ITEM 1.02. TERMINATION OF A MATERIAL DEFINITIVE AGREEMENT.

On February 20, 2013, DexCom, Inc. ( "DexCom" ) and Roche Diagnostics Operations, Inc. ( "Roche" ) and together with DexCom, the Parties ) terminated their Research and Development Agreement, dated November 1, 2011 (the Agreement ).

Pursuant to the Agreement, DexCom granted Roche the right to integrate a future generation of DexCom's continuous glucose monitoring ( CGM ) technology with Roche's next generation Accu-Chek insulin delivery system (the Integrated System ) in the United States. The Agreement required that Roche pay DexCom (a) up to $3 million upon the achievement of certain milestones set forth in the Agreement (the Milestone Payments ) and (b) up to an additional $1 million to offset a portion of DexCom's development expenses for the Integrated System. Over the course of the Agreement, DexCom received an initial payment of $0.5 million as a result of the execution of the Agreement as part of the Milestone Payments and received an additional $0.5 million as part of the Milestone Payments. DexCom also received $0.1 million to offset a portion of DexCom's development expenses for the Integrated System.

The Parties worked together for over one year to develop the Integrated System. However, development timelines to incorporate either DexCom's G4 Platinum CGM system or its next generation CGM system became extended and more costly than the Parties initially anticipated. As a result, the Parties elected to terminate the Agreement. The Parties will continue to work together with their existing distribution arrangements.
