Item 8.01. Other Events.

Watts Water Technologies, Inc. (the "Company") previously reported that the California Superior Court had made a summary adjudication ruling that Zurich American Insurance Company ("Zurich") must pay all reasonable defense costs incurred by the Company in the case of Armenta vs. James Jones Company (the "Armenta case") since April 23, 1998 as well as the Company's future defense costs in the Armenta case until its final resolution. The Company further disclosed that Zurich had appealed this ruling and that its appeal was pending before the California Court of Appeal. On August 24, 2004, the California Court of Appeal affirmed the summary adjudication ruling of the California Superior Court, which requires Zurich to pay the Company's defense costs in the Armenta case. Although Zurich has a right to petition the California Supreme Court to review the decision of the California Court of Appeal, management and counsel do not anticipate that the decision of the California Court of Appeal will be modified by any such further appeal. Zurich's obligation to pay future defense costs could be affected by future developments in the Armenta case.

For more information on the Armenta case, please see Part I, Item 1, "Product Liability, Environmental and Other Litigation Matters" of the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2003.
