the parties will cause the merger to become effective by filing a certificate of merger with the Delaware Secretary of State. The parties anticipate that the closing of the merger will occur in the offices of outside counsel to National in New York, New York.

The Surviving Corporation

vFinance will merge with vFin Acquisition Corporation and will be the surviving corporation of the merger and will thereafter operate as a wholly owned subsidiary of National. The certificate of incorporation of vFinance in effect at the effective time of the merger shall be the certificate of incorporation of the surviving corporation until amended in accordance with applicable law.

The bylaws of vFinance in effect at the effective time of the merger shall be the bylaws of the surviving corporation, until amended in accordance with applicable law.

The following persons shall be the initial members of the board of directors of the surviving corporation, each to hold office in accordance with the applicable provisions of law: Mark Goldwasser and Leonard Sokolow.

The following persons shall be the initial officers of the surviving corporation, each to hold office in accordance with the applicable provisions of law:

Name	Office(s)
Mark Goldwasser	President
Alan B. Levin	Treasurer and Secretary

Representations and Warranties

In the merger agreement, each of National and vFinance has made a number of representations and warranties to the other with respect to it and its subsidiaries, where applicable, that relate to a number of matters, including:

its incorporation, good standing and qualification to do business; its certificate of incorporation and bylaws;
its capitalization;
its authority to enter into the merger agreement;
required consents, waivers and approvals;

its power and authority to own, lease and operate its properties and to carry on its business;
regulatory approvals required to complete the merger;
the effect of the merger, or entering into the merger agreement, on its outstanding obligations;
its filings and reports with the SEC;

Proposal; and National agreed within 24 hours to notify vFinance of all relevant terms of any such inquiries or proposals received by it or its subsidiaries, officers, directors, employees or representatives. The merger agreement does not prevent National or its board of directors from: (a) making any disclosure to its stockholders if, in the good faith judgment of its board of directors, failure so to disclose would be inconsistent with its obligations under applicable law; (b) negotiating with or furnishing information to any person who has made an unsolicited bona fide written National Acquisition Proposal; or (c) recommending such National Acquisition Proposal to its stockholders if and only to the extent that, in the case of actions referred to in clause (b) or clause (c), the proposal is a Superior Proposal (as defined below) and vFinance is given at least two business days' prior written notice of the identity of the third party and all material terms and conditions of the Superior Proposal to respond to such Superior Proposal. good faith judgment that such recommendation is required to comply with the fiduciary duties of the board of directors to stockholders under applicable law after receiving the advice of outside local counsel. A Superior Proposal is an unsolicited, bona fide written National Acquisition Proposal (in respect of National) or an vFinance Acquisition Proposal (in respect of vFinance) for at least a majority of the outstanding National shares or vFinance shares on terms that the board of directors of the relevant entity determines, in its good faith judgment to be more favorable to the relevant entity's stockholders than the terms of the merger; is from a person that in the reasonable judgment of the relevant entity's board of directors is financially capable of consummating such proposal, and that in the reasonable judgment of the relevant entity's board, if accepted, is reasonably likely to be consummated.

Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, vFinance agreed not to, and not to permit its subsidiaries, its and their officers, directors, employees or other representatives to initiate, solicit or enter into discussions in furtherance of such inquiries or to obtain an vFinance Acquisition Proposal (as defined below in this paragraph), or agree to, or endorse, any vFinance Acquisition Proposal, and vFinance agreed within 24 hours to notify National of all relevant terms of any such inquiries or proposals received by vFinance or by any subsidiary or by any such officer, director, employee, agent, investment banker, financial advisor, attorney, accountant or other representative relating to any of such matters. The merger agreement does not prevent vFinance or its board of directors from (a) making any disclosure to its stockholders if, in the good faith judgment of its board of directors, failure so to disclose would be inconsistent with its obligations under applicable law; (b) negotiating with or furnishing confidential information to any person who has made a bona fide unsolicited written vFinance Acquisition Proposal, or entering into an agreement with such person in connection with an vFinance Acquisition Proposal; or (c) recommending such vFinance Acquisition Proposal to its stockholders, if and only to the extent that, in the case of actions referred to in clause (b) or clause (c), such vFinance Acquisition Proposal is a Superior Proposal and National is given at least two business days' prior written notice of the identity of the third party and all material terms and conditions of Superior Proposal to respond to such Superior Proposal. The vFinance board of directors may not recommend that vFinance's stockholders tender their shares in connection with a tender offer except to the extent the vFinance board of directors determines in its good faith judgment that such recommendation is required to comply with the fiduciary duties of the board of directors to stockholders under applicable law after receiving the advice of outside local counsel. A vFinance Acquisition Proposal means, in respect of vFinance, a bona fide proposal for certain types of acquisitions of vFinance from a person that in the reasonable judgment of vFinance's board of directors is financially capable of consummating such proposal.

vFinance and National agreed to cooperate in preparing and filing with the SEC this joint proxy statement/prospectus and to keep it effective as long as is necessary to consummate the merger and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement. No amendment or supplement (including by incorporation by reference) to the joint proxy statement/prospectus shall be made without the approval of both vFinance and National, which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld or delayed. However, vFinance, in connection with a Change in the vFinance Recommendation (as defined below in the second following paragraph) may amend or supplement the joint proxy statement/prospectus pursuant to a Qualifying Amendment (as defined below in the next following paragraph) to effect such a change. If, at any time prior to the effective time of the merger, any information relating to vFinance or National, or any of their respective affiliates, officers or directors, is discovered by vFinance or National and such information should be set forth in an amendment or supplement to the joint proxy statement/prospectus so that any of such documents would not include any misstatement of a material fact or omit to state any material fact necessary to make the statements therein not misleading, the party hereto discovering such information shall promptly notify the other parties hereto and, to the extent required by law, rules or regulations, an appropriate amendment or supplement describing such information shall be promptly filed with the SEC and disseminated to the stockholders of vFinance and National.

vFinance is required to take all lawful action to solicit approval by vFinance stockholders of the merger and the merger agreement. vFinance may adjourn or postpone the vFinance stockholders meeting to the extent necessary to ensure that any necessary supplement or amendment to this joint proxy statement/prospectus is provided to vFinance stockholders in advance of a vote on the merger and the merger agreement, or, if as of the time for which the vFinance stockholders meeting is originally scheduled there are insufficient shares of

The vFinance board of directors is required to recommend stockholder approval of the plan of merger (the vFinance Recommendation), and shall not withdraw, modify or qualify in any manner adverse to National such recommendation or take any action or make any statement in connection with the vFinance stockholders meeting inconsistent with such recommendation (collectively, a Change in vFinance Recommendation). However, the board of directors of vFinance may make a Change in vFinance Recommendation as described above. Notwithstanding any Change in vFinance Recommendation, the merger agreement must be submitted to the stockholders of vFinance at the vFinance stockholders meeting for the purpose of approving and adopting the merger agreement and approving the merger unless the merger agreement shall have first been terminated. A Qualifying Amendment means an amendment or supplement to this joint proxy statement/ prospectus to the extent it contains (a) a Change in the vFinance Recommendation, (b) a statement of the reasons of the vFinance board of directors for making such a Change in the vFinance Recommendation and (c) additional information reasonably related to the foregoing.

Upon reasonable notice, each of vFinance and National shall (and shall cause its subsidiaries to) afford to the officers, employees, accountants, counsel, financial advisors and other representatives of the other party reasonable access during normal business hours and during the period prior to the effective time of the merger, to all its properties, books, contracts, commitments, records, officers and employees and, during such period, each of vFinance and National shall (and shall cause its subsidiaries to) furnish promptly to the other party (a) a copy of each report, schedule, registration statement and other document filed, published, announced or received by it during such period pursuant to the requirements of U.S. federal or state securities laws or any other regulatory law, as applicable (other than documents that such party is not permitted to disclose under applicable law), and (b) all other information concerning it and its business, properties and personnel as such other party may reasonably request.

Each of vFinance and National agreed to use its reasonable commercial efforts to take all actions, and to do all things necessary, proper or advisable under the merger agreement and applicable laws and regulations to consummate the merger and the other transactions contemplated by the merger agreement as soon as practicable after the date of the merger agreement.

Neither vFinance nor National nor any of their respective subsidiaries will be required to hold separate or to divest or agree to divest any of their respective businesses or assets, or to take or agree to take any action or agree to any limitation that could reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on vFinance (assuming the merger has been consummated) or to substantially impair the benefits to vFinance and

National expected, as of the date of the merger agreement, to be realized from the merger, and neither vFinance nor National will be required to agree to or effect any divestiture, hold separate any business or take any other action that is not conditional on the consummation of the merger.

Except with respect to termination of the merger agreement, vFinance and National agree to bear their respective expenses incurred in connection with the merger, except that expenses incurred in printing, mailing and filing (including without limitation, SEC filing fees and stock exchange listing application fees) this joint proxy statement/prospectus shall be shared equally by vFinance and National.

From and after the effective time of the merger, National will cause the surviving corporation to indemnify, defend and hold harmless each present and former director and officer of vFinance (when acting in such capacity), determined as of the effective time, against any costs or expenses (including reasonable attorneys' fees), judgments, fines, losses, claims, damages or liabilities incurred in connection with any claim, action, suit, proceeding or investigation, whether civil, criminal, administrative or investigative, arising out of matters

An affiliate of a corporation, as defined by the rules promulgated under the Securities Act, is a person who directly or indirectly, through one or more intermediaries, controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with, that corporation. Any transfer by an affiliate of National must be one permitted by the resale provisions of Rule 145 promulgated under the Securities Act. Messrs. Sokolow, Levin, Ortega, Modica, Campanella, Rich and Groeneveld, each of whom may be affiliates of National, have entered into an affiliate agreement with National whereby they agreed not to sell, transfer or otherwise dispose of any National common stock issued to them in the merger unless (i) such sale, transfer or other disposition is made in conformity with the requirements of Rule 145(d) promulgated under the Securities Act; (ii) such sale, transfer or other disposition is made pursuant to a registration statement declared or ordered effective under the Securities Act, or an appropriate exemption from the registration and prospectus delivery requirements of the Securities Act; (iii) the affiliate delivers to National a written opinion of legal counsel, reasonably acceptable to National in form and substance, that such sale, transfer or other disposition is otherwise exempt from the registration and prospectus delivery requirements of the Securities Act; or (iv) an authorized representative of the SEC shall have rendered written advice to the affiliate to the effect that the SEC would take no action, or that the staff of the SEC would not recommend that the SEC take any action, with respect to the proposed disposition if consummated and in addition agree that the National common stock they receive in the merger will subject to stop transfer instructions and contain a legend describing the foregoing restrictions on transfer.

INFORMATION ABOUT NATIONAL

National Business Description

National is a Delaware financial services corporation organized in 1996 operating through its wholly owned subsidiary, National Securities Corporation (National Securities), a Washington corporation organized in 1947. National Securities conducts a national securities brokerage business through its main offices in Seattle, Washington and New York, New York, as well as 64 other locations throughout the country and one office outside the country.

National Securities' business includes securities brokerage for individual and institutional clients, market-making trading activities, asset management and corporate finance services. On March 15, 2006, National changed its name from Olympic Cascade Financial Corporation to National Holdings Corporation.

National Securities provides a broad range of securities brokerage and investment services to a diverse retail and institutional clientele, as well as corporate finance and investment banking services to corporations and businesses. National Securities' brokers operate as independent contractors. A registered representative who becomes an affiliate of National Securities establishes his own office and is responsible for the payment of expenses associated with the operation of such office, including rent, utilities, furniture, equipment, stock quotation machines and general office supplies. In return, the registered representative is entitled to retain a higher percentage of the commissions generated by his sales than a registered representative at a traditional employee-based brokerage firm. This arrangement allows

In July 1994, National Securities formed a wholly owned subsidiary, National Asset Management, Inc., a Washington corporation (NAM). NAM is a federally-registered investment adviser providing asset management advisory services to high net worth clients for a fee based upon a percentage of assets managed. In March 2008, all of the issued and outstanding stock of NAM was transferred from National Securities to National.

In the third quarter of fiscal year 2006, National formed a wholly owned subsidiary, National Insurance Corporation, a Washington corporation (National Insurance). National Insurance provides fixed insurance products to its clients, including life insurance, disability insurance, long term care insurance and fixed annuities. National Insurance has finalized certain requisite state registrations and commenced business operations during the second quarter of fiscal year 2007, that have been de minimus.

In the first quarter of fiscal year 2007, National formed a wholly owned subsidiary, National Holdings Mortgage Corporation (National Mortgage), in order to operate a mortgage broker business. National Mortgage is currently inactive.

In the first quarter of fiscal year 2007, National formed a wholly owned subsidiary, National Group Benefits Corporation (National Group Benefits), in order to provide independent contractors the ability to purchase insurance benefits as part of a group. National Group Benefits is currently inactive.

In the fourth quarter of fiscal year 2007, National formed a wholly owned subsidiary, National Securities Futures Corporation (National Futures), that will provide futures and derivatives products to its clients. National Futures is in the process of obtaining the necessary approvals from the National Futures Association and has not yet commenced business operations.

Clearing Relationships

In March 2005, NFS acquired the clearing business of Fiserv Securities, Inc. (Fiserv), National's former clearing firm. In April 2005, National Securities entered into a clearing agreement with NFS that became effective in June 2005. In June 2005, National Securities entered into a clearing agreement with Penson Financial Services, Inc. (Penson) for the purpose of providing clearing services that are not provided by NFS. Additionally, in June 2007, National Securities entered into a clearing agreement with Legent Clearing LLC (Legent) for the purpose of providing clearing services that are not provided by NFS and to maintain a pre-existing clearing relationship for brokers newly associated with National Securities.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Financial Information about Industry Segments

National realized approximately 88% of its total revenues in fiscal year 2007 from brokerage services, principal and agency transactions, and investment banking. During fiscal year 2007, brokerage services that consist of retail brokerage commissions represent 54% of total revenues, principal and agency transactions that consist of net dealer inventory gains represent 22% of total revenues, and investment banking, that consist of corporate finance commissions and fees, represent 12% of total revenues. For a more detailed analysis of National's results by segment, see Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operation of National.

Brokerage Services

National Securities is registered as a broker-dealer with the SEC and is licensed in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. National Securities is also a member of FINRA (formerly the NASD), MSRB and SIPC. Brokerage services to retail clients are provided through National's sales force of investment executives at National Securities.

National Securities' goal is to meet the needs of its investment executives and their clients. To foster individual service, flexibility and efficiency and to reduce fixed costs, investment executives at National Securities act as independent contractors responsible for providing their own office facilities, sales assistants, telephone and quote service, supplies and other items of overhead. Investment executives are given broad discretion to structure their own practices and to specialize in different areas of the securities market subject to supervisory procedures. In addition, investment executives have direct access to research materials, management, traders, and all levels of support personnel.

The brokerage services provided by the investment executives at National Securities include execution of purchases and sales of stocks, bonds, mutual funds, annuities and various other securities for individual and institutional customers. In fiscal year 2007, stocks represented approximately 78% of National's business, bonds represented approximately 12% of its business, and mutual funds and annuities made up the remaining 10% of its business. The percentage of each type of business varies over time as the investment preferences of National's customers change based on market conditions.

Typically, National Securities does not recommend particular securities to customers. Recommendations to customers are determined by individual investment executives based upon their own research and analysis, subject to applicable FINRA customer suitability standards. Most investment executives perform fundamental (as opposed to technical) analysis. Solicitations may be by telephone, seminars or newsletters. Investment executives may request trading to acquire an inventory position to facilitate sales to customers (subject to the investment executive's own risk). Supervisory personnel review trading activity from inventory positions to ensure compliance with applicable standards of conduct.

National generally acts as an agent in executing customer orders to buy or sell listed and over-the-counter securities in which it does not make a market, and charges commissions based on the services National provides to its customers.

In executing customer orders to buy or sell a security in which National makes a market, National may sell to, or purchase from, customers at a price that is substantially equal to the current inter-dealer market price plus or minus a mark-up or mark-down. National may also act as agent and execute a customer's purchase or sale order with another broker-dealer market-maker at the best inter-dealer market price available and charge a commission. National believes its mark-ups, mark-downs and commissions are competitive based on the services it provides to its customers. In each instance the commission charges, mark-ups or mark-downs, are in compliance with guidelines established by the FINRA. In order to increase revenues generated from these activities, National continuously seeks to hire additional registered representatives, and works with its current registered representatives to increase their productivity.

National's registered representatives are independent contractors, not salaried employees. As such, payments to these persons are based on commissions generated, and represent a variable cost rather than a fixed cost of operating National's business. Commission expense represents a significant majority of National's total expenses. National works to control its fixed costs in order to achieve profitability based upon its expectation of market conditions and the related level of revenues. Additionally, National requires most of its registered representatives to absorb their own overhead and expenses, thereby reducing National's share of the fixed costs.

Investment executives in the brokerage industry are traditionally compensated on the basis of set percentages of total commissions and mark-ups generated. Most brokerage firms bear substantially all of the costs of maintaining their sales forces, including providing office space, sales assistants, telephone service and supplies. The average commission paid to investment executives in the brokerage industry generally ranges from 30% to 50% of total commissions generated.

Since National Securities requires most of its investment executives to absorb their own overhead and expenses, it pays a higher percentage of the net commissions and mark-ups generated by its investment executives, as compared to traditional investment executives in the brokerage industry. This arrangement also reduces fixed costs and lowers the risk of operational losses for non-production. National Securities' operations include execution of orders, processing of transactions, internal financial controls and compliance with regulatory and legal requirements.

As of December 31, 2007, National had 97 employees and 414 independent contractors. Of these totals, 465 were registered representatives. Persons who have entered into independent contractor agreements are not considered employees for purposes of determining National's obligations for federal and state withholding, unemployment and social security taxes. National's independent contractor arrangements conform to accepted industry practice, and therefore, National does not believe there is a material risk of an adverse determination from the tax authorities that would have a significant effect on its ability to recruit and retain investment executives or on its current operations and financial results of operations. No employees are covered by collective bargaining agreements, and National believes its relations are good with both its employees and independent contractors.

National's business plan includes the growth of its retail and institutional brokerage business, while recognizing the volatility of the financial markets. In response to historical market fluctuations, National has periodically adjusted certain business activities, including, proprietary trading and market-making trading. National believes that consolidation within the industry is inevitable. Concerns attributable to the volatile market, and increased competition, result in a number of acquisition opportunities being introduced to it. National is focused on maximizing the profitability of its existing operations, while it continues to seek selective strategic acquisitions.

Periodic reviews of controls are conducted and administrative and operations personnel meet frequently with management to review operating conditions. Compliance and operations personnel monitor compliance with applicable laws, rules and regulations.

Principal and Agency Transactions

National buys and maintains inventories in equity securities as a market-maker for sale of those securities to other dealers and to customers through National Securities. National may also maintain inventories in corporate, government and municipal debt securities for sale to customers. The level of National Securities' market-making trading activities will increase or decrease depending on the relative strength or weakness of the broader markets. As of December 31, 2007, National Securities made markets in approximately 46 securities. National Securities anticipates that it will engage in some market-making trading activity in the future, which may include companies for which National Securities managed or co-managed a public offering.

National's trading departments require a commitment of capital. Most principal transactions place the National's capital at risk. Profits and losses are dependent upon the skill of the traders, price movements, trading activity and the size of inventories. Since the National's trading activities occasionally may involve speculative and thinly capitalized stocks, including stabilizing the market for securities which it has underwritten, National imposes position limits to reduce its potential for loss.

In executing customer orders to buy or sell a security in which National makes a market, National may sell to, or purchase from, customers at a price that is substantially equal to the current inter-dealer market price plus or minus a mark-up or mark-down. National may also act as agent and execute a customer's purchase or sale order with another broker-dealer market-maker at the best inter-dealer market price available and charge a commission. National believes its mark-ups, mark-downs and commissions are competitive based on the services it provides to its customers.

In executing customer orders to buy or sell listed and over-the-counter securities in which it does not make a market, National generally acts as an agent and charges commissions that it believes are competitive, based on the services it provides to its customers.

Investment Banking

National Securities provides corporate finance and investment banking services, including underwriting the sale of securities to the public and arranging for the private placement of securities with investors. National Securities corporate finance operations provide a broad range of financial and corporate advisory services, including mergers and acquisitions, project financing, capital structure and specific financing opportunities. National Securities also acts as an underwriter of equity securities in both initial and secondary public offerings. Corporate finance revenues will vary depending on the number of private and public offerings completed by National Securities during a particular fiscal year.

Competition

National is engaged in a highly competitive business. With respect to one or more aspects of its business, its competitors include member organizations of the NYSE and other registered securities exchanges in the United States and Canada, and members of the FINRA. Many of these organizations have substantially greater personnel and financial resources and more sales offices than National. Discount brokerage firms affiliated with commercial banks provide additional competition, as well as companies that provide electronic on-line trading. In many instances, National is also competing directly for customer funds with investment opportunities offered by real estate, insurance, banking, and savings and loans industries.

The securities industry has become considerably more concentrated and more competitive since National was founded, as numerous securities firms have either ceased operations or have been acquired by or merged into other firms. In addition, companies not engaged primarily in the securities business, but with substantial financial resources, have acquired leading securities firms. These developments have increased competition from firms with greater capital resources than National's.

Since the adoption of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999, commercial banks and thrift institutions have been able to engage in traditional brokerage and investment banking services, thus increasing competition in the securities industry and potentially increasing the rate of consolidation in the securities industry.

National also competes with other securities firms for successful sales representatives, securities traders and investment bankers. Competition for qualified employees in the financial services industry is intense. National's continued ability to compete effectively depends on its ability to attract new employees and to retain and motivate its existing employees. For a further discussion of risks facing National, please see Risk Factors.

Government Regulation and Supervision

The securities industry and National Securities' business is subject to extensive regulation by the SEC, FINRA, state securities regulators and other governmental regulatory authorities. The principal purpose of these regulations is the protection of customers and the securities markets. The SEC is the federal agency charged with the administration of the federal securities laws. Much of the regulation of broker-dealers, however, has been delegated to self-regulatory organizations, such as the FINRA, that adopt rules, subject to approval by the SEC, which govern their members and conduct periodic examinations of member firms' operations. Securities firms are also subject to regulation by state securities commissions in the states in which they are registered. National Securities is a registered broker-dealer with the SEC and a member of the FINRA. It is licensed to conduct activities as a broker-dealer in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

In addition, as a registered broker-dealer and member of the FINRA, National Securities is subject to the SEC's Uniform Net Capital Rule 15c3-1, which is designed to measure the general financial integrity and liquidity of a broker-dealer and requires the maintenance of minimum net capital. Net capital is defined as the net worth of a broker-dealer subject to certain adjustments. In computing net capital, various adjustments are made to net worth that exclude assets not readily convertible into cash. Additionally, the regulations require that certain assets, such as a broker-dealer's position in securities, be valued in a conservative manner so as to avoid over-inflation of the broker-dealer's net capital. National Securities has elected to use the alternative standard method permitted by the rule. This requires that National Securities maintain minimum net capital equal to the greater of $250,000 or a specified amount per security based on the bid price of each security for which National Securities is a market maker. At December 31, 2007, National Securities' net capital exceeded the requirement by $1,183,000.

The Exchange Act and the FINRA Conduct Rules require National Securities to supervise the activities of its investment executives. As part of providing such supervision, National Securities maintains Written Supervisory Procedures and a Compliance Manual. Compliance personnel and outside auditors conduct inspections of branch offices periodically to review compliance with National procedures. A registered principal provides onsite supervision at each of National's larger offices. The other offices (averaging two investment executives per office) are not required by FINRA rules to have a registered principal on site and are therefore supervised by registered principals of National Securities. Designated principals review customer trades to ensure compliance with the FINRA Conduct Rules including mark-up guidelines.

In November 2006, without admitting or denying the alleged violations, National Securities accepted and consented to the entry of the following findings by NASD Regulation: Pursuant to NASD Rules 2110, 3010, 6230(A), MSRB Rules G-14, G-17, the firm failed to report to trace, transactions in trace eligible securities executed on a business day during trace system hours within 30 minutes of the time of execution; the firm's supervisory system did not provide for supervision reasonably designed to achieve compliance with applicable securities laws, regulations and NASD rules concerning trace reporting; and failed to report to the MSRB customer transaction in municipal securities within 15 minutes of the time of execution. The firm was censured and fined $30,000 in a settlement dated November 21, 2006.

In July 2007, without admitting or denying the alleged violations, National Securities accepted and consented to the entry of the following findings by NASD Regulation: Pursuant to NASD Rules 2110, 3010(A) and (B), the firm ignored red flags that a representative was circumventing his heightened supervision plan. The firm was censured and fined $20,000 in a settlement dated July 19, 2007.

Venture Capital

In 2001, National formed Robotic Ventures Fund I, L.P. (the Fund), a venture capital fund dedicated to investing in companies engaged in the business of robotics and artificial intelligence. National has a 24.5% interest in, and serves as the managing member of, Robotic Ventures Group LLC (LLC), the general partner of the Fund. The LLC has a 0.02% ownership interest in the Fund. The Fund has twenty limited partners. Under the terms of the LLC agreement, the managing member may be removed under certain circumstances. As the managing member, National has no ongoing monetary responsibility to support operations or provide for Fund losses. The carrying amount of National's investment in the Fund was $0 at December 31, 2007 and 2006. National's investment is accounted for under the equity method of accounting. National recognized income on this investment of $192,000 in fiscal year 2006, and no income or loss on this investment in fiscal years 2007 and 2005, respectively. During the formation of the Fund, National incurred various start-up expenses that were subsequently reimbursed by the Fund.

Properties

National owns no real property. Its corporate headquarters are shared with National Securities in leased space in Chicago, Illinois and New York, New York. National leases office space in Boca Raton, Florida, and through its subsidiary, it leases office space in Chicago, New York, Seattle, Washington and Tinton Falls, New Jersey. Independent contractors individually lease the branch offices that are operated by those independent contractors.

Leases expire at various times through September 2012. National believes the rent at each of its locations is reasonable based on current market rates and conditions.

Legal Proceedings

In September 2006, National's former chairman and chief executive officer, Steven A. Rothstein, commenced an arbitration against National's current chairman and chief executive officer, Mark Goldwasser, in the matter Rothstein et al. vs. Goldwasser, FINRA No. 06-04000. Rothstein is alleging fraud and inequitable conduct relating to his attempts to sell his investment in National in calendar year 2001, and is seeking approximately $5,750,000 in damages. National is indemnifying Mr. Goldwasser in this action. National and Mr. Goldwasser believe this action is without merit, and intend to vigorously defend this action. As of December 31, 2007, the outcome of this arbitration is undeterminable, and accordingly National has not established a provision for this matter.

National is also a defendant in various other arbitrations and administrative proceedings, lawsuits and claims seeking in the aggregate damages of approximately $350,000. National believes such claims are substantially without merit, and estimates that its liability, primarily for attorney representation, will be less than $100,000 (exclusive of unspecified punitive damages related to certain claims and inclusive of expected insurance coverage). These matters arise in the normal course of business. National intends to vigorously defend itself in these actions, and believes that the eventual outcome of these matters will not have a material adverse effect on it. However, the ultimate outcome of these matters cannot be determined at this time. The amounts related to such matters that are reasonably estimable and which have been accrued at December 31, 2007 and 2006, is $124,000 and $762,000 (primarily legal fees), respectively. Approximately $575,000 of the accrued legal fees at December 31, 2006 related to the settlement of certain arbitrations. National has included in Professional fees litigation and FINRA related expenses of $375,000 and $789,000 for the first quarter of fiscal years 2008 and 2007, respectively.

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

The SEC recently issued proposed guidance for disclosure of critical accounting policies and estimates. National's most critical accounting policies relate to income recognition, income taxes, and stock-based compensation. The SEC defines critical accounting estimates as those that require application of management's most difficult, subjective or complex judgments, often as a result of the need to make estimates about the effects of matters that are inherently uncertain and may change in subsequent periods.

Revenue Recognition Customer security transactions and the related commission income and expense are recorded as of the trade date. Investment banking revenues include gains, losses, and fees, net of syndicate expenses, arising from securities offerings in which National acts as an underwriter or agent. Investment banking revenues also include fees earned from providing financial advisory services. Investment banking management fees are recorded on the offering date, sales concessions on the settlement date, and underwriting fees at the time the underwriting is completed and the income is reasonably determinable. Customers who are financing their transaction on margin are charged interest. National's margin requirements are in accordance with the terms and conditions mandated by its clearing firms, NFS, Penson and Legent. The interest is billed on the average daily balance of the margin account.

Net dealer inventory gains result from securities transactions entered into for the account and risk of National. Net dealer inventory gains are recorded on a trade date basis. Transfer fees are charged for each customer's security transaction, and are recognized as of the trade date. Investment advisory fees are account management fees for high net worth clients based on the amount of the assets under management. These fees are billed quarterly and recognized at such time that the service is performed and collection is probable.

National generally acts as an agent in executing customer orders to buy or sell listed and over-the-counter securities in which it does not make a market, and charges commissions based on the services it provides to its customers. In executing customer orders to buy or sell a security in which it makes a market, it may sell to, or purchase from, customers at a price that is substantially equal to the current inter-dealer market price plus or minus a mark-up or mark-down. National may also act as agent and execute a customer's purchase or sale order with another broker-dealer market-maker at the best inter-dealer market price available and charge a commission. Mark-ups, mark-downs and commissions are generally priced competitive based on the services it provides to its customers. In each instance the

Common Stock Purchase Warrants National accounts for the issuance of common stock purchase warrants issued in connection with capital financing transactions in accordance with the provisions of Emerging Issues Task Force Issue No. 00-19 Accounting for Derivative Financial Instruments Indexed to, and Potentially Settled in, a Company's Own Stock (EITF 00-19). Based on the provisions of EITF 00-19, National classifies as equity any contracts that (i) require physical settlement or net-share settlement or (ii) gives the company a choice of net-cash settlement or settlement in its own shares (physical settlement or net-share settlement). National classifies as assets or liabilities any contracts that (i) require net-cash settlement

(including a requirement to net-cash settle the contract if an event occurs and if that event is outside its control) or (ii) gives the counterparty a choice of net-cash settlement or settlement in shares (physical settlement or net-share settlement).

National assessed the classification of its derivative financial instruments as of September 30, 2007, which consist of common stock purchase warrants, and determined that such derivatives meet the criteria for equity classification under EITF 00-19.

Convertible Instruments National evaluates and accounts for conversion options embedded in its convertible instruments in accordance with SFAS No. 133 Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities (SFAS 133) and EITF 00-19.

SFAS 133 generally provides three criteria that, if met, require companies to bifurcate conversion options from their host instruments and account for them as free standing derivative financial instruments in accordance with EITF 00-19. These three criteria include circumstances in which (a) the economic characteristics and risks of the embedded derivative instrument are not clearly and closely related to the economic characteristics and risks of the host contract, (b) the hybrid instrument that embodies both the embedded derivative instrument and the host contract is not remeasured at fair value under otherwise applicable generally accepted accounting principles with changes in fair value reported in earnings as they occur and (c) a separate instrument with the same terms as the embedded derivative instrument would be considered a derivative instrument subject to the requirements of SFAS 133. SFAS 133 and EITF 00-19 also provide an exception to this rule when the host instrument is deemed to be conventional (as that term is described in the implementation guidance to SFAS 133 and further clarified in EITF 05-2 The Meaning of Conventional Convertible Debt Instrument in EITF 00-19).

National accounts for convertible instruments (when it has determined that the embedded conversion options should not be bifurcated from their host instruments) in accordance with the provisions of EITF 98-5 Accounting for Convertible Securities with Beneficial Conversion Features, (EITF 98-5) and EITF 00-27 Application of EITF 98-5 to Certain Convertible Instruments. Accordingly, it records, when necessary, discounts to convertible notes for the intrinsic value of conversion options embedded in debt instruments based upon the differences between the fair value of the underlying common stock at the commitment date of the note transaction and the effective conversion price embedded in the note. Debt discounts under these arrangements are amortized over the term of the related debt to their earliest date of redemption. National also records when necessary deemed dividends for the intrinsic value of conversion options embedded in preferred shares based upon the differences between the fair value of the underlying common stock at the commitment date of the note transaction and the effective conversion price embedded in the note.

National evaluated the conversion option embedded in the convertible preferred stock and determined, in accordance with the provisions of these statements, that such conversion option does not meet the criteria requiring bifurcation of these instruments. The characteristics of the common stock that is issuable upon a holder's exercise of the conversion option embedded in the convertible preferred stock are deemed to be clearly and closely related to the characteristics of the preferred shares (as that term is clarified in paragraph 61.1. of the implementation guidance included in Appendix A of SFAS 133). Additionally, National's conversion options, if free standing, would not be considered derivatives subject to the accounting guidelines prescribed under SFAS 133.

Other Receivables National extends unsecured credit in the normal course of business to its registered representatives. The determination of the amount of uncollectible accounts is based on the amount of credit extended and the length of time each receivable has been outstanding, as it relates to each individual registered representative. The allowance for doubtful accounts reflects the amount of loss that can be reasonably estimated by management, and is included in other expenses in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations.

Stock-Based Compensation Prior to October 1, 2005, National accounted for employee stock transactions in accordance with Accounting Principle Board, APB Opinion No. 25, Accounting for Stock Issued to Employees. National had adopted the pro forma disclosure requirements of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 123, Accounting For Stock-Based Compensation.

Effective October 1, 2005, National adopted FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Standard (SFAS) No. 123R Share Based Payment. This statement is a revision of SFAS Statement No. 123, and supersedes APB Opinion No. 25, and its related implementation guidance. SFAS 123R addresses all forms of share based payment (SBP) awards including shares issued under employee stock purchase plans, stock options, restricted stock and stock appreciation rights. Under SFAS 123R, SBP awards will result in a charge to operations that will be measured at fair value on the awards grant date, based on the estimated number of awards expected to vest over the service period.

The Black-Scholes option valuation model was used to estimate the fair value of the options granted during the fiscal years ended September 30, 2007, 2006 and 2005. The model includes subjective input assumptions that can materially affect the fair value estimates. The model was developed for use in estimating the fair value of traded options that have no vesting restrictions and that are fully transferable. For example, the expected volatility is estimated based on the most recent historical period of time equal to the weighted average life of the options granted. Options issued under National's option plans have characteristics that differ from traded options. In National's opinion, this valuation model does not necessarily provide a reliable single measure of the fair value of its employee stock options

The increase in clearing fees is attributable to the increase in commission revenue in the first quarter of fiscal year 2008 as compared to the first quarter of fiscal year 2007. The greater increase in clearing fees as compared to the increase in commission revenue is attributable to lower average commission revenue per ticket in the first quarter of fiscal year 2008.

Communication expenses decreased $46,000 or 11%, to $356,000 from $402,000 in the first quarter of fiscal year 2008 compared to the first quarter of fiscal year 2007. Total revenues increased $14,092,000, or 24%, in fiscal year 2007 to $72,819,000 from $58,727,000 in fiscal year 2006. The increase in revenues is primarily due to greater commissions and net dealer inventory gains, partially offset by a decline in investment banking revenues. During fiscal year 2007, total trading volume increased 4%, compared to fiscal year 2006. The lesser increase in trading volume compared to revenues reflects an increase in the average revenue per trade. Commission revenue increased $7,097,000, or 22%, to $39,237,000 from $32,140,000 during fiscal year 2007 compared with fiscal year 2006. from $7,838,000 during fiscal year 2007 compared with fiscal year 2006. The increase is primarily due to an increase in proprietary trading in the foreign bond market, and reflects National's re-entry into market making activities. During fiscal year 2007, revenues from proprietary trading increased $7,159,000, or 97%, to $14,550,000 from $7,391,000 in fiscal year 2006, revenues from market making activities increased $550,000, or 170%, to $873,000 from $323,000 in fiscal year 2006, and revenues from customer mark-ups and mark-downs increased $182,000, or 147%, to $306,000 from $124,000 in fiscal year 2006.

Investment banking revenue decreased $2,226,000, or 20%, to $9,097,000 from $11,323,000 in fiscal year 2007 compared with fiscal year 2006. The decrease in investment banking revenues is attributable to National having completed fewer investment banking transactions for private companies in fiscal year 2007 than in fiscal year 2006. Interest and dividend income decreased $67,000, or 2%, to $2,824,000 from $2,891,000 in fiscal year 2007 compared with fiscal year 2006. The decrease in interest income is attributable to a decrease in the amount of debit balances in National Securities' customer accounts in fiscal year 2007 compared to fiscal year 2006. Transfer fees increased $739,000, or 22%, to $4,075,000 in fiscal year 2007 from $3,336,000 in fiscal year 2006. Commission expense, which includes expenses related to commission revenue, net dealer inventory gains and investment banking, increased $9,995,000, or 24%, to $52,271,000 in fiscal year 2007 from $42,276,000 in fiscal year 2006. Commission expense as a percentage of net dealer inventory gains increased to 80% in fiscal year 2007 from 72% in fiscal year 2006. This increase is attributable to changes in the production of particular brokers and traders, not all of who are paid at the same commission rate. Occupancy costs increased $191,000, or 7%, to $2,996,000 from $2,805,000 in fiscal year 2007 compared to fiscal year 2006. The increase in occupancy expense is due to costs incurred to transfer certain of National's paper files to a digital system and annual rent increases contained in its office leases, partially offset by the settlement of a lawsuit by National against a former subtenant in the third quarter of fiscal year 2007. Professional fees increased $1,053,000, or 87%, to $2,266,000 from $1,213,000 in fiscal year 2007 compared to fiscal year 2006. Fiscal Year 2006 Compared with Fiscal Year 2005

National's fiscal year 2006 resulted in an increase in revenues, and a comparatively lesser increase in expenses compared with fiscal year 2005. in National Securities' customer accounts from the same period last year. Transfer fees increased $239,000, or 8%, to $3,336,000 in fiscal year 2006 from $3,097,000 in fiscal year 2005. The increase is due to higher transfer fees for trades generated from the retail brokerage business of brokers recently associated with National.

Other revenue, consisting of asset management fees, miscellaneous transaction fees and trading fees, and other investment income, increased $677,000, or 130%, to $1,199,000 from $522,000 during fiscal year 2006 compared to fiscal year 2005. The increase is due to an increase in fee based assets under management and investment income realized in National's venture capital fund in fiscal year 2006.

In comparison with the 28% increase in total revenues, total expenses increased 24%, or $11,219,000, to $58,132,000 for fiscal year 2006 compared to $46,913,000 in fiscal year 2005. The increase in total expenses is primarily the result of higher commission expenses directly associated with commission revenues, particularly investment banking revenues.

Commission expense, which includes expenses related to commission revenue, net dealer inventory gains and investment banking, increased $9,438,000, or 29%, to $42,276,000 in fiscal year 2006 from $32,838,000 in fiscal year 2005. Commission expense related to commission revenue decreased $53,000, or less than 1%, to $28,451,000 in fiscal year 2006 from $28,504,000 in fiscal year 2005; commission expense related to net dealer inventory gains increased $1,698,000, or 43%, to $5,617,000 in fiscal year 2006 from $3,919,000 in fiscal year 2005; and commission expense related to investment banking increased $7,793,000, or 1,878%, to $8,208,000 in fiscal year 2006 from $415,000 in fiscal year 2005. Commission expense as a percentage of commission revenues increased to 89% in fiscal year 2006 from 86% in fiscal year 2005. This increase is attributable to changes in the production of particular brokers, not all of who are paid at the same commission rate and an increase in the amortization of advances to registered representatives. Commission expense as a percentage of net dealer inventory gains increased to 72% in fiscal year 2006 from 69% in fiscal year 2005. This increase is attributable to changes in the production of particular brokers and traders, not all of who are paid at the same commission rate. Commission expense as a percentage of investment banking revenues decreased to 72% in fiscal year 2006 from 79% in fiscal year 2005. This decrease is attributable to the type and size of the particular investment banking transactions completed in the current fiscal year. Commission expense includes the amortization of advances to registered representatives of $1,281,000 and $1,206,000 for fiscal years 2006 and 2005, respectively. These amounts fluctuate based upon the amounts of advances outstanding and the time period for which the registered representatives have agreed to be affiliated with National Securities.

Employee compensation expense increased $825,000, or 16%, to $5,835,000 in fiscal year 2006 from $5,010,000 in fiscal year 2005. The increase is attributable to new hires, bonuses based on current year's profits and year-end bonuses that were paid to certain staff employees in the first quarter of fiscal year 2006. Overall, combined commission and employee compensation expense, as a percentage of revenue remained relatively constant at approximately 82% and 83% in fiscal years 2006 and 2005, respectively.

Clearing fees increased $1,106,000, or 256%, to $1,538,000 in fiscal year 2006 from $432,000 in fiscal year 2005. The increase in clearing fees is attributable to a different pricing structure for certain products with different clearing firms, and the receipt in fiscal year 2005 of a $1.0 million conversion fee credit from National's clearing firm.

Communication expenses increased $78,000, or 5%, to $1,748,000 from $1,670,000 in fiscal year 2006 compared to fiscal year 2005. The increase is primarily due to telecommunication incentives provided to certain brokers who recently became affiliated with National, and additional quotation machines for its market making activities, offset by the receipt of a refund of prior periods' charges from a service provider. Occupancy costs decreased $81,000, or 3%, to $2,805,000 from $2,886,000 in fiscal year 2006 compared to fiscal year 2005. The decrease in occupancy expense is due to an overall reduction in leased office space. Professional fees decreased $307,000, or 20%, to $1,213,000 from $1,520,000 in fiscal year 2006 compared to fiscal year 2005. The decrease in professional fees is due to National having expensed approximately $320,000 of professional fees relating to the proposed merger with First Montauk in fiscal year 2005.

Interest expense increased $46,000, or 10%, to $494,000 from $448,000 in fiscal year 2006 compared to fiscal year 2005. The increase is primarily attributable to the acceleration of amortization on notes that were paid prior to maturity and amortization related to new notes issued by National in the third quarter of fiscal year 2006. Included in interest expense is the amortization of $193,000 and $163,000 for fiscal years 2006 and 2005, respectively. Taxes, licenses and registration increased $273,000, or 79%, to $617,000 from $344,000 in fiscal year 2006 compared fiscal year 2005. The increase is due to registration incentives provided to certain brokers who became affiliated with National in fiscal year 2006, and the receipt of a refund of prior years' state business taxes in fiscal year 2005. Other administrative expenses decreased $159,000, or 9%, to $1,606,000 from $1,765,000 in fiscal year 2006 compared to fiscal year 2005. The decrease in other expenses is due to costs incurred in fiscal year 2005 relating to National's change of clearing firms.

National reported net income of $595,000 in fiscal year 2006 compared to a net loss of $1,183,000 in fiscal year 2005. The net income attributable to common stockholders in fiscal year 2006 was $214,000, or diluted earnings of $.04 per common share, as compared to a net loss attributable to common stockholders of $1,473,000, or $.29 per common share in fiscal year 2005. The net income attributable to common stockholders for fiscal year 2006 and the net loss attributable to common stockholders for fiscal year 2005 reflects $381,000 and $290,000 of cumulative preferred stock dividends on the National's preferred stock for fiscal years 2006 and 2005, respectively.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

National Securities, as a registered broker-dealer, is subject to the SEC's Uniform Net Capital Rule 15c3-1 that requires the maintenance of minimum net capital. National Securities has elected to use the alternative standard method permitted by the rule. This requires that National Securities maintain minimum net capital equal to the greater of $250,000 or a specified amount per security based on the bid price of each security for which National Securities is a market maker. At December 31, 2007, National Securities' net capital exceeded the requirement by $1,183,000.

Advances, dividend payments and other equity withdrawals from National's subsidiary are restricted by the regulations of the SEC and other regulatory agencies. These regulatory restrictions may limit the amounts that a subsidiary may dividend or advance to National.

National extends unsecured credit in the normal course of business to its brokers. The determination of the appropriate amount of the reserve for uncollectible accounts is based upon a review of the amount of credit extended, the length of time each receivable has been outstanding, and the specific individual brokers from whom the receivables are due.

The objective of liquidity management is to ensure that National has ready access to sufficient funds to meet commitments, fund deposit withdrawals and efficiently provide for the credit needs of customers.

Securities Financing

In January 2004, $1.0 million of notes with an interest rate of 9% held by two note holders matured. At that time warrants held by the note holders to purchase, in the aggregate, 100,000 shares of common stock at a price of $5.00 per share and 100,000 shares of common stock at a price of $1.25 per share expired. In August 2005, upon the maturity of previously issued notes, National and two note holders entered into new note agreements providing for $1.0 million of notes with a maturity date of July 31, 2007, together with warrants having an expiration date of July 31, 2007 to purchase, in the aggregate, 200,000 shares of common stock at a price of $1.25 per share. The notes had an interest rate of 9%. These notes were repaid in full in January 2006.

National Securities entered into a secured demand note collateral agreement with an employee of National Securities and a former Director of National to borrow securities that can be used by National for collateral agreements. In February 2008, upon the maturity of the previously issued note, National Securities and the holder entered into a new $500,000 secured demand note collateral agreement with a maturity date of March 1, 2009. The holder also entered into a warrant agreement to purchase 150,000 shares of common stock at a price of $1.25 per share, with an expiration date of July 31, 2009.

In January 2006, National completed a private placement of its securities to a limited number of accredited investors in a transaction exempt from registration under Section 4(2) of the Securities Act. The investors made a $2.0 million investment in National by purchasing an aggregate of the following: (i) $1.0 million for 10,000 shares of National's newly created Series B preferred stock, which had a 10% dividend rate and was convertible into common stock at a price of $.75 per share, and (ii) 11% convertible promissory notes in the principal amount of $1.0 million, which were convertible into common stock at a price of $1.00 per share, with warrants to purchase an aggregate of 300,000 shares of National common stock at an exercise price of $1.00 per share.

The convertible promissory notes were to mature in January 2011. The fair value of the warrants was calculated using the Black-Scholes Option Valuation Model. National recorded a debt discount of approximately $187,000 that will be charged to interest expense over the life of the debt.

The investment included $1.7 million by St. Cloud Capital Partners, L.P. (St. Cloud), and an aggregate of $300,000 by two unrelated investors. Marshall S. Geller, the Co-Founder and Senior Managing Member of SCGP, LLC, and the General Partner of St. Cloud, became a member of National's board of directors simultaneous with the closing of the transaction. National incurred legal fees and other costs related to this capital transaction, in the amount of $56,000. National capitalized one-half of the fees to deferred financing costs that will be amortized to interest expense over the life of the convertible promissory notes and one-half of the fees were charged to paid-in capital.

In January 2006, National used $1.0 million of the proceeds from the above private placement to pay in full $1.0 million of promissory notes held by two unrelated note holders that had a maturity date of July 31, 2007.

In June 2007, National exercised the conversion option contained in its 11% convertible promissory notes. National issued 1,024,413 shares of its common stock in full payment of the $1,000,000 convertible promissory notes, plus accrued interest. The remaining unamortized debt discount of approximately $150,000 was expensed as Interest in the quarter ended June 30, 2007. In July 2007, National exercised the conversion option contained in its Series B preferred stock, and issued 1,333,333 shares of its common stock for the retirement of the Series B preferred stock. Accordingly, National is no longer obligated to pay dividends on the Series B preferred stock.

In March 2006, National sold and issued 159,090 shares of its common stock to an unaffiliated party for $175,000 in a private placement exempt from registration under Section 4(2) of the Securities Act. The proceeds from the private placement were used to retire $175,000 of National's promissory notes that were due to mature in January 2007.

In May 2006, National filed a Registration Statement on Form S-1 under the Securities Act for the resale of certain shares of common stock, shares of common stock issuable upon the conversion of preferred stock and notes, and exercise of certain warrants previously issued in connection with private placement transactions. The Registration Statement became effective on November 6, 2006.

In February 2007, National completed a financing transaction under which certain investors purchased 10% promissory notes in the principal amount of $1.0 million, with warrants to purchase an aggregate of 250,000 shares of common stock at an exercise price of $1.40 per share. The promissory notes mature in February 2009, and have a stated interest rate of 10% per annum. The fair value of the warrants was calculated using the Black-Scholes Option Valuation Model. National recorded a debt discount of approximately $195,000 that is being charged to interest expense over the life of the debt.

National and the investors entered into a registration rights agreement, wherein the investors received unlimited piggyback registration rights and one demand registration right for the shares of common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants. The investors can make such demand one year after the date of issuance of the warrants, and National has agreed to file the registration statement within 90 days of such demand. National has agreed to use commercially reasonable efforts to have the registration statement declared effective. There are no penalties for failure to have the registration statement declared effective. As of September 30, 2007, National has not registered the securities covered by the warrants.

The investment included $500,000 by Christopher C. Dewey and $250,000 by St. Cloud. Mr. Dewey, and Mr. Geller, the Senior Managing Partner of St. Cloud, are each members of National's board of directors. National incurred legal fees and other costs related to this capital transaction in the amount of $22,000 that were capitalized and will be amortized to interest expense over the life of the promissory notes.

On March 31, 2008, National completed a transaction whereby an affiliate of a principal stockholder and director of National made a $3 million dollar investment in National by purchasing an aggregate of (i) a 10% senior subordinate convertible promissory note in the principal amount of $3 million, which is convertible into common stock at a price of $2.00 per share and (ii) a warrant to purchase 375,000 shares of common stock at an exercise price of $2.50 per share (subject to adjustment). The investment was made by St. Cloud Capital Partners II, L.P. (St. Cloud II), whose managing partner is Marshall S. Geller, who became a member of National's board of directors simultaneous with the closing of the January 2006 transaction described above. National and St. Cloud II entered into a registration rights agreement, wherein National has agreed to file a registration statement for the shares of common stock issuable upon conversion of the note and exercise of the warrant within ninety (90) days of the effective date of the Merger and to cause the registration statement to be declared effective within one hundred eighty (180) days of the effective date of the Merger. Should National fail to either file the registration statement or have it declared effective within such time limits then as liquidated damages the interest rate of the note shall increase 1% per annum for each month the applicable failure is not cured, up to a maximum of 15%.

Other Financing Events

In March 2005, NFS acquired the clearing business of Fiserv. In April 2005, National Securities entered into a clearing agreement with NFS that became effective in June 2005. As part of this transaction, NFS provided National Securities with a $1.0 million conversion fee credit to reimburse National for the transitional, incremental costs incurred by National Securities relating to the conversion of its clearing business to NFS. National Securities was paid $250,000 in May 2005, and the remaining $750,000 was paid in July 2005.

In the first quarter of fiscal year 2007, NFS paid National Securities a $750,000 business credit that is being amortized over an eight year period ending November 2014, corresponding with the expiration date of the clearing agreement. In the second quarter of fiscal year 2007, NFS provided National Securities a $250,000 clearing fee waiver that is being amortized over a two year period ending December 2008, corresponding with the time period that certain performance standards were to be achieved. The clearing agreement includes a termination fee if National Securities terminates the agreement without cause that is initially $2.0 million and reduces to $125,000 over the eight-year term of the agreement. Additionally, in June 2005 National Securities entered into a clearing agreement with Penson for the purpose of providing clearing services that are not provided by NFS. National believes that the overall effect of its clearing relationships has been beneficial to its cost structure, liquidity and capital resources.

As of September 30, 2007, advances to registered representatives increased $2,454,000 to $4,010,000 from $1,556,000 as of September 30, 2006. This increase is attributable to advances made to registered representatives who became affiliated with National Securities during fiscal year 2007 and advances to registered representatives already affiliated with National Securities who agreed to renew their affiliation, offset in part by the amortization of advances in fiscal year 2007 and prior years.

In fiscal year 2007 and 2006, National received proceeds of approximately $1,326,000 and $0, respectively, from the exercise of outstanding employee stock options and warrants.

National has historically satisfied its capital needs with cash generated from operations or from financing activities. It believes that it will have sufficient funds to maintain its current level of business activities during fiscal year 2008. If market conditions should weaken, National would need to consider curtailing certain of its business activities, reducing its fixed overhead costs and/or seek additional sources of financing.

The following table shows National's contractual obligations as of September 30, 2007:

Inflation

National believes that the effect of inflation on its assets, consisting of cash, securities, office equipment, leasehold improvements and computers has not been significant.

Recently Issued Accounting Standards

In February 2007, the FASB issued SFAS No. 159, The Fair Value Option for Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities (SFAS 159). SFAS 159 provides companies with an option to report selected financial assets and liabilities at fair value. The objective of SFAS 159 is to reduce both complexity in accounting for financial instruments and the volatility in earnings caused by measuring related assets and liabilities differently. Generally accepted accounting principles have required different measurement attributes for different assets and liabilities that can create artificial volatility in earnings. The FASB has indicated it believes that

SFAS 159 helps to mitigate this type of accounting-induced volatility by enabling companies to report related assets and liabilities at fair value, which would likely reduce the need for companies to comply with detailed rules for hedge accounting. SFAS 159 also establishes presentation and disclosure requirements designed to facilitate comparisons between companies that choose different measurement attributes for similar types of assets and liabilities.

SFAS 159 does not eliminate disclosure requirements included in other accounting standards, including requirements for disclosures about fair value measurements included in SFAS 157 and SFAS No. 107, Disclosures about Fair Value of Financial Instruments. SFAS 159 is effective for National as of the beginning of fiscal year 2009. The adoption of this pronouncement is not expected to have an impact on its consolidated financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

In December 2006, the FASB approved FASB Staff Position (FSP) No. EITF 00-19-2, Accounting for Registration Payment Arrangements (FSP EITF 00-19-2), which specifies that the contingent obligation to make future payments or otherwise transfer consideration under a registration payment arrangement, whether issued as a separate agreement or included as a provision of a financial instrument or other agreement, should be separately recognized and measured in accordance with SFAS No. 5, Accounting for Contingencies. FSP EITF 00-19-2 also requires additional disclosure regarding the nature of any registration payment arrangements, alternative settlement methods, the maximum potential amount of consideration and the current carrying amount of the liability, if any. The guidance in FSP EITF 00-19-2 amends FASB Statements No. 133, Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities, and No. 150, Accounting for Certain Financial Instruments with Characteristics of both Liabilities and Equity, and FASB Interpretation No. 45, Guarantor's Accounting and Disclosure Requirements for Guarantees, Including Indirect Guarantees of Indebtedness of Others, to include scope exceptions for registration payment arrangements.

FSP EITF 00-19-2 is effective immediately for registration payment arrangements and the financial instruments subject to those arrangements that are entered into or modified subsequent to the issuance date of this FSP, or for financial statements issued for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2006, and interim periods within those fiscal years, for registration payment arrangements entered into prior to the issuance date of this FSP. The adoption of this pronouncement is not expected to have an impact on National's consolidated financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk

National's primary market risk arises from the fact that it engages in proprietary trading and makes dealer markets in equity securities. Accordingly, it may be required to maintain certain amounts of inventories in order to facilitate customer order flow. National may incur losses as a result of price movements in these inventories due to changes in interest rates, foreign exchange rates, equity prices and other political factors. National is not subject to direct market risk due to changes in foreign exchange rates. However, it is subject to market risk as a result of changes in interest rates and equity prices, which are affected by global economic conditions. National manages its exposure to market risk by limiting its net long or short positions. Trading and inventory accounts are monitored daily by management and it has instituted position limits.

Credit risk represents the amount of accounting loss National could incur if counterparties to its proprietary transactions fail to perform and the value of any collateral proves inadequate. Although credit risk relating to various financing activities is reduced by the industry practice of obtaining and maintaining collateral, National maintains more stringent requirements to further reduce its exposure. It monitors its exposure to counterparty risk on a daily basis by using credit exposure information and monitoring collateral values. National maintains a credit committee, which reviews margin requirements for large or concentrated accounts and sets higher requirements or requires a reduction of either the level of margin debt or investment in high-risk securities or, in some cases, requiring the transfer of the account to another broker-dealer.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

National monitors its market and credit risks daily through internal control procedures designed to identify and evaluate the various risks to which it is exposed. There can be no assurance, however, that its risk management procedures and internal controls will prevent losses from occurring as a result of such risks. The following table shows the market values of the National's securities owned and securities sold, but not yet purchased as of December 31, 2007:

Description of National Capital Stock

As of the date of this joint proxy statement/prospectus, National is authorized to issue 30,000,000 shares of common stock, par value $0.02 per share, and 200,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $0.01 per share. Fifty thousand shares of preferred stock have been designated as Series A Convertible preferred stock and 20,000 shares have been designated as Series B Convertible preferred stock.

As of the date of this joint proxy statement/prospectus, National had 8,622,628 shares of common stock issued and outstanding and had reserved an additional (i) 1,075,000 shares of common stock for issuance upon exercise of outstanding warrants, (ii) 3,004,000 shares of common stock for issuance upon conversion of its Series A preferred stock, (iii) 1,500,000 shares of common stock for issuance upon conversion of a 10% convertible note, (iv) 2,092,000 shares of common stock underlying outstanding options and 275,000 shares of common stock underlying options available for issuance under its 2006 stock option plan, (v) 5,000,000 shares of common stock underlying outstanding options available for issuance under its 2008 stock option plan, and (vi) 50,000 shares underlying restricted stock grants.

Common Stock

Subject to the rights of the holders of any shares of preferred stock which may be issued in the future, holders of shares of National common stock are entitled to cast one vote for each share held at all stockholders' meetings for all purposes, including the election of directors. National's board of directors is divided into three classes with the members of one class (one-third of the members) elected each year at National's annual meeting of stockholders to serve for a period of three years and until their respective successors have been duly elected and qualified. This provision may make National a less attractive takeover target.

Common stockholders have the right to share ratably in such dividends on shares of common stock as may be declared by National's board of directors out of funds legally available therefore. Upon liquidation or dissolution, each outstanding share of common stock will be entitled to share equally in the assets of National legally available for distribution to stockholders after the payment of all debts and other liabilities, subject to any superior rights of any future holders of preferred stock.

Common stockholders have no pre-emptive rights. There are no conversion or redemption privileges or sinking fund provisions with respect to the common stock. All of the outstanding shares of common stock are validly issued, fully paid and nonassessable. The common stock does not have cumulative voting rights, so holders of more than 50% of the outstanding common stock can elect 100% of the directors of National if they choose to do so.

Preferred Stock

National's board of directors is authorized to issue 200,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $.01 per share, from time to time in one or more series. National's board of directors may issue a series of preferred stock having the right to vote on any matter submitted to stockholders, including, without limitation, the right to vote by itself as a series, or as a class together with any other or all series of preferred stock. The National's board of directors may determine that the holders of preferred stock voting as a class will have the right to elect one or more additional members of the board of directors, or the majority of the members of its board of directors.

115

Series A Preferred Stock

National has designated an aggregate of 50,000 shares of preferred stock as Series A convertible preferred stock. There are currently outstanding 37,550 shares of Series A preferred stock. The terms of the Series A preferred stock are as follows:

Voting. The holder of each share of Series A preferred stock is entitled to the number of votes equal to the number of shares of National common shares into which such share of Series A convertible preferred stock could be converted at the record date for determination on of the stockholders entitled to vote on such matters or, if no such record date is established, at the date such vote is taken or any written consent of stockholders is solicited, such votes to be counted together with all other shares of stock of National having general voting power and not counted separately as a class.

Ranking. The Series A preferred stock rank (i) prior to National's common shares; (ii) prior to any class or series of capital stock of National created after March 16, 2004, (collectively, with National's common shares, Junior Securities); (iii) pari passu with any class or series of capital stock of National created after March 16, 2004, specifically ranking, by its terms, on parity with the Series A preferred stock (Pari Passu Securities); and (iv) junior to any class or series of capital stock of National created after March 16, 2004, specifically ranking, by its terms, senior to the Series A preferred stock (Senior Securities), in each case as to distribution of assets upon liquidation, dissolution or winding up of National, whether voluntary or involuntary.

Dividends. Holders of National Series A preferred stock are entitled to receive dividends on a quarterly basis at a rate of 9% per annum, per share (the Premium Amount), payable out of any assets or funds legally available therefor. Such dividends are cumulative and accrue whether or not declared by National's board of directors, but are payable only when, as and if declared by National's board of directors. The amount of accumulated dividends on National's 37,550 issued and outstanding shares of preferred stock is $255,000 as of December 31, 2007. Accrued but unpaid dividends will be paid upon conversion of the Series A preferred stock.

So long as any Series A preferred stock shall remain outstanding, no dividend whatsoever will be declared or paid upon, or any distribution will be made upon, any Junior Securities, nor shall any shares of Junior Securities be purchased or redeemed by National nor shall any moneys be paid to or made available for a sinking fund for the purchase or redemption of any Junior Securities (other than a distribution of Junior Securities), without, in each such case, the written consent of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Series A preferred stock, voting together as a class.

Liquidation Preference. In the event of any liquidation, dissolution or winding up of National, either voluntary or involuntary, distributions to the stockholders of National will be made in the following manner:

- The holders of the Series A preferred stock shall be entitled to receive, prior and in preference to any distribution of any of the assets or surplus funds of National to the holders of the common shares by reason of their ownership of such stock, an amount equal to $100 (the Initial Series A Preferred Stock Price) for each share of Series A preferred stock then held by them and, in addition, an amount equal to all cumulated and unpaid dividends on the
- (a) Series A preferred stock. If upon the occurrence of liquidation, dissolution or winding up of National the assets and funds thus distributed among the holders of the Series A preferred stock will be insufficient to permit the payment to such holders of the full preferential amount, then the entire assets and funds of National legally available for distribution shall be distributed ratably among the holders of the Series A preferred stock in proportion to the preferential amount each such holder is otherwise entitled to receive.
 - (b) After setting apart or paying in full the preferential amounts due for dividends, the remaining assets of National available for distribution to stockholders, if any, will be distributed to the holders of the

Series A preferred stock and common shares on a pro rata basis, based on the number of shares of common shares then held by each holder on an as-converted basis.

A consolidation or merger of National with or into any other corporation or corporations, or a sale, conveyance or disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of National, the effectuation by National of a transaction or series (c) of related transactions in which more than 50% of the voting power of National is disposed of; or an underwritten public offering pursuant to an effective registration statement under the Securities Act, of shares of common shares of National (each, a Liquidity Event), shall be deemed to be a liquidation, dissolution or winding up.

National may at any time, out of funds legally available therefor, repurchase shares of National common shares issued to or held by employees, officers or consultants of National or its subsidiaries upon termination of their (d) employment or services, pursuant to any agreement providing for such right of repurchase, whether or not dividends on the Series A preferred stock will have been declared and funds set aside therefor and such repurchases will not be subject to the liquidation preferences of the Series A preferred stock.

In the event National proposes to distribute assets other than cash in connection with any liquidation, dissolution or (e) winding up of National, the value of the assets to be distributed to the holder of shares of Series A preferred stock and common shares shall be determined in good faith by National's board of directors. Any securities not subject to investment letter or similar restrictions on free marketability shall be valued as follows:

- (i) If traded on a securities exchange, the value will be deemed to be the average of the security's closing prices on such exchange over the thirty (30) day period ending one (1) day prior to the distribution;
- (ii) If actively traded over-the-counter, the value shall be deemed to be the average of the closing bid prices over the thirty (30) day period ending three (3) days prior to the distribution; and
- (iii) If there is no active public market, the value will be the fair market value thereof as determined in good faith by the National board.

The method of valuation of securities subject to investment letter or other restrictions on free marketability shall be adjusted to make an appropriate discount from the market value determined as above in clauses (i), (ii) or (iii) to reflect the fair market value thereof as determined in good faith by National's board of directors. The holders of at least a majority of the outstanding Series A preferred stock will have the right to challenge any determination by National's board of directors of fair market value, in which case the determination of fair market value shall be made by an independent appraiser selected jointly by National's board of directors and the challenging parties, the cost of such appraisal to be borne equally by National and the challenging parties.

Conversion Rights. Each share of Series A preferred stock is convertible, at the option of the holder thereof, at any time after the date of issuance of such share at the office of National or any transfer agent for the Series A preferred stock, into such number of fully paid and nonassessable shares of National common shares as is determined in the case of the Series A preferred stock by dividing Initial Series A Preferred Stock Price by the Series A Conversion Price, in effect at the time of the conversion. The price at which shares of National common shares will be deliverable upon conversion of the Series A preferred stock (the Series A Conversion Price) is $1.25 per share of common stock.

Redemption Or Conversion At Maturity. So long as all of the shares of National common shares issuable upon conversion of all outstanding shares of Series A preferred stock are then authorized and reserved for issuance, each share of Series A preferred stock issued and outstanding on December 28, 2011 (the Maturity Date), will be either (i) redeemed in cash by National for the Liquidation Preference (the Redemption Price) or (ii) at the option of National, automatically converted into shares of National common shares on such date at a conversion price equal to the Series A Conversion Price then in effect one business day prior to the Maturity Date (the Automatic Conversion). From and after the Maturity Date, unless there will have been a default in the payment of the Redemption Price or the Automatic Conversion, all rights of the holders of shares of Series A preferred stock (except the right to receive the Redemption Price or shares of common stock pursuant to the Automatic Conversion) will cease with respect to such shares, and such shares shall not thereafter be transferred on the books of National or be deemed to be outstanding for any purpose whatsoever.

Protective Provisions. So long as any shares of Series A preferred stock are outstanding, National will not, without first obtaining the approval of the holders of at least a majority of the then-outstanding shares of Series A preferred stock, take any action that:

- (a) alters the rights, preferences or privileges of the Series A preferred stock;
- (b) creates any new class or series of shares that has a preference over or is on a parity with the Series A preferred stock with respect to voting rights, dividends or liquidation preferences; or
- (c) reclassifies stock into shares having a preference over or on a parity with the Series A preferred stock with respect to voting, dividends or liquidation preferences.

Series B Preferred Stock

National has designated 50,000 shares of preferred stock as Series B redeemable convertible preferred stock. In the fourth quarter of fiscal year 2007, National exercised the conversion option contained in its Series B preferred stock and converted all 10,000 issued and outstanding shares of Series B preferred stock into an aggregate of 1,333,333 shares of common stock and is no longer obligated to pay dividends on its Series B preferred stock. No shares of Series B preferred stock are currently issued and outstanding.

Common Stock Purchase Warrants

At May 2, 2008, there were outstanding warrants exercisable to purchase 1,075,000 shares of common stock, as follows:

Warrants to purchase 150,000 shares of common stock at a price of $1.25 per share, which will expire on July 31, 2009.

Warrants to purchase 300,000 shares at an exercise price of $1.00 per share, which will expire on January 11, 2011.

Warrants to purchase 250,000 shares at an exercise price of $1.40 per share, which will expire on February 22, 2012.

Warrants to purchase 375,000 shares at an exercise price of $2.50 per share, which will expire on March 31, 2013.

Shares Eligible For Future Sales

Sales of substantial amounts of National's common stock in the public market, or the perception that such sales may occur, could adversely affect the prevailing market price and impair its ability to raise capital in the future.

As of May 2, 2008, 8,622,628 shares of National common stock were issued and outstanding, virtually all of which are freely tradable without restriction or further registration under the Securities Act, or may be eligible for immediate sale pursuant to Rule 144 under the Securities Act.

Other shares of common stock, which are not outstanding, may be issued and become available for resale. As of the date of this prospectus, an aggregate of 3,004,000 shares of common stock are issuable upon conversion of outstanding shares of Series A preferred stock and 1,075,000 shares are issuable upon the exercise of outstanding warrants. In addition, we have granted as of May 2, 2008, options to purchase an aggregate of 2,092,000 shares of common stock under National's Stock Option Plans.

In general, under Rule 144 as recently amended, a person who has beneficially owned restricted securities of an issuer which files Exchange Act reports, such as National, for at least six months would be entitled to sell all his shares of restricted stock without limitation as long as National is current in making its Exchange Act filings. The sale of restricted securities held more than a year by non-affiliates will no longer require current information about National.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Affiliates of National who wish to sell restricted securities will now be able to make such sales after holding such shares for six months but shall continue to be subject to the volume and manner-of-sale requirements, notice requirements and the availability of current public information about National.

Anti-Takeover Provisions

Certain provisions of National's certificate of incorporation and Delaware law may have the effect of delaying, deferring or discouraging another person from acquiring control of National.

Charter and Bylaw Provisions

National's certificate of incorporation, as amended, allows its board of directors to issue 200,000 shares of preferred stock, in one or more series and with such rights and preferences including voting rights, without further stockholder approval. In the event that the board of directors designates additional series of preferred stock with rights and preferences, including super-majority voting rights, and issues such preferred stock, the preferred stock could make National's acquisition by means of a tender offer, a proxy contest or otherwise, more difficult, and could also make the removal of incumbent officers and directors more difficult. As a result, these provisions may have an anti-takeover effect. The preferred stock authorized in National's certificate of incorporation, as amended, may inhibit changes of control that are not approved by National's board of directors. These provisions could limit the price that future investors might be willing to pay in the future for National's common stock. This could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change in control. The issuance of preferred stock could also effectively limit or dilute the voting power of National's stockholders. Accordingly, such provisions of National's certificate of incorporation, as amended, may discourage or prevent an acquisition or disposition of the company's business that could otherwise be in the best interest of the company's stockholders.

Delaware Law

In addition, Delaware has enacted the following legislation that may deter or frustrate takeovers of Delaware corporations, such as National:

Section 203 of the Delaware General Corporation Law. Section 203 provides, with some exceptions, that a Delaware corporation may not engage in any of a broad range of business combinations with a person or affiliate, or associate of the person, who is an interested stockholder for a period of three years from the date that the person became an interested stockholder unless: (i) the transaction resulting in a person becoming an interested stockholder, or the business combination, is approved by the board of directors of the corporation before the person becomes an interested stockholder; (ii) the interested stockholder acquires 85% or more of the outstanding voting stock of the corporation in the same transaction that makes it an interested stockholder, excluding shares owned by persons who are both officers and directors of the corporation, and shares held by some employee stock ownership plans; or (iii) on or after the date the person becomes an interested stockholder, the business combination is approved by the corporation's board of directors and by the holders of at least 66 2/3% of the corporation's outstanding voting stock at an annual or special meeting, excluding shares owned by the interested stockholder. An interested stockholder is defined as any person that is (a) the owner of 15% or more of the outstanding voting stock of the corporation or (b) an affiliate or associate of the corporation and was the owner of 15% or more of the outstanding voting stock of the corporation at any time within the three-year period immediately prior to the date on which it is sought to be determined whether the person is an interested stockholder.

Authorized But Unissued Stock. The authorized but unissued shares of National's common stock are available for future issuance without stockholder approval. These additional shares may be used for a variety of corporate purposes, including future public offering to raise additional capital, corporate acquisitions and employee benefit plans. The existence of authorized but unissued shares of common stock may enable National's board of directors to issue shares of stock to persons friendly to existing management.

Transfer Agent and Registrar

The transfer agent and registrar for National common stock is Computershare Transfer Company, Inc.

Restatement of Financial Statements

As discussed in Note 1 to vFinance's consolidated financial statements included in this joint proxy statement/prospectus, on December 11, 2007, vFinance restated certain amounts in its 2006, 2005, 2004 and 2003 consolidated financial statements as a result of comments it received from the staff of the SEC.

vFinance s History

vFinance was incorporated in the state of Delaware in February 1992. On November 8, 1999, vFinance acquired vFinance Holdings, Inc., a Florida corporation, and Union Atlantic LC, a Florida limited liability company, through a Share Exchange Agreement. vFinance received all the outstanding capital stock of vFinance Holdings, Inc. and all the outstanding membership interests of Union Atlantic LC in exchange for a total of approximately 7.0 million shares of vFinance s common stock.

On January 4, 2001, vFinance closed the merger of NW Holdings, Inc. (NWH), a Florida corporation, into vFinance where vFinance was the surviving corporation. On the closing date of the merger, NWH was the parent company of and wholly owned First Level Capital, Inc., a Florida corporation. First Level Capital, Inc. is now known as vFinance Investments, which has offices in New York, New Jersey and Florida. In addition to these offices, vFinance has relationships with certain independent contractors located throughout the United States.

Also, on January 4, 2001, vFinance completed the merger of Colonial Direct Financial Group, Inc., a Delaware corporation, with and into Colonial Acquisition Corp., vFinance s wholly owned subsidiary, with Colonial Direct Financial Group, Inc. as the surviving corporation and as vFinance s wholly owned subsidiary. At the time of the merger, Colonial Direct Financial Group, Inc. was a holding company comprised of two diversified financial services companies, including First Colonial Securities Group, Inc. and Colonial Direct Retirement Services, Inc., and a company that provides administrative support to these financial service companies, Colonial Direct Capital Management, Inc. Although Colonial Direct Financial Group, Inc. is no longer one of vFinance s subsidiaries, the majority of the personnel, client accounts and client assets of First Colonial Securities Group, Inc. still remain with vFinance Investments.

On November 2, 2004, vFinance s wholly owned subsidiary, vFinance Investments Holdings, Inc. completed the Global Acquisition. The assets acquired in the Global Acquisition consisted primarily of customer accounts and some older computer equipment. Business lines acquired included wholesale market-making in selected equities for institutional clients and direct market access equity trading. vFinance Investments Holdings, Inc. assumed no liabilities in connection with the acquisition of Global s assets. Two of the principals of Global and EquityStation each entered into employment agreements with vFinance, which provided an annual base salary of $144,000, certain incentive bonuses, and options to purchase 350,000 shares of vFinance s common stock exercisable at $0.19 per share. One of the principals was employed by vFinance until October 31, 2007 and the other principal was employed by vFinance until January 15, 2008.

EquityStation is a broker-dealer registered with the SEC and is a member of FINRA. EquityStation is a Florida corporation incorporated on July 22, 1999. EquityStation offers institutional traders, hedge funds and professional traders a suite of services designed to advance their trading through advanced trading technologies and routing software, hedge fund incubation, capital introduction and custodial services.

In May 2006, vFinance Investments completed the acquisition of certain assets of Sterling Financial. The assets acquired from Sterling Financial include Sterling Financial s business as a going concern, certain intellectual property, customer relationships associated with Sterling Financial s Institutional Fixed Income and Latin American businesses, computer equipment and certain real property leases. In exchange for the assets, vFinance issued 13 million shares of vFinance common stock to SFGC. The aggregate purchase price was determined to be $3.4 million. This transaction was approved by FINRA on April 28, 2006. The Sterling Financial acquisition resulted in the addition of institutional

vFinance expects that the institutional investor customer relationships acquired from Sterling Financial will result in approximately $7.0 million of incremental annual revenues and a marginal impact on net income, as the increased revenues and cost savings are expected to be offset by operating expenses and $680,000 of annual non-cash amortization expense.

In connection with this acquisition, vFinance established new divisions to focus on the rapidly-growing U.S. Hispanic and Latin American investment markets and to provide investment advisory services relating to fixed income products and execution of fixed income investment transactions as well as investment banking advisory services for private and public Hispanic businesses.

Industry Overview

increased levels of industry consolidation, particularly involving smaller regional investment banks that primarily provide investment banking and brokerage services to middle-market companies and their institutional investors; the tendency for global competitors and acquired firms, once part of larger organizations, to focus on larger market capitalization companies and larger transactions; and the emergence of smaller boutique investment banking firms focused exclusively on growth industries, particularly technology and healthcare.

In recent years, there have been a number of acquisitions by larger financial services institutions of U.S. brokerage and investment banking firms that offer similar products and services to those that vFinance provides. These larger financial institutions have generally allocated capital and resources toward larger market capitalization companies and transactions. This shift of focus away from smaller market capitalization companies has led to a decline in service to these companies, including investment banking and research coverage, and, as a result, such companies have reduced access to capital.

Additionally, because the United States securities industry has also been subjected to increased regulation and governmental scrutiny, including certain mandated changes, many larger firms have restructured their businesses and market-making activities away from companies whose market capitalization is below certain thresholds. Research and capital markets resources previously dedicated to smaller market capitalization companies were either reassigned to larger companies or eliminated. These circumstances have contributed to both companies in, and investors focused on, the growth and middle-market sectors seeking the services of boutique investment banking professionals who have a high degree of applicable industry knowledge. This increase in regulation also has made it more expensive for smaller firms to remain in business thus accelerating the consolidation of these firms.

To facilitate access to capital markets and to industry and company specific research, smaller boutique financial services firms have emerged to offer investment banking and research support to small and middle-market capitalization companies.

Financial Arrangements with Clearing Brokers

In 2004, vFinance Investments entered into a clearing agreement (the Clearing Agreement) with National Financial Services LLC, Member New York Stock Exchange (NYSE)/SIPC, a Fidelity Investments company (NFS), for NFS to serve as vFinance Investments' primary clearing broker. The Clearing Agreement requires NFS to pay a monthly incentive bonus to vFinance Investments up to $25,000 per month (up to an aggregate of $1.5 million) over the five-year term of the Clearing Agreement. vFinance Investments also received a $200,000 payment from NFS in 2004, as compensation for the transition costs associated with migrating to a new clearing firm. As consideration for these incentives, NFS required a termination fee of $1.7 million in the event vFinance Investments terminates the Clearing Agreement, reduced annually on a pro rata basis over the five-year term of the Clearing Agreement. As of December 31, 2007, vFinance Investments' contingent obligation in connection with the Clearing Agreement was $680,000.

EquityStation and vFinance Investments have ancillary clearing agreements with Fortis Clearing, Legent Clearing and Penson Clearing, providing services in the areas NFS is not suited to handle. These clearing agreements contain customary terms and conditions.

vFinance Investments Business

Retail Brokerage

The largest portion of vFinance Investments' revenues, 63%, 62% and 72% in 2007, 2006 and 2005, respectively, was attributable to commissions and other brokerage-related income generated by vFinance Investments' retail brokerage activities.

vFinance Investments' retail brokerage division buys and sells securities for its customers in exchange for a commission, or in exchange for a fee, based on customer assets or as dictated by security placement agreements. Through vFinance Investments' brokers, it offers a wide variety of financial investments, including, but not limited to, equities, corporate bonds, municipal securities, collateralized mortgage obligations, mutual funds and insurance products. vFinance Investments is licensed in all 50 states, plus the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, and its registered representatives are registered in those states where their customers reside. In addition, vFinance Investments has registered representatives operating in Panama, Chile and Colombia. vFinance Investments' relationship with its registered representatives can be either as an employee, or in an independent contractor, depending on how the broker chooses to conduct his or her business. As an employee, all of the expenses of the broker's operation are paid for by the company, and the broker is only charged for certain fees such as special information services, insurance, benefits and professional services. As an independent contractor, in exchange for a higher overall payout, the broker would be responsible for all of the fees and costs associated with its business, including, but not limited to, rent, telecommunications expenses, insurance, benefits, transactions fees, all information services, state and regulatory registration fees and compliance oversight.

Market Making

vFinance Investments provides liquidity by making markets in over 3,500 Over-the-Counter Bulletin Board (OTC Bulletin Board), National Market System, Pink Sheet, and NASDAQ Capital Market stocks and American Depositary Receipts in addition to providing this liquidity to its other business units. vFinance Investments' customers are national and regional full-service broker-dealers, electronic discount brokers and institutional investors that require fast and efficient executions for each security. This expertise supports vFinance Investments' investment banking strategy of servicing high growth public companies that are looking for a financial services firm that is capable of assisting them in building broad-based market support for their securities. As a market-maker, vFinance uses its capital and systems resources to represent a stock and compete with other market-makers. Operated primarily by electronic execution, buyers and sellers meet via computer to make bids and offers. Each market-maker competes for customer order flow by displaying buy and sell quotations for a guaranteed number of shares in a security. Once an order is received, the market-maker will immediately purchase for or sell from its own inventory, or seek the other side of the trade until it is executed, often in a matter of seconds. The market maker generates all of its revenue from the difference between the price paid when a security is bought and price received when that security is sold or the price received when the security is shorted and the price received when the short is covered.

vFinance derived 11%, 12% and 8% of its revenues from its Investment Banking Division (IBD) activities in 2007, 2006 and 2005, respectively. vFinance assists emerging growth, private and public companies by (i) developing sound strategic plans, (ii) obtaining equity, mezzanine, bridge, or acquisition capital, (iii) executing strategically sound acquisitions or divestiture strategies, (iv) raising capital in the public markets, and (v) maximizing stockholder value by conducting recapitalizations or other liquidity transactions. As consideration for such services, vFinance is paid advisory fees and success fees, which are based on a percentage of the total value of a transaction, which are contingent on the successful completion of a specified transaction. As part of vFinance s success fees, it periodically receives equity instruments and stock purchase warrants from companies for which it perform services in addition to cash paid for such services.

In the area of corporate finance, vFinance Investments has been active as an underwriter or selling group member in public equity transactions. Participation as a managing underwriter or in an underwriting syndicate involves both economic and regulatory risks. An underwriter may incur losses if it is unable to resell the securities it is committed to purchase. In addition, under the federal securities laws, other laws and court decisions with respect to underwriters liabilities and limitations on the indemnification of underwriters by issuers, an underwriter is subject to substantial potential liability for misstatements or omissions of material facts in prospectuses and other communications with respect to such offerings. Acting as a managing underwriter increases these risks. Underwriting commitments constitute a charge against net capital and vFinance s subsidiaries ability to make underwriting commitments may be limited by the requirement that they must at all times be in compliance with regulations regarding their net capital.

Institutional Services

A critical element of vFinance s business strategy is to identify institutional quality investments that offer above market returns. vFinance supports that mission by providing institutional investment managers, primarily hedge fund managers, a complete array of services designed to enhance portfolio performance. Hedge funds represent the fastest growing segment of the money management market and by definition are focused on achieving positive returns for their investors while controlling risk. vFinance offers fund managers access to advanced direct market access trading platforms, investment opportunities and independent research products that boost return on investment. Additionally, vFinance offers fund managers the ability to reduce their transaction costs by offering them access to vFinance s trading desk for illiquid securities and automated trading systems for their liquid transactions. vFinance has a mutually beneficial relationship with its IBD as fund managers looking for investment opportunities fund IBD s corporate clients and having relationships with fund managers creates opportunities to increase the number and quality of IBD clients.

As of March 31, 2008, vFinance employed or had contractual relationships with approximately 22 people providing institutional services, approximately 10 of which provide hedge fund related services. vFinance currently services approximately 195 institutional customers, of which approximately 85 are hedge funds. For the year ended December 31, 2007, hedge fund related services accounted for approximately $5 million in revenue.

tools, searchable databases and daily news. The website has over 60,000 opted in subscribers that receive a newsletter on private funding several times a week. The website features vFinance's database of venture capital firms and angel investors accessible with vSearch, a proprietary web-based data mining tool that allows entrepreneurs to search potential funding sources by different criteria, including geography, amount of funds required, industry, stage of corporate development or keyword. Much of the information on the website is provided free of charge, however, vFinance charges nominal fees for the use of proprietary search engines and premium services such as its business planning services.

Administration, Operations, Securities Transactions Processing and Customer Accounts

vFinance's operating subsidiaries, vFinance Investments and EquityStation, do not hold any funds or securities for customers. Instead, they use the services of clearing agents on a fully-disclosed basis. These clearing agents process all securities transactions and maintain customer accounts on a fee basis. Customer accounts are protected through the SIPC for up to $500,000, of which coverage for cash balances is limited to $100,000. In addition, all customer accounts of vFinance Investments and EquityStation carried at NFS are fully-protected by an Excess Securities Bond providing protection for the account's entire net equity (both cash and securities). The services of vFinance's subsidiaries' clearing agents include billing and credit control as well as receipt, custody and delivery of securities. The clearing agents provide the operational support necessary to process, record and maintain securities transactions for vFinance's subsidiary's brokerage activities. They provide these services to vFinance's subsidiary's customers at a total cost that vFinance believes is less than it would cost vFinance to process such transactions on its own. The clearing agents also lend funds to vFinance's subsidiary's customers through the use of margin credit. These loans are made to customers on a secured basis, with the clearing agents maintaining collateral in the form of saleable securities, cash or cash equivalents. vFinance Investments and EquityStation have agreed to indemnify the clearing brokers for losses they incur on these credit arrangements.

Competition

All aspects of vFinance's business are highly competitive. In vFinance's investment banking activities, it competes with large Wall Street investment banks as well as regional boutique banks that offer private placement services to small- and middle-market companies. vFinance competes for these investment banking transactions on the basis of vFinance's relationships with the issuers and potential investors, vFinance's experience in the industry and transactional fees. In vFinance's general brokerage activities, it competes directly with numerous other broker-dealers, many of which are large well-known firms with substantially greater financial and personnel resources. vFinance competes for brokerage transactions on the basis of its experience in the industry, its ability to execute transactions and the strength of its relationships with its clients. Many of vFinance's competitors for brokerage service and investment banking transactions employ extensive advertising and actively solicit potential clients in order to increase business. In addition, brokerage firms compete by furnishing investment research publications to existing clients, the quality and breadth of which are considered important in the development of new business and the retention of existing clients. vFinance also competes with a number of smaller regional brokerage firms throughout the United States. In vFinance's advisory activities, it competes with investment banking and consulting firms on the basis of expertise in its broad variety of industries.

The securities industry has become considerably more concentrated and more competitive since vFinance was founded, as numerous securities firms have either ceased operations or have been acquired by or merged into other firms. In addition, companies not engaged primarily in the securities business, but with substantial financial resources, have acquired leading securities firms. These developments have increased competition from firms with greater capital resources than vFinance.

Since the adoption of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999, commercial banks and thrift institutions have been able to engage in traditional brokerage and investment banking services, thus increasing competition in the securities industry and potentially increasing the rate of consolidation in the securities industry.

vFinance also competes with other securities firms for successful sales representatives, securities traders and investment bankers. Competition for qualified employees in the financial services industry is intense. vFinance's continued ability to compete effectively depends on its ability to attract new employees and to retain and motivate its existing employees.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Effective September 27, 2006, vFinance Investments assumed a lease for property located in Boca Raton in connection with the acquisition of assets from Sterling Financial. The lease is for approximately 16,250 square feet with an estimated annual rent of $542,100 and expires on August 21, 2014. On September 27, 2006, vFinance entered into a sublease with regard to approximately 14,000 square feet of this property with estimated annual rent of $486,400. Since September 2004, the balance of this space has been subleased on a month-to-month basis for an estimated annual rent of $71,200. In February 2008, vFinance received notification from the sublessee that occupies 14,000 square feet of this property that it was insolvent and would be unable to perform its obligations under the sublease. See Note 17 to vFinance's consolidated financial statements for additional information.

vFinance considers its facilities and those of its subsidiaries to be reasonably insured and adequate for its foreseeable needs and those of its subsidiaries.

Legal Proceedings

From time to time, vFinance, Inc. and/or one of its subsidiaries is named as a party to a lawsuit that has arisen in the ordinary course of business. Although it is possible that losses exceeding amounts already recorded may be incurred upon ultimate resolution of these existing legal proceedings, vFinance believes that such losses, if any, will not have a material adverse effect on its business, results of operations or financial position; however, unfavorable resolution of each matter individually or in the aggregate could affect the consolidated results of operations for the quarterly and annual periods in which they are resolved.

The business of vFinance Investments and EquityStation involve substantial risks of liability, including exposure to liability under federal and state securities laws in connection with the underwriting or distribution of securities. Additionally, claims by dissatisfied customers for fraud, unauthorized trading, churning, mismanagement and breach of fiduciary duty. In recent years, there has been an increasing incidence of litigation involving the securities industry, including class actions that generally seek rescission and substantial damages.

In the ordinary course of business, vFinance and/or its subsidiaries may be parties to other legal proceedings and regulatory inquiries, the outcome of which, either singularly or in the aggregate, is not expected to be material. There can be no assurance however that any sanctions will not have a material adverse effect on vFinance's financial condition or results of operations and/or its subsidiaries. The following is a brief summary of certain matters pending against or involving vFinance and its subsidiaries.

In November 2007, Nupetco Associates, LLC filed a customer arbitration action (FINRA Case No. 07-03152) with FINRA naming vFinance Investments as a co-respondent. Nupetco Associates, LLC alleges violations of various state and federal securities laws. Nupetco Associates, LLC seeks compensatory damages of $508,787 against vFinance Investments in addition to costs, attorney's fees and punitive damages. vFinance Investments has filed an answer and affirmative defenses and has requested discovery from the arbitration claimant. vFinance Investments intends to vigorously defend the arbitration.

On January 3, 2008, the SEC issued an Order Instituting Administrative Proceedings against vFinance Investments, Richard Campanella and a registered representative of vFinance Investments, alleging that they violated federal securities laws by failing to preserve and produce customer correspondence of the registered representative. The registered representative terminated his employment with vFinance on August 4, 2006, and has not been associated with vFinance since that date. vFinance and Mr. Campanella will likely assert as a defense that Mr. Campanella complied to the best of his ability in a timely manner with the SEC's requests for documents; however, vFinance and Mr. Campanella have not filed an answer responding to the specific allegations in the Order. vFinance and Mr. Campanella intend to vigorously defend against the allegations.

On January 24, 2008, vFinance received a complaint in a civil case (Case No. 50-2008-CA-001703-XXXX-MB, 15th Judicial Circuit Court, Palm Beach County, Florida) from Harry Konig, a former employee. Mr. Konig claims that vFinance breached the employment agreement entered into with Mr. Konig on November 2, 2004, specifically with regard to the payment of his incentive compensation and the issuance of options. Mr. Konig contends that he is owed $280,000 as incentive compensation and options to purchase 350,000 shares of vFinance common stock. In addition, Mr. Konig is seeking costs and attorney's fees incurred for this action. vFinance is evaluating the merits of the claims and intends to defend vigorously against Mr. Konig's claims.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

On March 4, 2008, vFinance received a customer arbitration action (FINRA Case No. 08-00472) from Donald and Patricia Halfmann. Under FINRA's Code of Arbitration Procedure, vFinance is not required to file a responsive pleading until April 18, 2008. The Halfmanns' Statement of Claim alleges that Jeff Lafferty, a former broker working for vFinance Investments, opened accounts for the Halfmanns and misappropriated approximately $110,000 of the Halfmanns' funds via check alteration and forgery while he was employed by vFinance as the Halfmanns' financial advisor. The Halfmanns also contend vFinance is liable for an additional $150,000 for investments made by the Halfmanns directly with Jeff Lafferty after their account transferred out of vFinance and after Lafferty's resignation from vFinance, with a form U-5 filed with NASD by vFinance on August 27, 2004. Finally, the Halfmanns' Statement of Claim requests punitive damages, costs and attorney's fees incurred for this action. While vFinance intends to vigorously defend against the allegations made in the Halfmanns' Statement of Claim, a prediction of the likely outcome cannot be made at this time.

vFinance is engaged in a number of other legal proceedings incidental to the conduct of its business. These claims aggregate within the range of $80,000 to $150,000.

vFinance's business is subject to extensive regulation applicable to the securities industry in the United States and elsewhere. As a matter of public policy, regulatory bodies in the United States and the rest of the world are charged with safeguarding the integrity of the securities and other financial markets and with protecting the interests of customers participating in those markets. In the United States, the SEC is the federal agency responsible for the administration of the federal securities laws. In general, broker-dealers are required to register with the SEC under the Exchange Act. Under the Exchange Act, every registered broker-dealer that does business with the public is required to be a member of and is subject to the rules of FINRA. FINRA administers qualification testing for all securities principals and registered representatives for its own account and on behalf of the state securities authorities. vFinance Investments and EquityStation are broker-dealers registered with the SEC and members of FINRA.

vFinance's broker-dealers are also subject to regulation under state law. vFinance Investments and EquityStation are currently registered as broker-dealers in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. FINRA approved the change of ownership to or asset acquisition by vFinance, as the case may be, of (i) Union Atlantic Capital, L.C. from Pinnacle Capital Group, L.C., (ii) First Level Capital, Inc. from NWH, (iii) First Colonial Securities Group, Inc., (iv) Global and EquityStation, and (v) Sterling Financial. The federal securities laws prohibit the states from imposing substantive requirements on broker-dealers that exceed those imposed under federal law. The laws, however, do not preclude the states from imposing registration requirements on broker-dealers that operate within their jurisdiction or from sanctioning these broker-dealers who have engaged in misconduct.

The SEC, self-regulatory organizations, such as FINRA, and state securities commissions may conduct administrative proceedings that can result in censure, fine, the issuance of cease-and-desist orders, or the suspension or expulsion of a broker-dealer, its officers or its employees. The SEC and self-regulatory organization rules cover many aspects of a broker-dealer's business, including capital structure and withdrawals, sales methods, trade practices among broker-dealers, use, and safekeeping of customers' funds and securities, record-keeping, the financing of customers purchases, broker-dealer and employee registration, and the conduct of directors, officers and employees. Additional legislation, changes in rules promulgated by the SEC and self-regulatory organizations, or changes in the interpretation or enforcement of existing laws and rules, may directly affect the mode of operation and profitability of

The Uniform Net Capital Rule and FINRA rules require prior notice to the SEC and FINRA for certain withdrawals of capital and also provide that the SEC may restrict for up to 20 business days any withdrawal of equity capital, or unsecured loans or advances to stockholders, employees or affiliates if the capital withdrawal, together with all other net capital withdrawals during a 30-day period, exceeds 30% of excess net capital and the SEC concludes that the capital withdrawal may be detrimental to the financial integrity of the broker-dealer.

In addition, the Uniform Net Capital Rule provides that the total outstanding principal amount of a broker-dealer's indebtedness under certain subordination agreements, the proceeds of which are included in its net capital, may not exceed 70% of the sum of the outstanding principal amount of all subordinated indebtedness included in net capital, par or stated value of capital stock, paid in capital in excess of par, retained earnings and other capital accounts for a period in excess of 90 days. A change in the Uniform Net Capital Rule, the imposition of new rules or any unusually large charge against net capital could limit those parts of vFinance's operations that require the intensive use of capital and also could restrict its ability to pay dividends, repay debt and repurchase shares of its outstanding stock.

As of May 2, 2008, the minimum amount of net capital required to be maintained by vFinance Investments was $1,000,000 and the minimum amount of net capital required to be maintained by vFinance's wholly owned subsidiary, EquityStation, was $100,000. A significant operating loss or any unusually large charge against net capital could adversely affect vFinance's ability to expand or even maintain its present levels of business, which could have a material adverse affect on vFinance's business and operations. vFinance Investments and EquityStation are members of SIPC which provides, in the event of the liquidation of a broker-dealer, protection for clients' accounts up to $500,000, subject to a limitation of $100,000 for claims for cash balances. vFinance Investments' retail clients accounts are carried on the books and records of NFS and Legent Clearing. The client accounts for EquityStation are carried on the books and records of NFS and Penson Clearing. NFS has additional insurance from a private insurer, Customer Asset Protection Co. (CAPCO), for the full value of the customer's account in excess of the standard SIPC coverage.

Application of Laws and Rules to Internet Business and Other Online Services

Due to the increasing popularity and use of the Internet and other online services, various regulatory authorities are considering laws and/or regulations with respect to the Internet or other online services covering issues such as user privacy, pricing, content copyrights and quality of services. In addition, the growth and development of the market for online commerce may prompt more stringent consumer protection laws that may impose additional burdens on those companies conducting business online. When the Securities Act, which governs the offer and sale of securities, and the Exchange Act, which governs, among other things, the operation of the securities markets and broker-dealers, were enacted, such acts did not contemplate the conduct of a securities business through the Internet and other online services. The recent increase in the number of complaints by online traders could lead to more stringent regulations of online trading firms and their practices by the SEC, FINRA and other regulatory agencies.

Although the SEC, in releases and no-action letters, has provided guidance on various issues related to the offer and sale of securities and the conduct of a securities business through the Internet, the application of the laws to the conduct of a securities business through the Internet continues to evolve. Furthermore, the applicability to the Internet and other online services of existing laws in various jurisdictions governing issues such as property ownership, sales and other taxes and personal privacy is uncertain and may take years to resolve. Uncertainty regarding these issues may adversely affect the viability and profitability of vFinance's business.

As vFinance's services, through its subsidiaries, are available over the Internet in multiple jurisdictions, and as vFinance, through its subsidiaries, has numerous clients residing in these jurisdictions, these jurisdictions may claim that vFinance's subsidiaries are required to qualify to do business as a foreign corporation in each such jurisdiction. While vFinance Investments and EquityStation are currently registered as broker-dealers in the jurisdictions described in this prospectus, vFinance Investments, EquityStation and vFinance's non-broker dealer subsidiaries are qualified to do business as corporations in only a few jurisdictions. Failure to qualify as an out-of-state or foreign corporation in a jurisdiction where vFinance is required to do so could subject it to taxes and penalties for the failure to qualify.

In addition to the aforementioned restatement, certain reclassifications of amounts previously reported have been made to the accompanying consolidated financial statements in order to maintain consistency and comparability between periods presented.

Recent Developments

On November 7, 2007, vFinance entered into an agreement and plan of merger with National and vFin Acquisition Corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of National. Under the terms and subject to the conditions set forth in the merger agreement, vFin Acquisition Corporation will be merged with and into vFinance, the separate corporate existence of vFin Acquisition Corporation will cease and vFinance will continue as a surviving corporation of the merger and as a wholly-owned subsidiary of National.

vFinance, Inc. is a financial services company that specializes in high growth opportunities. Its three principal lines of business are: (1) offering full service retail brokerage to approximately 12,000 high net worth and institutional clients, (2) providing investment banking, merger, acquisition and advisory services to micro, small and mid-cap high growth companies, and (3) trading securities, including making markets in over 3,500 micro and small cap stocks and providing liquidity in the United States Treasury marketplace. In addition to vFinance's core business, it offers information services on its website. vFinance Investments, Inc. (vFinance Investments) and EquityStation, Inc. (EquityStation), both subsidiaries of vFinance, are broker-dealers registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), and members of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) (formerly the National Association of Securities Dealers) and Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC). vFinance Investments is also a member of the National Futures Association (NFA).

In May 2006, vFinance completed the acquisition of select assets of Sterling Financial Group (the Sterling Financial Acquisition), following the acquisition of certain assets of Global Partners Securities, Inc. (Global) and 100% of the issued and outstanding equity securities of EquityStation in November 2004 (the Global Acquisition). These acquisitions are reflected in vFinance s financial statements from their respective transaction dates, affecting the comparability of its results of operations in the years ended December 31, 2007, 2006 and 2005, as discussed in the sections that follow. See Note 4, Acquisitions, to vFinance s consolidated financial statements included in this prospectus for further information about the Sterling Financial Acquisition and the Global Acquisition.

The largest portion of vFinance s revenues, 63%, 62% and 72% in 2007, 2006 and 2005, respectively, was attributable to retail brokerage commissions and other brokerage-related income generated by its wholly owned broker-dealer subsidiaries, vFinance Investments and EquityStation. vFinance s retail brokerage operations buy and sell securities for its customers from other dealers on an agency basis, and charge its customers a commission for its services. Such commission revenue is derived from brokerage transactions in listed and over-the-counter securities and mutual fund securities. vFinance also generated 25%, 25% and 16% of our revenues through trading profits generated in its market making activities in 2007, 2006 and 2005, respectively. The majority of vFinance s remaining revenues are derived primarily from investment banking-related success and consulting fees.

vFinance reported a net loss of $1.7 million ($0.03 per basic and diluted share) in 2007, compared to $2.2 million ($0.04 per basic and diluted share) in 2006. vFinance s revenues increased $12.0 million in 2007, or 31%, principally as a result of the addition of new brokers from the Sterling Financial Acquisition and the addition of independent brokers in 2007 and 2006. Increases in compensation, commissions and benefit expenses, clearing and transaction costs and occupancy and equipment costs related to the increased revenues and the Sterling Financial Acquisition also increased. vFinance s depreciation and amortization expense also increased by $325,500 in 2007 primarily as a result of amortization expense recorded in connection with the Sterling Financial Acquisition.

vFinance reported a net loss of $2.2 million ($0.04 per basic and diluted share) in 2006, compared to $1.1 million ($0.03 per basic and diluted share) in 2005. vFinance s revenues increased $12.6 million in 2006, or 49%, principally as a result of the Sterling Financial Acquisition and improved market conditions for its investment banking and trading businesses. Increases in compensation, commissions and benefit expenses, clearing and transaction costs and occupancy and equipment costs related to the increased revenues and the Sterling Financial Acquisition partially offset these increased revenues. Additionally, we recorded $448,200 of stock-based compensation expense in 2006 compared to $19,400 in 2005, as a result of the implementation of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 123 (revised 2004), Share Based Payment (SFAS No. 123R:). Our depreciation and amortization expense also increased by $512,400 in 2006, primarily as a result of amortization expense recorded in connection with the Sterling Financial Acquisition.

Statement of Operations

The following table and discussion summarizes the changes in the major revenue and expense categories for the past three years, with 2006 and 2005 having been restated:

Results of Operations

Revenues

In 2007, total revenues increased $12.0 million, or 31%, as a result of higher agency commissions, increased trading profits and other brokerage related income, all driven primarily by the addition of new brokers in 2007 and 2006. Additionally, success fees from investment banking increased 27% or $1.2 million, primarily as a result of an increase in investment banking revenue during the fourth quarter, when we completed a substantial capital raising transaction.

In 2006, total revenues increased $12.6 million, or 49%, primarily as a result of the Sterling Financial Acquisition and more favorable market conditions. Approximately 43% of the $12.6 million increase is attributable to increased trading profits, derived from the customer relationships acquired from Sterling Financial in May 2006 and generally more favorable trading conditions in vFinance's market making activities. An additional 35% of the 2006 revenue increase resulted from higher agency commissions, attributable to the addition of new brokers, through both the Sterling Financial Acquisition and other brokers hired independently. The majority of the remaining increase was due to higher revenues from success fees relating to investment banking transactions, resulting primarily from more favorable market conditions in 2006. Non-cash revenues derived from success fees increased to $2.0 million in 2006 from $487,500 in 2005.

Operating Expenses

Compensation, Commissions and Benefits.

Compensation, commissions and benefits increased $10.5 million, or 34%, in 2007. Compensation, commissions and benefits are correlated with vFinance's revenues, primarily agency commissions, trading profits and success fees from investment banking, which increased by 28% in the aggregate in 2007. Additional increases in compensation, commissions and benefits are primarily attributable to incentive compensation provided to new brokers.

Compensation, commissions and benefits increased $10.9 million, or 54%, in 2006,

primarily as a result of increased agency commissions, trading profits and success fees from investment banking, which increased by 55% in the aggregate in 2006. vFinance also recorded $448,200 of compensation expense in connection with the adoption of SFAS No. 123R, effective January 1, 2006, compared to $19,400 recorded in 2005.

Additional increases in compensation, commissions and benefits are attributable to increased benefit costs, particularly health insurance premiums. Non-cash compensation paid increased to $1.4 million in 2006 from $158,100 in 2005.

Clearing and Transaction Costs.

Clearing and transaction costs increased $87,900 in 2007, or 2%, primarily as a result of an increase in transaction volume attributable to customer relationships acquired in the Sterling Financial Acquisition and the addition of other independent brokers, largely offset by a shift in our revenue mix to lower-cost institutional trading transactions.

Clearing and transaction costs increased $1.4 million in 2006, or 46%, primarily as a result of an increase in transaction volume attributable to customer relationships acquired in the Sterling Financial Acquisition and the addition of other independent brokers.

General and Administrative Costs.

General and administrative expenses increased $834,000 in 2007, or 26%, primarily as a result of legal fees and settlement costs associated with arbitration and litigation matters in 2007 and the expansion of our Sarbanes-Oxley and Gramm-Leach-Bliley compliance programs. Remaining increases resulted from temporary labor and other increased professional fees to support vFinance's growth.

General and administrative expenses increased $826,000 in 2006 or 35%, primarily as a result of (i) a $303,000 increase in legal fees, primarily associated with litigation and arbitration matters, (ii) $261,300 of non-cash costs associated with the issuance of equity in connection with arbitration settlements, and (iii) the forgiveness of $215,000 due from an unconsolidated affiliate.

Occupancy and Equipment Costs

Occupancy and equipment expenses decreased $113,300 in 2007, or 10%, primarily because in December 2006 vFinance subleased office space acquired under a lease assumed in connection with the Sterling Financial Acquisition.

Occupancy and equipment expenses increased $423,300 in 2006, or 57%, primarily as a result of the occupancy and equipment costs associated with the Sterling Financial Acquisition.

Depreciation and Amortization

Depreciation and amortization increased $325,500 in 2007, or 34%, primarily as a result of the amortization expense associated with the customer relationships from the Sterling Acquisition depreciation expense related to property and equipment additions, including computer equipment under capital leases.

Depreciation and amortization increased $512,400 in 2006, or 115%, primarily as a result of the amortization expense associated with the customer relationships from the Sterling Acquisition.

Goodwill Impairment

In 2005, vFinance recorded goodwill impairment charges of $420,000 to write-off goodwill from a prior period acquisition, when certain brokers left the firm and vFinance determined there was no longer value remaining in the goodwill recorded in connection with the acquisition. vFinance had no goodwill remaining at December 31, 2007 or 2006.

Income Tax Provision (Benefit)

vFinance accounts for income taxes in accordance with the provision of SFAS No. 109, Accounting for Income Taxes, which requires the recognition of deferred tax assets and liabilities at tax rates expected to be in effect when these balances reverse. Future tax benefits attributable to temporary differences are recognized to the extent that the realization of such benefits is more likely than not. vFinance has concluded that it is more likely than not that its deferred tax assets as of December 31, 2007 and 2006 will not be realized based on the scheduling of deferred tax liabilities and projected taxable income. The amount of the deferred tax assets actually realized, however, could vary if there are differences in the timing or amount of future reversals of existing deferred tax liabilities or changes in the actual amounts of future taxable income. Should vFinance determine that it will be able to realize all or part of the deferred tax asset in the future, an adjustment to the deferred tax asset will be recorded in the period such determination is made.

vFinance did not record a provision for income taxes in 2007, 2006 or 2005 as a result of the net loss it recorded in those periods.

In July 2006, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) issued Interpretation No. 48, Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes an Interpretation of FASB Statement 109 (FIN 48). This Interpretation prescribes a consistent recognition threshold and measurement standard, as well as a clear criteria for subsequently recognizing, derecognizing and measuring tax positions for financial statement purposes. The Interpretation also requires expanded disclosure with respect to uncertainties as they relate to income tax accounting. FIN 48 was effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2006. vFinance s management has evaluated all of its tax positions and determined that FIN 48 did not have a material impact on vFinance s financial position or results of operations.

Transactions With Affiliates

During 2006, vFinance recorded a $215,000 charge to write-off amounts due from an unconsolidated subsidiary, Center for Innovative Entrepreneurship (CIE), for expenses vFinance incurred on its behalf. vFinance provides office space and management and administrative services to CIE through an agreement under which vFinance should be reimbursed the costs of providing these services. vFinance accrued a receivable for reimbursements totaling $215,000 through December 31, 2006 under the expectation that CIE would generate cash flows sufficient to provide cash reimbursement. While preparing its consolidated financial statements as of and for the year ended December 31, 2006, vFinance determined that recovery of this $215,000 was unlikely, and that reimbursements for these costs in the future would be uncertain until CIE demonstrates an ability to reimburse vFinance. Accordingly, vFinance wrote-off the entire receivable balance and currently recognizes amounts reimbursed by CIE under the cost recovery method. We expect to terminate this arrangement in 2008.

Also during 2006, vFinance paid $161,900 for a 4.9% equity interest in The Cluster Competitiveness Group, S.A, a company that provides economic feasibility services. vFinance made this investment because it believed that through its relationship, it could benefit from the introduction to investment banking needs of the clients of this affiliate, and may make further investments in future periods, although vFinance has no commitment to do so.

On January 1, 2003, vFinance entered into an agreement with JSM Capital Holding Corp. (JSM), a retail brokerage operation headquartered in New York and founded by John S. Matthews (who also was, at the same time, named the President of vFinance s Retail Brokerage Division). vFinance issued JSM warrants to purchase 1.0 million shares of vFinance common stock at an exercise price of $0.20 in exchange for a 19% equity interest in JSM. The warrants were valued using the Black-Scholes valuation method, which calculated the value to be $0.08 per warrant, or $80,000 in the aggregate. In August 2005, vFinance s relationship with JSM was terminated, and vFinance fully impaired the investment in JSM in the fourth quarter of 2005, when it was determined that JSM had no remaining material assets or operations. Mr. Matthews filed an arbitration action against vFinance in connection with the termination of the relationship, which was settled in July 2007. Pursuant to the terms of the settlement agreement, vFinance paid $75,000 to Mr. Matthews in 2007 and is obligated to make further payments totaling $225,000 to Mr. Matthews. See Note 13 to its consolidated financial statements for further discussion of the arbitration action and subsequent settlement.

Historically, vFinance has satisfied its liquidity and regulatory capital needs through the issuance of equity and debt securities. As of December 31, 2007, liquid assets consisted primarily of cash and cash equivalents of $5.5 million and marketable securities of $817,400, for a total of $6.3 million, which represents a $1.1 million increase over the $5.2 million in liquid assets as of December 31, 2006. As of December 31, 2007, vFinance had long-term capital lease obligations of $297,500, net of current obligations of $247,000.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Both vFinance Investments and EquityStation are subject to the SEC Uniform Net Capital Rule (rule 15c3-1), which requires the maintenance of minimum net capital and requires that the ratio of aggregate indebtedness to net capital shall not exceed 15 to 1 (and the rule of the applicable exchange also provides that equity capital may not be withdrawn or cash dividends paid if the resulting net capital ratio would exceed 10 to 1). At December 31, 2007, vFinance Investments had net capital of $1.48 million, which was $481,700 in excess of its required net capital of $1.0 million. EquityStation had net capital of $543,400 that was $443,400 in excess of its required net capital of $100,000.

vFinance Investments' percentage of aggregate indebtedness to net capital was 289.6% in 2007. Equity Station's percentage of aggregate indebtedness to net capital was 35.8% in 2007. vFinance Investments and EquityStation qualify under the exemptive provisions of rule 15c3-3 under Section (k)(2)(ii) of the rule, as they do not carry security accounts of customers or perform custodial functions related to customer securities.

For the periods ended December 31, 2007 and 2006, vFinance had gross deferred tax assets of $5.7 million and $5.3 million, respectively, which were offset by 100% valuation allowances. The valuation allowances were recorded against certain deferred tax assets that were generated from net operating losses. In evaluating whether vFinance would recover these deferred tax assets, it has not assumed any future taxable income in the jurisdictions associated with these carry-forwards. Based on vFinance's history of generating operating losses, management believes the ability to realize the benefit of net operating loss carry-forwards to offset future taxable income is uncertain. However, future income generation and/or the use of tax planning strategies to recover these deferred tax assets could lead to the reversal of the valuation allowances and a reduction in future income tax expense. vFinance believes that its estimates for the valuation allowance are appropriate, based on current facts and circumstances.

Cash and cash equivalents increased (decreased) by $1.2 million, $(222,200) and $(828,900) during 2007, 2006 and 2005, respectively. The major components of these changes are discussed below.

Cash provided by (used in) operating activities was $1.6 million in 2007 compared to $370,900 in 2006 and $(673,300) in 2005. Cash provided by (used in) operating activities includes net income adjusted for non-cash items and the effects of changes in working capital including changes in marketable securities. Cash provided by operating activities increased by $1.3 million in 2007, primarily as a result of the decrease in vFinance's net loss in 2007 and an increase in its accrued liabilities, consisting primarily of accrued compensation paid during the first quarter of 2008.

Cash provided by operating activities was $370,900 in 2006 compared to cash used in operating activities of $673,300 in 2005, primarily as a result of a $405,200 decrease in amounts due from clearing brokers, a $285,000 decrease in accounts receivable and a $716,000 increase in accrued compensation paid during the first quarter of 2007, partially offset by a $428,000 increase in marketable securities.

Cash used in investing activities in 2007 was $106,900 compared to $384,600 in 2006 and $125,700 in 2005. Cash used in investing activities consisted of capital expenditures of $106,900, $222,700 and $125,700 in 2007, 2006 and 2005, respectively, excluding non-cash additions to property and equipment through capital leases. Cash used in investing activities in 2006 also included a $161,900 investment in an unconsolidated affiliate.

Cash used in financing activities in 2007 was $281,100 compared to $208,500 in 2006 and $29,900 in 2005. Cash used in financing activities was comprised of repayments of capital lease obligations related to new capital lease agreements for computer equipment, which vFinance entered into during 2007, 2006 and 2005.

vFinance believes cash on hand is sufficient to meet its working capital requirements over the next twelve months. However, vFinance may seek additional debt or equity financing in order to carry out its long-term business strategy. Such funding may be a result of bank borrowings, public offerings, private placements of equity or debt securities, or a combination thereof. vFinance cannot be certain that additional debt or equity financing will be available when required or, if available, that it can secure it on satisfactory terms.

Off Balance-Sheet Arrangements

vFinance was not a party to any off-balance sheet arrangements during the three years ended December 31, 2007. In particular, vFinance did not have any interest in so-called limited purpose entities, which include special purpose entities and structured finance entities.

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

This discussion and analysis of financial condition and results of operations is based on vFinance's consolidated financial statements, which have been prepared in accordance with United States generally accepted accounting principles. The preparation of these financial statements requires vFinance's management to make estimates and judgments that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenues, and expenses, as well as related disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities. vFinance evaluates its estimates on an ongoing basis and vFinance bases its estimates on historical experience and various other assumptions vFinance deem reasonable to the situation. These estimates and assumptions form the basis for making judgments about the carrying values of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. Changes in vFinance's estimates could materially impact its results of operations and financial condition in any particular period. Note 1 to vFinance's consolidated financial statements includes a summary of the significant accounting policies and methods used in the preparation of its consolidated financial statements. Based on the high degree of judgment or complexity in their application, vFinance considers its critical accounting policies and estimates to be:

Revenue Recognition. vFinance periodically receive equity instruments, which include stock purchase warrants and common and preferred stock from companies as part of compensation for investment-banking services. Primarily all such equity instruments are received from small public companies and are typically restricted as to resale, generally receiving registration rights within one year. When vFinance receive equity instruments as compensation for investment banking services, revenue is recognized based on the fair value of these instruments, in accordance with EITF 00-8 Accounting by a Grantee for an Equity Instrument to be received in Conjunction with Providing Goods or Services. vFinance recognize revenue for these stock purchase warrants when received based on the Black Scholes valuation model. The revenue recognized related to other equity instruments is determined based on available market information, discounted by a factor reflective of the expected holding period for those particular equity instruments. The actual amount of cash proceeds realized from the disposition of these securities may differ materially from the amount of revenue recorded, as a result of changes in market values between the date of receipt and the date the security is sold.

Customer Claims. In the normal course of business, vFinance's operating subsidiaries have been and continue to be the subject of numerous civil actions and arbitrations arising out of customer complaints relating to activities as a broker-dealer, as an employer and as a result of other business activities. In general, the cases involve various allegations that vFinance's employees mishandled customer accounts. Based on its historical experience and consultation with counsel, vFinance typically reserves an amount it believes will be sufficient to cover any damages assessed against it. However, vFinance has in the past been assessed damages that exceeded its reserves. If vFinance misjudged the amount of damages that may be assessed against it from pending or threatened claims or if vFinance is unable to adequately estimate the amount of damages that will be assessed against it from claims that arise in the future and reserve accordingly, its operating income would be reduced.

operations. vFinance Investments relies upon its clearing firms to provide it with these market values, because the clearing firms use market data services that provide market values of securities based on current market prices.

New Accounting Pronouncements

Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures about Market Risk

vFinance has exposure to market risk, and periodically hedges against that risk. vFinance does not hold or issue any derivative financial instruments for trading or other speculative purposes. vFinance is exposed to market risk associated with changes in the fair market value of the marketable securities that it holds. vFinance's revenue and profitability may be adversely affected by declines in the volume of securities transactions and in market liquidity, which generally result in lower revenues from trading activities and commissions. Lower securities price levels may also result in a reduced volume of transactions, as well as losses from declines in the market value of securities vFinance holds in trading and investment positions. Sudden sharp declines in market values of securities and the failure of issuers and counterparts to perform their obligations can result in illiquid markets in which vFinance may incur losses in its principal trading activities.

Security Ownership of Certain Beneficial Owners and Management of vFinance

The table below provides information regarding the beneficial ownership of vFinance common stock as of May 2, 2008. In connection with Sterling Financial's acquisition of vFinance's securities, on May 11, 2006, vFinance and vFinance Investments entered into a voting and lockup agreement with Sterling Financial, Charles Garcia, Leonard J. Sokolow and Timothy E. Mahoney. Pursuant to this agreement, Leonard J. Sokolow and Timothy E. Mahoney agreed, in their capacity as stockholders and directors, to vote for a designee of Charles Garcia to serve on vFinance's board of directors for so long as Mr. Garcia is employed by vFinance Investments and to vote for Mr. Garcia's designee to so serve for the one-year period beginning upon Mr. Garcia's departure. In connection with the execution of the Merger Agreement, National and vFin Acquisition Corporation have entered into a voting agreement with Leonard J. Sokolow and Dennis De Marchena, who own approximately 10.6% and 4.0%, respectively, of vFinance's outstanding shares of common stock as of May 2, 2008. Pursuant to the agreement, Mr. Sokolow has agreed to vote all of his shares and Mr. De Marchena has agreed to vote 2,000,000 of his shares in favor of the merger and against any transaction or other action that would interfere with the merger.

Pursuant to the Merger Agreement, Mark Goldwasser, Chairman of the board of directors of National, Christopher Dewey, Vice Chairman of the board of directors of National, and Leonard J. Sokolow, Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of the board of directors of vFinance, will enter into an agreement on the effective date of the Merger Agreement to vote their shares of National for the election of each other and up to three designees of Mr. Goldwasser and up to three designees of Mr. Sokolow until the earlier to occur of: (i) National's merger, consolidation or reorganization whereby the holders of National's voting stock own less than 50% of the voting power of National after such transaction; (ii) by mutual consent of the parties thereto; (iii) the date that Messrs. Goldwasser, Sokolow and Dewey own in the aggregate less than one percent of the outstanding voting securities of National; or (iv) upon the fifth anniversary of the agreement. Upon listing of National's common stock on AMEX, the NASDAQ Capital Market or the NASDAQ Global Market, Messrs. Goldwasser and Sokolow shall have the right to nominate persons for election to the board of directors but the board or nominating committee shall not be obligated to accept such nominees. In addition, provided that Messrs. Goldwasser and Sokolow own sufficient voting power to satisfy the voting rights requirements of the securities exchange on which National's securities are listed, they may mutually agree to designate one person to serve on National's board of directors as long as such person is reasonably satisfactory to national's board of directors or nominating committee. Further, Messrs Goldwasser's, Sokolow's and Dewey's obligation to vote their shares shall be limited to the designees of Messrs. Goldwasser and Sokolow. If all of their respective nominees are not accepted by the board or nominating committee, then Messrs. Goldwasser or Sokolow will no longer be obligated to vote for the others' nominees.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND MANAGEMENT OF NATIONAL FOLLOWING THE MERGER

National's board of directors is divided into three classes of directors, each class as nearly equal in number as possible but not less than one director. Each director serves for a three-year term, staggered by class so only one class of directors stands for reelection each year.

National Executive Compensation

Introduction

This Compensation Discussion and Analysis is intended to provide a context for the disclosures contained in this joint proxy statement/prospectus with respect to the compensation paid to National's Named Executive Officers defined. Their compensation is detailed in the tables that follow this Compensation Discussion and Analysis. Specifically, this Compensation Discussion and Analysis will explain the objectives and material elements of the compensation of National's Named Executive Officers during the fiscal year ended September 30, 2007.

National's Compensation Committee has the responsibility of developing and overseeing a comprehensive compensation philosophy, with strategies and principles that have the support of its board of directors and management, and that ensure the fair and consistent administration of our compensation program. The Compensation Committee makes recommendations to the full board of directors for approval relating to the total compensation to be paid to the National Named Executive Officers, including salary, performance bonus, equity awards, long-term awards, benefits and perquisites.

Philosophy and Objectives of Our Compensation Program

The primary objectives of the Compensation Committee are to ensure that National's executive compensation and benefits programs are structured to: attract and retain executive talent by offering compensation that is competitive with pay at other companies of a similar size in the same or similar industries; safeguard its interests and its interests of our stockholders; and cost-efficient and fair to its employees, management and stockholders.

National's Compensation Committee believes that an effective compensation program is one that provides certain incentives, while also providing a reasonable level of security to the National Named Executive Officers through competitive base salaries and bonus opportunities. To this end, National's executive compensation reflects a balance of cash and non-cash compensation. The Compensation Committee does not set a rigid target for these mixes, and the mix will necessarily vary from year to year based upon our underlying financial performance. National's incentive plans reward performance with time-based vesting in order to assist in employee retention.

Committee Purposes and Responsibilities

National's Compensation Committee carries out the duties and responsibilities set forth below. These functions serve as a guide with the understanding that the committee may determine to carry out additional functions and adopt additional policies and procedures as may be appropriate in light of changing business, legislative, regulatory, legal, or other conditions. The committee shall also carry out any other responsibilities and duties delegated to it by the National's board of directors, from time to time, related to the purposes of the Compensation Committee.

In discharging its oversight role, the committee is empowered to study or investigate any matter of interest or concern that the committee deems appropriate and shall have the sole authority to retain, without seeking board approval, outside counsel or other experts for this purpose, including the authority to approve the fees payable to such counsel or experts and any other terms of retention.

Setting Compensation for Executive Officers and Directors

Evaluate the performance of the Chief Executive Officer and other executive officers in light of those goals and objectives and, based on such evaluation, review and approve the annual salary, bonus, stock options, and other benefits, direct and indirect, of such officers.

The Committee is not precluded from approving awards (with the ratification of the board of directors) as may be required to comply with applicable tax laws, such as Rule 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code.
