Lazard Global Total Return & Income Fund, Inc.

Investment Overview

Dear Shareholder,

We are pleased to present the Third Quarter Report for Lazard Global Total Return & Income Fund, Inc. ("LGI" or the "Fund"), for the period ended September 30, 2006. The Fund is a diversified, closed-end management investment company that began trading on the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") on April 28, 2004. Its ticker symbol is "LGI."

The Fund has been in operation for nearly two and a half years, and we are very pleased with LGI's performance thus far in 2006, and since the Fund's inception. We believe that the Fund has provided investors with an attractive yield and diversification, backed by the extensive experience, commitment, and professional management of Lazard Asset Management LLC (the "Investment Manager" or "Lazard").

Portfolio Update (as of September 30, 2006)

For the third quarter of 2006, the Fund's Net Asset Value per share ("NAV") performance increased 6.0%, comfortably outperforming the Morgan Stanley Capital International (MSCI®) World® Index, which returned 4.5%. Similarly, the year-to-date and one year NAV returns of 14.7% and 17.0% respectively, are well ahead of the benchmark returns of 10.8% and 14.2%, respectively. Since inception, the Fund's annualized NAV return of 14.6%, compares favorably to the benchmark's return of 13.1%. Shares of LGI ended the third quarter of 2006 with a market price of $21.13, representing an 8.7% discount to the Fund's NAV of $23.14. The Fund's net assets were $222.3 million as of September 30, 2006, with total leveraged assets of $311.0 million, representing 28.5% leverage.

We believe that LGI's investment thesis remains sound, as demonstrated by the Fund's favorable NAV performance this year and since inception. Third quarter performance was affected primarily by stock selection in financials. In addition, returns for the smaller, short-duration¹ currency and debt portion of the Fund were up moderately over the third quarter, and have been a positive contributor to performance in 2006 and since inception.

As of September 30, 2006, 66.0% of the Fund's total leveraged assets consisted of global equities and 33.0% consisted of emerging markets currency and debt instruments, while the remaining 1.0% consisted of cash and other assets.

Declaration of Dividends

Pursuant to LGI's managed distribution policy, the Fund's Board of Directors has declared a monthly dividend distribution of $0.1042 per share on the Fund's outstanding stock each month since inception. The first dividend was paid on July 23, 2004. However, in September 2006, the Fund distributed $0.1637 per share (57% higher than the usual declared monthly distribution), representing payment of the Fund's 2005 spillback distribution (pursuant to Section 855 of the Internal Revenue Code). The payment was in lieu of the regular monthly dividend, and constituted long-term capital gains realized between November 1, 2005 and December 31, 2005. Inclusive of the September distribution, dividends paid by the Fund in the last 12 monthly periods represent an annualized market yield of 6.2% based on the share price of $21.13 at the close of NYSE trading on September 30, 2006.

Message from the Portfolio Managers

Global Equity Portfolio

(66.0% of total leveraged assets)

The Fund's equity portfolio is invested primarily in equity securities of large, well-known global companies with strong financial productivity at attractive valuations. Examples include GlaxoSmithKline, a global, research-based pharmaceutical company based in the United Kingdom; Bank of America, a holding company that provides banking and non-banking financial services and products in the U.S. and internationally; Nokia Corp., the Finnish manufacturer of mobile telephones, enhanced communicators, entertainment and gaming devices, and media and imaging telephones; and Total SA, the French-based energy supplier that explores for, produces, refines, transports, and markets oil and natural gas.

Companies held in the global equity portfolio are all based in developed-market regions around the world. As of September 30, 48.5% of these stocks were based in North America, 22.9% were from Continental Europe (not including the U.K.), 18.5% were from the U.K., and 10.1% were from Japan. The global equity portfolio is similarly well diversified across a number of industry sectors. The top two sectors, by weight, at September 30, were financials (31.2%), which includes banks, insurance companies, and financial services companies, and information technology (19.8%), a sector that encompasses industries involved in the design, development, installation, and implementation of information systems and applications, including hardware, software, IT services, and media-related companies. Other sectors in the portfolio include consumer discretionary, consumer staples, energy, health care, industrials, and telecommunications services. The average dividend yield on the global equity portfolio was approximately 2.2% at September 30.

Global Equity Market Review

Markets posted solid gains during the third quarter of 2006, after a sharp decline in May and early June over concerns about accelerating inflation and fears that the Federal Reserve ("Fed") would continue its course of tight monetary policy. The third quarter rebound was spurred by the Fed's decision to again leave the benchmark Fed Funds rate unchanged, at 5.25% . It was the second consecutive "no-change" after 17 consecutive increases. The Fed cited moderating growth and a cooling housing market as factors contributing to its decision to leave rates unchanged. Investors also cheered the recent 20% retracement in energy prices, from record levels, as the geopolitical landscape in the world's major oil-producing region improved, and supply concerns waned, boosting consumer confidence. Although the market did rise, overall, during the quarter, it wasn't without a few pullbacks, as investors wavered on the outlook for inflation and Fed actions. Yet, in general, it appears that economic growth remains healthy, albeit slowing, as inflation seems to be contained, and lower energy costs and a slowing housing market should help keep inflation in check. From a sector perspective, defensive groups such as telecom services, health care, consumer staples, and utilities outperformed. Technology stocks also significantly outperformed, following an extended period of lagging the broad market. Financials also performed well, particularly the large financial stocks with exposure to capital markets, as they continue to benefit from robust activity in mergers and acquisitions, initial public offerings, and securities trading. Conversely, industrial and materials stocks lagged, as these more cyclical sectors were hurt by fears of slowing growth, particularly in housing, and a decline in commodity prices. Energy stocks also declined, as the price of oil made a considerable pullback from record levels in July. From a regional perspective, U.S. stocks outperformed modestly, helped by the strength in technology, while European markets continued their solid performance. Japanese stocks lagged materially, as recent economic reports have been weaker than expected, calling into question the sustainability of the long-awaited economic recovery. In addition, the election of a new prime minister created uncertainty about the future pace of economic reform.

What Helped and What Hurt LGI

The portfolio benefited from an overweight position and solid stock selection in the technology sector, after shares of Cisco, a large networking company, rose sharply. The company reported earnings that exceeded analysts' expectations, due to broad-based strength across its business lines. Also within technology, shares of one of the portfolio's largest positions, Microsoft, rallied after the company's tender offer received fewer shares than had been anticipated, suggesting that investors may be ascribing a higher valuation to the company. Stock selection in energy also boosted returns, as more diversified holdings defended well in the weakness versus companies more leveraged to oil prices. Stock selection in financials hurt returns, as shares of Nomura Holdings, Inc. declined, based on concerns that earnings may be hurt by a slowing global and domestic economy. Part of our thesis for owning this Japanese bank is the beneficial leverage the banks will obtain from rising interest rates in Japan. However, the slower-than-expected rises in interest rates has led to a fall in the share prices of banks in Japan.

Emerging Market Currency and Debt Portfolio (33.0% of total leveraged assets)

The Fund also seeks enhanced income through investing in high-yielding, short-duration (typically, under one-year) emerging market forward currency contracts and local currency debt instruments. As of September 30, this portfolio consisted primarily of forward currency contracts (85.1%), and a smaller allocation to sovereign debt obligations (10.1%) and structured notes (4.8%) . The average duration of the emerging market currency and debt portfolio was approximately 4.4 months, as of September 30, with an average yield of 8.7% .2

At September 30, the Fund's emerging market currency and debt holdings were highly diversified across 30 countries within Asia (26.5%), Latin America (22.0%), Africa (19.7%), Eastern Europe (16.0%), the Commonwealth of Independent States and Baltic countries (8.8%), and the Middle East (7.0%) .

Emerging Market Currency and Debt Market Review

In the third quarter of 2006, some of the themes affecting performance with emerging market currencies included U.S. growth and inflation data, the sustainability of China's investment-led growth and its foreign exchange policy, global liquidity conditions, the direction of commodity price movements, and International Monetary Fund's and the G7 countries' views on global imbalances. Countries characterized by uncertain domestic policy or shaky macroeconomic fundamentals (such as large current account deficits) saw currencies become increasingly sensitive to global investor sentiment.

While emerging market central banks are in different stages of their monetary policy cycles, most are on hold or tightening (though exceptions do exist such as Brazil and Indonesia which are easing). The sustainability of each country's balance of payments is an important indicator for future directional money market pressure and the potential for heightened volatility. The investment team is closely monitoring the effect that changes in foreign-investor risk appetite may have on specific local markets, and seeking to adjust exposure in the Fund's emerging markets currency and debt portfolio accordingly. The reliance of a country on foreign portfolio capital inflows is an important factor. Large current account deficits can often create vulnerabilities for the local currency, with some countries particularly dependent on whimsical foreign financing sources, as opposed to more stable foreign direct investment or overseas worker remittance inflows.

What Helped and What Hurt LGI

Money market returns (in U.S. dollar terms) were positive across all emerging market regions, except for Africa, during the third quarter of 2006. The third quarter's top performing local markets were those most negatively impacted during the second quarter's equity-driven capital outflow. Specifically, robust gains were reaped from recoveries in Turkey, the Philippines, and Colombian local markets, all of which suffered materially in the second quarter.

Lazard Global Total Return & Income Fund, Inc.

Asia remains the portfolio's heaviest regional weighting. This exposure helped returns, with good country selection in top-performing India, Indonesia, and the Philippines, as relatively high local-market yields and equity market inflows supported appreciating currencies. Latin American exposure also helped returns with powerful rallies in Colombia, Brazil, and Mexico, all rebounding from oversold levels during the May/June market turbulence. Within Europe, positions in Romania and Poland added value, and the Slovak money market also did well. Commonwealth of Independent States/Baltic exposures were a positive contributor with the Ukraine and Russia returning the most, while the depreciation of Kazak's tenge detracted modestly from returns. In the Middle East/Africa region, Turkey was the top performer, and Egyptian T-Bills posted a consistent quarterly return. Conversely, four African markets detracted from returns, mostly explained by the correlated decline of the Botswana pula with the South African rand, on its economic and policy linkages. The portfolio had no exposure to the rand until late in September, at which point it initiated a 1% position, after the rand's precipitous fall since May. South Africa's external deficit has likely peaked, and should improve going forward, on reduced cost of energy imports and slowing domestic demand. While volatility remains high, and money market sentiment uncertain, the rand's current valuation is more compelling than it's been at any time over the past few years.

Notes to Investment Overview:

- 1 A measure of the average cash weighted term-to-maturity of the investment holdings. Duration is a measure of the price sensitivity of a bond to interest rate movements. Duration for a forward currency contract is equal to its term-to-maturity.
- 2 The quoted yield does not account for the implicit cost of borrowing on the forward currency contracts, which would reduce the yield shown.

Dividend Reinvestment Plan

(unaudited)

Unless you elect to receive distributions in cash (i.e., opt-out), all dividends, including any capital gain distributions, on your Common Stock will be automatically reinvested by Computershare Shareholder Services, Inc., as dividend disbursing agent (the "Plan Agent"), in additional Common Stock under the Fund's Dividend Reinvestment Plan (the "Plan"). You may elect not to participate in the Plan by contacting the Plan Agent. If you do not participate, you will receive all distributions in cash, paid by check mailed directly to you by the Plan Agent.

Under the Plan, the number of shares of Common Stock you will receive will be determined on the dividend or distribution payment date, as follows:

- (1) If the Common Stock is trading at or above net asset value at the time of valuation, the Fund will issue new shares at a price equal to the greater of (i) net asset value per Common Share on that date or (ii) 95% of the Common Stock's market price on that date.
- (2) If the Common Stock is trading below net asset value at the time of valuation, the Plan Agent will receive the dividend or distribution in cash and will purchase Common Stock in the open market, on the NYSE or elsewhere, for the participants' accounts. It is possible that the market price for the Common Stock may increase before the Plan Agent has completed its purchases. Therefore, the average purchase price per share paid by the Plan Agent may exceed the market price at the time of valuation, resulting in the purchase of fewer shares than if the dividend or distribution had been paid in Common Stock issued by the Fund. The Plan Agent will use all dividends and distributions received in cash to purchase Common Stock in the open market within 30 days of the valuation date. Interest will not be paid on any uninvested cash payments.

You may withdraw from the Plan at any time by giving written notice to the Plan Agent. If you withdraw or the Plan is terminated, you will receive whole shares in your account under the Plan and you will receive a cash payment for any fraction of a share in your account. If you wish, the Plan Agent will sell your shares and send you the proceeds, minus an initial $15 service fee plus $0.12 per share being liquidated (for processing and brokerage expenses).

The Plan Agent maintains all stockholders' accounts in the Plan and gives written confirmation of all transactions in the accounts, including information you may need for tax records. Shares of Common Stock in your account will be held by the Plan Agent in non-certificated form. Any proxy you receive will include all Common Stock you have received under the Plan.

There is no brokerage charge for reinvestment of your dividends or distributions in newly-issued shares of Common Stock. However, all participants will pay a pro rata share of brokerage commissions incurred by the Plan Agent when it makes open market purchases.

Automatically reinvesting dividends and distributions does not mean that you do not have to pay income taxes due upon receiving dividends and distributions.

If you hold your Common Stock with a brokerage firm that does not participate in the Plan, you will not be able to participate in the Plan and any dividend reinvestment may be effected on different terms than those described above. Consult your financial advisor for more information.

The Fund reserves the right to amend or terminate the Plan if, in the judgment of the Board of Directors, the change is warranted. There is no direct service charge to participants in the Plan (other than the service charge when you direct the Plan Agent to sell your Common Stock held in a dividend reinvestment account); however, the Fund reserves the right to amend the Plan to include a service charge payable by the participants. Additional information about the Plan may be obtained from the Plan Agent at P.O. Box 43010, Providence, Rhode Island 02940-3010.
