Section 8 Other Events

Item 8.01 Other Events

On July 14, 2010, The Connecticut Light and Power Company (CL&P) filed with the Connecticut Department of Public Utility Control (DPUC) a request for reconsideration of certain aspects described below of the DPUC 's final Decision issued on June 30, 2010 (the Final Decision) in CL&P 's electric distribution rate case proceeding, which CL&P had filed on January 8, 2010. The DPUC had issued a Draft Decision on June 14, 2010 (the Draft Decision). CL&P is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Northeast Utilities (NU).

The Final Decision approved increases in CL&P 's distribution revenues of $63.4 million for 2010 and $38.5 million for 2011 versus the $61.1 million and $37.7 million approved in the Draft Decision, respectively, but is otherwise substantially the same as the Draft Decision.

However, the Final Decision disallowed CL&P establishing an $8.2 million regulatory asset, which related to its share of future tax benefits lost as a result of a provision in the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act of 2010 that eliminated the tax deductibility of certain post-retirement benefits other than pensions (PBOP). NU had deferred $14.6 million of such impacts on an after-tax consolidated basis in the first quarter of 2010 expecting that they would be recovered in future rates across all of its operating jurisdictions.

As a result of the Final Decision, NU will take an after-tax charge of $9.8 million in the second quarter of 2010 ($0.06 per share), representing CL&P 's and Yankee Gas Service Company 's (Yankee Gas) collective portions of the deferred amount. Yankee Gas is also a subsidiary of NU that is regulated by the DPUC and therefore is not able to assert that these costs are probable of recovery as a regulatory asset.

The Final Decision does not have any impact on NU 's expectation that recovery of amounts that have been deferred for recovery by its other two regulated subsidiaries, approximately $4.8 million, is not probable, because these subsidiaries are not regulated by the DPUC.

CL&P 's request for reconsideration concerns this aspect of the Final Decision. Should the DPUC accept CL&P 's position, both CL&P and Yankee Gas would be likely to determine that these costs would be probable of recovery and therefore re-establish these amounts as regulatory assets, which would result in a $9.8 million benefit to earnings.

On July 15, 2010, CL&P and The United Illuminating Company (UI) issued a joint news release announcing that they had filed a joint application with the DPUC seeking approval for UI's investment in and ownership of certain portions of the New England East West Solution (NEEWS) projects being constructed by CL&P.

A copy of the news release is attached herewith as Exhibit 99.

For further information concerning NEEWS, see NU's and CL&P's combined Annual Report on Form 10-K under Item 1, Business Transmission Projects and Item 7, Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations Business Development and Capital Expenditures, and their combined quarterly report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 31, 2010 under Item 7, Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations Business Development and Capital Expenditures.
