SEC Reviews Complete, SWIM Shareholder Meeting Set

This week, we took a few steps closer to completion of the thinkorswim acquisition.

The SEC has completed its review of the registration statement, which means thinkorswim will be mailing its proxy to shareholders in advance of their shareholder meeting, set for June 9. We hope to be able to close the deal very quickly after the meeting, assuming all additional regulatory approvals and other conditions have been satisfied.

We will continue to keep you updated on this process.

As always, we want to address your questions and concerns about the integration. To the right, you'll find a Submit Question link. Just click on the green box and send us your question. We'll address as many questions as possible in future issues.

Below are a few questions we've received so far:

Q: Once the working teams are solidified, can thinkorswim leadership publish resource usage that will be needed for the integration?

A: The Integration Team, along with various T2 (TD AMERITRADE's technology group) and thinkorswim resource managers, are working on a comprehensive resource planning process to accurately understand the resource needs for the integration.

Q: How can everyone learn about the products and services of both companies?

A: One easy way for Associates of both firms to educate themselves is by visiting the thinkorswim, TD AMERITRADE and Investools web sites, where you will find useful information about the products and services of both firms. We are also holding demonstrations and culture sharing events at various offices across the country.

Q: How will TD AMERITRADE clients access the thinkorswim trading platform?

A: After close, select clients will be invited to access a web page on the TD AMERITRADE secure site where they will see a description of modified thinkorswim software, which will be able to work with their TD AMERITRADE account, and a link where they can download the application. More information about the modified thinkorswim trading platform will be shared in an upcoming Integration Update.
