Brasil Telecom Clarifies Bovespa's Inquiry

In compliance with the request made by Bovespa – São Paulo Stock Exchange (Bolsa de Valores de São Paulo), in notice dated April 07, 2006, as transcribed below:

On 04/07/2006 by Investnews – an agency for Gazeta Mercantil disclosed, among other news, that Brasil Telecom's EBITDA margin should be approximately 33% in 2006.

We request clarifications regarding the referred news, as well as other information considered important.

Brasil Telecom S.A. (Company) clarifies that, in the APIMEC meeting held on December 19, 2005, the Company disclosed its guidance for 2006. According to presentation available in the Company's web site and filed with Bovespa and CVM – Comissão de Valores Mobiliários (Brazilian Securities and Exchange Commission) via IPE System, the Company's EBITDA margin should remain stable or be slightly lower than the one presented in the previous year, considering the negative impact incurring from the mobile operations.

Furthermore, the Company clarifies that such guidance excludes the extraordinary provisions booked in the 2nd semester of 2005.

The Company is available for any clarifications that shall be made necessary.
