Dear Colleagues,

This morning, we announced our fiscal year 2015 second quarter results. I'm extremely pleased with our performance and momentum as we move into the second half of the year. I encourage you to read the full summary of our Q2 financial results in our press release and financial tables.

The company reported worldwide second quarter revenue of $4.4 billion, an increase of 5 percent on a constant currency basis. Our Q2 non-GAAP diluted earnings per share were $0.96, also growing 5 percent.

In addition to the above, and as reported in our GAAP earnings, we made a $100 million pre-tax charitable cash donation to the Medtronic Foundation. As you may know, the company routinely makes contributions to fund the Medtronic Foundation's important work around the world. We took the opportunity in the second quarter to provide this multi-year funding contribution.

Overall, Q2 was a strong, balanced quarter, and we delivered revenue growth well within the range we forecasted for investors and Wall Street. Our Q2 results were also balanced from a geographic perspective, with 5 percent constant currency growth in both the U.S. and international markets.

I am particularly pleased with how we continue to execute on our three primary strategies—therapy innovation, globalization, and economic value. Across our business groups and regions, each of these strategic areas contributed to our growth this quarter.

We launched several meaningful technologies that are delivering clinical and economic value to the market and boosting our revenue growth. CVG launched the Attain® Performa quadripolar lead system in the U.S., and the Reveal LINQ miniaturized cardiac diagnostic monitor continues to deliver significant revenue growth. We also launched our new SEEQ Mobile Cardiac Telemetry System. RTG continues to execute on our Neuroscience strategy, as evidenced by our recent acquisitions of Visualase and Sapiens. We are in the process of launching a number of new Spine therapies, and in Surgical Technologies, our recently launched NuVent sinus balloon system is off to a great start. In our Diabetes Group, the strong ongoing U.S. launch of the MiniMed® 530G System with the Enlite® Sensor is driving not only solid growth in insulin pumps, but outstanding growth in continuous glucose monitoring.

In emerging markets, our globalization efforts contributed to strong results in several regions this quarter. Greater China returned to double-digit growth in Q2, and we continued impressive growth in our Middle East & Africa region, which delivered the ninth consecutive quarter of growth above 20 percent. Latin America also had a good Q2, driven by another quarter of growth exceeding 20 percent in Brazil.

Finally, we continued to grow our services and solutions portfolio by advancing strategies to provide more efficient and high value care to patients across the care continuum. Our Cath Lab Managed Services business continues to grow in Europe. We completed the acquisition of NGC Medical, a privately-held Italian-based manager of cardiovascular suites, operating rooms, and intensive care units, which will further enhance the momentum of our cath lab managed services offering. In fact, we now have almost 40 long-term agreements with hospital systems, including 21 agreements added this quarter from our NGC acquisition, which in total represent over $900 million dollars of committed revenue over an average contract period of 5 to 6 years. Cardiocom also continues to deliver strong results, with over 80,000 patients on the service, driven in part by growth in government accounts, home health providers and hospital systems.

Looking ahead, I am confident that these strategies, coupled with our increasing market diversification, will enable us to consistently deliver dependable growth.

As I communicated recently, we continue to make great progress on our proposed acquisition of Covidien. The integration teams are finalizing their post-close integration plans; we continue to receive and advance required regulatory approvals around the world; and the new leadership team that will be seated upon the closing of the transaction is collaborating to define the organizational governance and decision making model we will use in the future.

This work, while consuming for all of us, is critical to ensure we hit the ground running upon close and preserve the current momentum of both companies. As we continue these efforts, I am excited at the potential for our combined company to transform healthcare and contribute to our Mission. In the meantime, I want to reiterate that we must remain focused on delivering our commitments, and continue to operate as separate companies.

Thank you for your hard work this quarter, and for your continued passion and commitment to alleviating pain, restoring health and extending life for patients around the world.

Regards,

Omar Ishrak

Chairman and CEO
