BAIDU TO ACQUIRE NEW PREMISES IN BEIJING

Beijing, China, January 5, 2006 Baidu.com, Inc. (Nasdaq: BIDU), the leading Chinese language Internet search provider, recently entered into an agreement to acquire the land use right for approximately 44,000 square meters of land in Shang Di Information Industry Zone in Haidian District, Beijing. In anticipation of the continuing growth trend, Baidu plans to build a new information and technology center on the premises and move its principal executive offices, information and technology center, online marketing services center and administrative and support facilities to the new premises. The aggregate consideration for acquiring the land use right for the new premises is approximately RMB92.4 million, to be paid in installments until Baidu obtains necessary governmental approval for the proposed development and use of the land. Baidu expects to receive such approval by the end of 2006.
