THERMO ELECTRON REEVALUATING TERMS OF SPECTRA-PHYSICS TENDER OFFER

WALTHAM, Mass., September 26, 2001 - Thermo Electron Corporation (NYSE:TMO) announced today that it is delaying the commencement of its cash tender offer for shares of its Spectra-Physics Inc. (NASDAQ:SPLI) subsidiary while it reevaluates the offer price of $20.00 per share. The company is taking this action in order to analyze the impact on Spectra-Physics of the worsening economic conditions associated with the recent terrorist attacks. Thermo Electron expects to complete this analysis in the next four to six weeks. The revised tender offer commencement date and any change to the offer price will be announced at that time. Thermo Electron had planned to initiate a tender offer by the end of September for all outstanding shares of Spectra-Physics common stock held by minority shareholders.

Thermo Electron Corporation is a global leader in providing technology-based instruments, components, and systems that offer total solutions for markets ranging from life sciences to telecommunications to food, drug, and beverage production. The company's powerful technologies help researchers sift through data to make discoveries that will fight disease or prolong life. They allow manufacturers to fabricate critical components required to increase the speed and quality of communications. And they automatically monitor and control online production to ensure that quality standards are met safely and efficiently. Thermo Electron, based in Waltham, Massachusetts, reported $2.3 billion in revenues in 2000 and employs approximately 12,000 people worldwide. For more information on Thermo Electron, visit <http://www.thermo.com>.
