China Fund Sues City of London Investment Group, Others Over Proxy Misrepresentations

New York, New York, April 3, 2018 The China Fund, Inc. (NYSE: CHN) (the Fund ) today announced it has sued City of London Investment Management Company Limited ( CLIM ), Barry M. Olliff, (who is the CEO of CLIM s parent company), and other defendants in federal court in New York City. The lawsuit cites the defendants misconduct in soliciting proxies to be voted at the Fund s 2018 Annual Stockholders Meeting. The Fund alleges the defendants violated the antifraud provisions of the SEC s proxy rules by disseminating proxy solicitation materials tainted by material misstatements and omissions. The Fund is asking the court to order the defendants to correct their deficient disclosures and to stop soliciting proxies until the corrective disclosures have been published. The Fund also is asking the court to invalidate all proxies obtained by the defendants before the corrective disclosures are published.

In the New York lawsuit the Fund notes that CLIM filed its own lawsuit this past Friday in a Maryland state court. CLIM is asking the Maryland court to issue an order that would effectively prevent Fund stockholders that already voted from changing their votes, and Fund stockholders that have not yet voted from voting at all.

The Fund and its board of directors intend to vigorously defend against CLIM's Maryland lawsuit, which they believe is a baseless and unprecedented attack on investor voting rights designed to deny the Fund's stockholders a full and fair vote.
