COMPENSATION COMMITTEE REPORT

The Compensation Committee of the Board of Directors makes recommendations to the Board of Directors for approval regarding the compensation of the Company's named executive officers and reviews compensation of the Company's employees as a whole. Executive officers who are directors, namely Messrs. Linden and Mortimore, do not participate in decisions involving any element of their respective compensation. Each member of the Compensation Committee is independent as defined by applicable law and the Nasdaq Stock Market listing standards. It is the responsibility of the Compensation Committee to determine whether in its judgment the executive compensation policies are reasonable and appropriate and effectively serve the best interests of the Company and its Shareholders.

Compensation Philosophy and Policies for Executive Officers

The Compensation Committee believes that the primary objectives of the Company's executive compensation policies should be:

- * to attract and retain talented executives by providing compensation that is, overall, highly competitive with the compensation provided to executives at companies of comparable position in the health care information technology industry, while maintaining compensation within levels that are consistent with the Company's annual budget, financial objectives and operating performance;
- * to provide appropriate incentives for executives to work toward the achievement of the Company's annual financial performance and business goals based on the Company's annual budget; and
- * to more closely align the interests of the executive officers with those of the Shareholders and the long-term interests of the Company by providing long-term incentive compensation in the form of stock options or other equity based long-term incentive compensation.

The Compensation Committee reviews executive compensation policies annually taking into consideration the Company's financial performance, its annual budget and its position within the health care information technology industry, as well as the executive compensation policies of similar companies in the same industry.

The Compensation Committee believes that in addition to corporate performance, it is appropriate in setting and reviewing executive compensation to consider the level of experience and responsibilities of each executive officer as well as the personal contributions a particular individual may make to the success of the corporate enterprise.

Compensation of Named Executive Officers

The Compensation Committee believes that the compensation of executive officers should be comprised of base salary, annual incentive and discretionary bonuses, and long-term compensation and has applied the policies described herein to fiscal 2003 compensation for executive officers as described below.

Base Salary. The Compensation Committee determined on the basis of its experience in business generally, of discussions with the Chief Executive Officer, and with the Company, specifically, what it viewed to be appropriate levels of base salary after taking into consideration the contributions of each executive officer and the performance of the Company. In making its review, the Compensation Committee determined that an increase in base salary for the Chief Executive Officer, Richard A. Linden, from $200,000 per annum to $225,000 per annum was appropriate, and presented its recommendation to the Board of Directors which approved such increase in base salary. In addition, the role of the Company's Chief Strategist, William C. Mortimore, was changed at the end of the 2003 fiscal year at the request of such executive officer and, as a result, the base salary of such executive officer was adjusted from $175,000 per annum to $100,000 per annum, which adjustment was approved by the Board of Directors. In March 2003, the Compensation Committee recommended to the Board of Directors an increase in the base salary of its Chief Financial Officer, Scott T. Veech, from $150,000 to $160,000 per annum and an increase in the base salary of its Senior Vice President, Operations and Product Innovation, David M. Noshay, from $120,000 to $127,500 per annum, each of which increase was approved by the Board of Directors. Also see the discussion of employment agreements entered into in 2004 under the heading "Compensation of Directors and Executive Officers."

Annual Incentive Bonuses. In addition to discretionary bonuses, the Compensation Committee believes that there should be a program for annual incentive bonuses based on the Company's operating performance in relation to predetermined objectives and individual executive officer performance for the year then ended. To achieve this link with regard to current fiscal year performance, for fiscal 2003, the Compensation Committee relied on cash bonuses awarded under the Profit Sharing Bonus Plan under which cash awards could be earned by the executive officers based upon a comparison of revenue growth, expense management and earnings per share of the Company compared with targets for such categories approved by the Board of Directors on recommendation by the Executive Committee at the beginning of the fiscal year.

Long-Term Incentive Compensation. Stock options, contributions under the Company's 401(k) Profit Sharing Plan and the availability of stock pursuant to the Company's Employee Stock Purchase Plan are the principal vehicles for payment of intermediate and long-term incentive compensation. The 401(k) Profit Sharing Plan, which is based on a calendar year, provides for a matching contribution by the Company of fifty percent (50%) of base pay up to two and one half percent (2.5%) of base pay.

The Company has no set policy as to when stock options should be awarded, although historically the Company has awarded stock options to its executive officers annually. The Compensation Committee believes that the Company should continue to make it a part of its regular executive compensation policies to consider granting awards of stock options to executive officers to provide long-term incentives as part of the compensation package that is reviewed annually for each executive officer. The Company's stock option agreements generally have provided that the exercise price of each stock option was the closing price on the date on which the options were granted; each grant was subject to vesting conditions established at the date of the grant; and stock options vested on an equal basis over a period of four (4) years. The Compensation Committee's practice is that the material terms of stock options for executive officers should not be amended after grant. Historically, upon approval of the Board of Directors, the Compensation Committee has awarded options intended to be incentive stock options, rather than non-qualified options to its executive officers.

The Compensation Committee believes that long-term stock-based incentive compensation should be structured so as to closely align the interests of the executive officers with the interests of the Company's Shareholders and, in particular, to provide only limited value (if any) in the event that the Company's stock price fails to increase over time. The Compensation Committee recommends for the approval of the Board of Directors the award of stock option grants to the executive officers and takes into account the recommendations of the Chief Executive Officer, prior to its recommendation to the Board of Directors, the approval of annual awards of long-term stock-based incentive compensation to the other executive officers. These stock options are granted, in part, to reward the executive officers for their long-term strategic management of the Company and to motivate the executive officers to improve Shareholder value by increasing this component of their compensation package, and reflect the Compensation Committee's objective to provide a greater portion of compensation for executive officers in the form of long-term equity based awards.

During February 2003, on recommendation by the Compensation Committee, the Board of Directors awarded each of Messrs. Veech and Noshay 10,000 options. During November 2003, on recommendation by the Compensation Committee, the Board of Directors made a special award of 25,000 stock options to each of Messrs. Veech and Noshay as an incentive in connection with the internal reorganization of the Company and the increased responsibilities of such officers.

Compensation of Chief Executive Officer

The Compensation Committee believes that the compensation of the Chief Executive Officer is consistent with its general policies concerning executive compensation and is appropriately taking into consideration the Company's financial objectives and performance. Awards of long-term incentive compensation to the Chief Executive Officer are considered concurrently with awards to other executive officers and follow the same general policies as such other intermediate and long-term incentive compensation.

In February 2003, based on the recommendation of the Compensation Committee, the Board of Directors awarded the Chief Executive Officer 100,000 options in recognition of his performance results for the fiscal year 2002. In May 2003, on recommendation of the Compensation Committee, the Board of Directors awarded the Chief Executive Officer a discretionary bonus in the amount of $25,000 in recognition of his performance results for the first quarter of fiscal year 2003. In reviewing and approving the Chief Executive Officer's fiscal 2003 compensation, the Compensation Committee determined that his base salary should be increased, as noted above, and by its recommendation to the Board of Directors in awarding the Chief Executive Officer an annual bonus of $43,200, which recommendation was approved by the Board of Directors, determined that the Chief Executive Officer had achieved virtually all of his targeted goals for 2003.

Compliance with Internal Revenue Code Section 162(m)

Edgar Filing: MERGE TECHNOLOGIES INC - Form DEF 14A

The Compensation Committee also considers the potential impact of Section 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), which generally disallows a tax deduction to publicly held companies for compensation exceeding $1,000,000 in any taxable year paid to the Chief Executive Officer and any other executive officers. Under Code regulations, qualifying performance-based compensation will not be subject to the deduction limit if certain requirements are met. The Compensation Committee considers that its primary goal is to design compensation strategies that further the best interests of the Company and its Shareholders. To the extent they are consistent with that goal, the Compensation Committee attempts, where practical, to use compensation policies and programs that preserve the deductibility of compensation expenses.

- * Provide sufficient opportunity at all meetings of the audit committee for the independent auditors to meet with the members of the audit committee without members of management present. ("Nasdaq"), or other principal exchange on which the Company's securities are traded, relating to audit committee members, as amended from time to time and as interpreted by the Board in its business judgment, within the time frames established in the rules, regardless of whether such rules would otherwise be applicable to the Committee. The Committee shall establish and maintain practices to provide reasonable assurance of the Company's compliance with the Nasdaq or other applicable rules relating to audit committee members.

- * Establish a policy that is disseminated throughout the Company which provides that any employee of the Company may inform any officer or director of the Company of any complaints concerning, or the occurrence of any activity which the employee believes relates to, misleading accounting, internal accounting or auditing matters.
