Cingular Participants in SERP and Deferred Compensation
All retired/inactive Participants in SERP and Deferred Compensation

I am writing to alleviate any concerns or anxiety that you may have with respect to your accrued BellSouth retirement benefits as a result of BellSouth's proposed merger with AT&T.

If you are retired, you will continue to receive your pension benefits, and will continue to be entitled to your 401(k) balances, in accordance with the terms of those plans. If you are not yet retired, you will continue to be entitled to your vested, accrued pension benefits and accumulated 401(k) balances upon your retirement or other separation of employment from BellSouth or, after completion of the merger the surviving company, in accordance with the plans terms. Since the company's pension and 401(k) plans and trusts are tax-qualified, the assets in those trusts are protected and set aside from the claims of all of the company's creditors. Also, BellSouth's pension trusts are well-funded.

Of course, following closing, all decisions regarding these retirement benefit plans will be made by AT&T. However, no future decisions can reduce your existing rights to payment of your vested and accrued pension benefits. After the merger, the benefits under the pension and 401(k) plans will continue to be protected from the claims of the company's creditors. This protection will continue even if, over time, BellSouth's pension and 401(k) plans are integrated into similar plans maintained by AT&T.

In addition to your pension and 401(k) benefits, you are probably wondering whether, as a result of the merger, there will be any changes in the status of benefits under BellSouth's nonqualified supplemental pension plan (known as SERP) and the various nonqualified deferred compensation plans. These benefits represent binding obligations of BellSouth. Participants in these plans have the rights of a general, unsecured creditor of the company. Following BellSouth's merger with AT&T, vested and accrued benefits under these plans will remain binding obligations of the successor company without change.

A number of years ago, BellSouth established several trusts (so called rabbi trusts) to secure these nonqualified benefits. The rabbi trusts are irrevocable, and their assets are maintained separate and apart from the company's assets. The trusts are presently funded with assets valued at approximately $1.65 billion, which represents the approximate present value of the company's obligations under these nonqualified benefit plans. The assets held in the rabbi trusts generally may not be used by the company for any purpose other than to pay plan benefits. However, as required by law, these assets remain subject to the claims of the company's creditors upon insolvency or bankruptcy.

Accordingly, you and all of the participants in these benefit plans may feel comfortable that the benefits promised under these plans should be paid to you as you become eligible to receive payments under each individual plan's terms. If you have any questions, you may call the BellSouth Benefits Service Center at 800-528-1232.

Sincerely,

Dick Sibbernsen

Vice President, Human Resources

BellSouth Corporation
